CONFERENCE DECLARES FOR A LEAGUE OF NATIONS

The First Storm was Successfully Weathered on Saturday — Conference Goes on Record as Favoring the Admission to League of Every Civilized Nation Which is Willing to Promote Its Objects.

Paris, Jan. 26—The peace conference, Saturday, weathered its first storm, and under the inspiration of a speech by President Wilson and skilful guidance of M. Clemenceau, the chairman, unanimously adopted resolutions declaring for a League of Nations. The conference also went on record in favor of incorporating the League as an integral part of the general treaty of peace and admitting to the League "every civilized nation which can be relied on to promote its objects."

Belgium, Serbia, Rumania, Portugal, Brazil, Siam, China and Czechoslovakia protested against the various committees being largely restricted to the great powers and asked for proportionate representation privileges, particularly on bodies dealing with the League of Nations, labor and reparation for war damages.

Although it was a cloud no bigger than a man's hand, it threatened at one time to grow into a general alignment of the small powers against the five great powers. This, however, was averted by M. Clemenceau's good tempered and skilful direction.

An Impressive Session

The sessions had the same impressive dignity as the opening session with a picturesque setting of Arabs and Indians in their turbans and tunics, as well as a distinguished array of prime ministers and other world figures. President Wilson for the first time was accompanied by the entire American delegation, Colonel House having recovered sufficiently from his illness to be present.

Although it had been expected that Premier Lloyd George would open the discussion on the league of nations, President Wilson had this honor. The president was followed by Mr. Lloyd George in a brief address, and the resolution favoring the league was adopted without dissent after the proposal had been seconded by Premier Orlando for Italy, Paul Huymans for Belgium and Mr. Lu for China.

When the other resolutions were brought up and protests of the representatives of the small powers were made, M. Clemenceau made a plea for harmony, and on his assurance that the supreme council would give attention to the viewpoint of the small nations all proposed amendments were withdrawn and the resolutions were adopted unanimously.

The session of the conference opened at 3 o'clock this afternoon in the Salle de la Paix of the foreign office with the manifest purpose of business.

M. Clemenceau was again in the chair with President Wilson and the full American delegation at his right and Premier Lloyd George and the British delegates at his left.

President Wilson's Address

"Select classes of men no longer direct the affairs of the world," said President Wilson, in moving the adoption of the plan, "but the fortunes of the world are now in the hands of the plain people."

The wish of the people therefore must be heard. The war has swept away those old foundations by which small coteries had used "mankind as pawns in a game."

Nothing but emancipation from the old system, he contended, would accomplish real peace.

The president said American soldiers in the street—soldiers who had come, not alone for war, but as "crusaders in a great cause" and he added, "and I like them, must be a crusader. Whatever it cost to accomplish that end."

After declaring that the conference was for the purpose of settlement arising out of the war and to make peace for the world, President Wilson said:

"A league of nations seems necessary for both purposes. There are many questions which we feel cannot ultimately be worked out here, that may require subsequent consideration subsequent alterations even to some degree."

He described how the war burden was born by the people as well as by the armies and said:

"We are bidden by these sufferers to make peace; secure for them and see to it that the strain need never be borne again."

Seconded by Lloyd George

At the conclusion of the reading of a translation of President Wilson's speech, Premier Lloyd George, said:

"I rise to second this resolution. After the noble speech of the American president, I feel that no observations are needed in order to commend this resolution to the conference, and I should not have intervened at all had it not been that I wished to state how emphatically the people of the British empire are behind this proposal."

The Italian Premier Viterro Orlando followed Lloyd George. He declared that no people were readier to accept the league of nations in its entirety than the Italian people.

Interesting Addresses

Rev. K. H. Palmer, D. D. of Guelph Ontario, who is in the city under the auspices of the Loyal Orange Association delivered a splendid sermon at the George Street Baptist Church yesterday morning and occupied the pulpit at the Methodist Church in the evening. He delivered a magnificent address at the Methodist Church to a large and appreciative congregation. His topic was: "Resolved that the Church can learn from the Lodge Room." In his address he exhorted the members of the church to take as much interest in their church as the members of an order took in their lodge.
