CASTORIA

Fletcher's Castoria is strictly a remedy for Infants and Children. Foods are specially prepared for babies. A baby's medicine is even more essential for Baby. Remedies primarily prepared for grown-ups are not interchangeable. It was the need of a remedy for the common ailments of Infants and Children that brought Castoria before the public after years of research, and no claim has been made for it that its use for over 30 years has not proven.

What is CASTORIA?

Castoria is a harmless substitute for Castor Oil, Paregoric, Drops and Soothing Syrups. It is pleasant. It contains neither Opium, Morphine nor other narcotic substance. Its age is its guarantee. For more than thirty years it has been in constant use for the relief of Constipation, Flatulency, Wind Colic and Diarrhoea; allaying Feverishness arising therefrom, and by regulating the Stomach and Bowels, aids the assimilation of Food; giving healthy and natural sleep. ## OF INTEREST TO WOMEN

USE UP SCRAPS.

Scraps of Oilcloth.

With the leftovers, after cutting the oilcloth to fit the kitchen table, you can save laundering on table linen, at least two bibs, and perhaps a tray cloth, a week. Cut one of the leftover pieces oblong and the other round. Bind each with navy blue linen by machine. The round piece, which by the way should be as large as possible, is baby's plate dolly and the oblong piece after two strings of navy blue have been added, becomes his bib. This table set can always be cleaned with no trouble at all, and lay look really charming for a bit of stenciling.

Scraps of Scrim.

Often one has bits of scrim left after making curtains. One generally lays them away in a drawer. By and by the curtains are washed and the flowers in them have faded and there is that remnant left in the drawer without any kind of its own bright color. Do not lay away what is left over. Make a summer dresser cover out of it. If you have enough to get more than this out of the leftover piece, construct a small pasteboard waste basket and cover it with the scrim. Such little touches are of the economical and thoughtfully improving kind.

CREPE DE CHINE.

Crepe de chine continues to be one of the most sought after fabrics for summer frocks. It is used in all colors and for all occasions.

It is not one of the materials that are good when cheap. Even economical women insist upon getting the best quality, for they know that it lasts for several seasons.

In dark blue it forms the basis of a practical wardrobe. It is rarely used in black. In white and in the pastel shades it serves for evening and especially afternoon frocks for young girls.

HOW TO MAKE FUDGE.

Two cupfuls granulated sugar, one-third cupful condensed milk, one-third cupful of water, one-quarter cupful of butter, one and one-half squares of chocolate, or cocoa, one teaspoonful of vanilla. Boil the sugar with milk and water until it forms a soft ball when dropped in water, stirring vigorously every few minutes, add the butter and let it boil up; remove from fire, add chocolate, let stand undisturbed until cooled; then add the vanilla and beat until it begins to sugar. Pour into a pan lined with wax paper, to stand until cooled somewhat; cut into symmetrical shapes with a cutter or sharp-edged tube, or mark into squares.

UNUSUAL HAT PINS.

Hat pins are little things and almost non-essential except on windy days, but put the wrong hat pin—even the littlest, plainest one—into a hat and the whole effect is spoiled, and the hat pin is proved, after all, to be of great importance. So if one must wear hat pins they should be chosen with the greatest care.

Small, inconspicuous gold hat pins are attractive in a plain sailor hat of light color, and gunmetal ones are suitable for hats of darker hue. But for summer hats in all their glory of many colors new and original hat pins have been devised. These are of enamel and represent flowers or butterflies or

MOVEMENTS OF THE STARS IN FILM LAND

Theda Bara has completed a picture entitled "La Belle Russe," of which David Belasco is the author. The actress has a double role, that of a woman of the vampire type and that of a girl whose characteristics are modesty, sweetness and self-sacrifice.

As the Eminent Authors' Company is so closely identified with Goldwyn, it is of interest to note that the first pictures it will produce are Rupert Hughes' "Cup of Fury," Gertrude Atherton's "Perch of the Devil," Leroy Scott's "Partners of the Night," Mary Roberts Hinehart's "The Amazing Interlude," Basil King's "The Street Called Straight," and Rex Beach's "The Girl from Outside."

Dorothy Phillips, Allen Holubar and Monroe Salisbury dined at the home of a prominent Los Angeles society matron recently.

"What a jewel of a butler you have! He must have had many years' experience," said Miss Phillips to her hostess.

"Not at all," that lady replied. "I learned recently that all he knows he learned from the movie butlers."

Eddie Barry assigned to play a leading part in a war comedy, was hit in the eye by a Roman candle and his injuries will necessitate his taking a short vacation.

When Earle Rodney, Ethel Lynne, William Beaudine, Ward Hayes and Ted Mull of the Christie Studio, purchased oil stock in Texas, they only expected 50 barrels a day. A short time after all of the purchasers were walking around the studio on thin air. They had received a telegram stating that the new company had struck so much oil there wasn't enough barrels to put it in. Rodney said he was still feeling "well," but the matter was still a little too "deep" for him, all of which made him feel rather "bored." The actors came down to earth only when it turned out that Fred Hueston wrote the telegram of good news on the office typewriter.

fruits; some are quite large, but their chief charm lies in the fact that one can find hat pins to harmonize with almost any hat trimming, and avoid a jarring note. What could be more charming than a little coral rose nestling in the midst of the flowers on a hat?

ing. Wounded eleven times, he survived three gas attacks and now wears a galaxy of decorations. Besides the ribbon of the Legion of Honor, he won the Croix de Guerre, the D. O. M. from the British government, was thrice cited for bravery and is authorized to wear the uniform of a captain as long as he lives.

Edward Dillon, who directs George Walsh, will be careful hereafter as to his demands for "more pep" when staging battling scenes with the Fox star. The filming of Walsh's latest photoplay, "Putting One Over," calls for a scene in which one of the actors swings a chair in the air and brings it down on the head of the athletic Mr. Walsh. Before starting the scene, Walsh requested his opponent to be careful when bringing the chair down, as it was a pretty heavy one. The actor observed Walsh's instructions—but Dillon was dissatisfied. "More pep," he called out. "Give us a regular swing. You don't need to hurt him, but let fly and hold it back when it nears George's head!" The fellow undertook to follow this instruction and swung the chair with great vigor, but brought it down on the head of Walsh with an ominous thud. George went down for the count, and it was fully five minutes before he was able to ask what had hit him and where. The actor required considerable assurance of protection and forgiveness before he would consent to face Walsh.

The Famous Players-Lasky Corporation has purchased Maurice Tourneur's spectacular production of the Drury Lane Melodrama "The White Feather" and will release it the latter part of June as a Paramount Aircraft special.
