THE LEAGUE OF NATIONS IS ATTACKED IN U. S. SENATE

The Anti-British Sentiment is Being Industriously Fanned by Tail-Twisting Senators—Great Britain Has Six Votes in the League to One for the United States—Hands Friendly to British Interests are Tied—Soldiers Have High Regard for Their British Cousins.

Washington, June 11.—Friends of the British Empire in Washington, particularly senators and members of the House are much disturbed over one feature of the debate in the Senate over the League of Nations. This is the fact that so many of the opponents of the league are almost daily in speeches laying great stress on the fact that Great Britain will have six votes in the league to one of the United States. To make this point important, it is necessary for them to dwell on every possible angle of conflicting interest between Great Britain and the United States.

The point is that the attack on the league with many senators, particularly such effective orators as Senator William E. Borah of Idaho, and Senator James A. Reed of Missouri has gotten down to the point almost of an attack on Great Britain. They fan the anti-British sentiment engendered in the first place, those who are worried by this phase of the situation point out, by certain types of politicians, and by the schoolbooks on which most Americans were brought up, which lay great stress on the revolution, the war of 1812, and the friendship of Great Britain for the South during the war between the states in 1860-5.

Regret Situation Keenly

Several prominent senators in the last few days, have said privately that they would do almost anything to change the drift of the debate, particularly the drift of those senators who are opposing the league. Several of the senators who feel this way, and who are themselves opposed to the League of Nations, say privately that it is very unfortunate, since as a matter of fact Great Britain, in their opinion, was not actually keen for the league at all, but preferred, as did France, the continuance of the

BRIEF BUT USEFUL RECIPES.

Restore Gilt Frames.—Rub with a sponge moistened with turpentine.

Drive Away Anns.—A little quick lime placed in the infested places.

Remove Tar from Cloth.—Rub it well with turpentine till every trace is removed.

Make Leather Waterproof.—Saturate it with castor oil; to stop shoes squeaking, drive a peg into the middle of the sole.

Clean the Hair.—Wash well with a mixture of soft water, 1 pint; sal soda 1 ounce; cream tartar ¼ ounce.

Egg Stains on Spoons.—Rub with common salt.

Hang in the air to dry.

Clean Hair Brushes.—Dissolve a little soda in warm water and pour in a small amount of ammonia. Hold the brushes with the bristles downward and avoid wetting the back as far as possible; shake until the grease is removed; then rinse in cold water and put in the air to dry.

Remove Mildew from Cloth.—Put a teaspoonful of chloride of lime into a quart of water, strain it twice, then dip the mildewed places in this weak solution and lay in the sun. If not effective the first time repeat.

How to Remove a Rusty Screw.—Apply a red hot iron to the head for applied immediately while the screw is hot.

Cure Mosquito Bites.—Put ten drops of refined carbolic acid into an ounce of rose water; shake well and apply. (If you hold your breath while a mosquito has its bill in you it cannot withdraw it until you breathe again.)

A CHANCE FOR AN UNDERSTUDY

(New York Sun)

Outside the studio of one of the many advertised motion picture actresses a motley crowd gathered to watch the door. First, the blase "prop" men, who came out to smoke and vaunt their superiority over mere outsiders, then a half dozen frankly curious soldiers and some avid "movie" fans, and last of all a dozen eager-faced children who jostled each other about and proclaimed their status as regular visitors by such argument as: "It is too my turn to stand in front today; besides, I've a flower for her!"

Quite unnoticed by the crowd, the much vaunted star, in an old fashioned suit, stood waiting for her machine to drive up. She pulled her hat down close and leaned against the door as though every muscle ached, but as her fellow players filed out, she summoned up a friendly smile and waved good by to them.

"And she gets millions and millions," a childish voice was saying, as the one in question asked her director if she had to be bound and gagged again all the next day.

Just then her car came, and she smiled an invitation to the Woman and a friend who had shown her the studio, then led the way to the curb. She passed through the crowd unrecognized, her shabby clothes stamping her as a nobody, but when the Woman

RETAIL PRICE OF COAL OUT OF PROPORTION TO COST OF MINING

Mr. J. L. Payne, in the latest of his series of articles in the Toronto Globe, quoted figures which cannot be reconciled with the legend of a coal shortage in Canada in the past few years. Importations of anthracite in the fiscal year ending March 31, 1917, were larger than in any preceding year, and in the year 1918 were much larger than in 1917. The volume moved by the railways in Canada in 1917 was 566,246 tons greater than in 1916, and in 1918 it was 1,409,163 tons greater than in 1917. Shortages of coal and cars in the United States in 1917 and 1918 were officially proclaimed, but Mr. Payne's statistics show that Canada received in those years more than the average of 1913-14-15. The average cost of coal imported in the fiscal year 1919, ending March 31st last, was $5.51 per ton, or only 70 cents greater than in 1912, before the war.

Mr. Payne says that the retail price in Ottawa advanced in the same time from $8 to $12 per ton. It is no secret that a few railway corporations have virtually monopolized the anthracite coal fields and coal production of Pennsylvania and can dictate to Canadian dealers, but this fact would not explain an advance of 50 per cent. in the retail price of coal in Canada if the import price had increased only 14.6 per cent. in the same period. A parliamentary committee has been appointed to ascertain if possible the causes of the high cost of living. Mr. Payne's allegations with respect to the prices of coal and food, supported by figures drawn from official sources, might profitably engage the attention of the committee.

S.S. ESSEQUIBO COMING AGAIN

Ottawa, Ont., June 13.—The Militia Department has been advised that the ambulance transport Essequeibo, carrying 585 wounded and sick Canadian soldiers, as well as 18 nursing sisters, will reach Portland on or about June 19th. There are 31 officers and 564 other ranks on board.

An investigation at Ottawa this week disclosed the fact that a private car purchased in Chicago for Sir Sam Hughes when he was Minister of Militia, cost the sum of $9,752. After using the car for five years it was taken to the Grand Trunk shops at Montreal and repaired at a cost to the country of $27,843. In the parlance of the street, that was certainly going some.
