PURPLE OUTFITS
MADE TROUBLE

Atlantic City, Aug. 22—Two fair visitors who selected all-purple costumes for beach wear were almost mobbed on the beach today when they joined the "sun bathers" near South Carolina avenue. It was necessary for the police to rescue the girls and hurry them up on the Boardwalk to escape the mob.

The young women, one a blonde and the other a brunette, wore purple hats suits, hosiery and shoes. The effect was so startling that they were the cynosure of all eyes the instant they reached the sand. The crowd of beholders grew as they walked along a few paces. Somebody threw a handful of sand at them. Others followed suit and soon the young women were almost hysterical from fright.

A beach cop and several life guards formed a flying wedge and fought through the howling mob to the rescue. They had another hard fight to get out of the centre of the throng, which numbered several hundred persons. The girls were hustled up on the Boardwalk and thence to their bath-house.

SEALED TENDERS addressed to the

ST. STEPHEN
FAIR OPENS
ON SEPT. 9TH

Competition Open Now to Washington County, Maine, and the Maritime Provinces.

On enlarged grounds and with new buildings, the Charlotte County Exhibition will be held at St. Stephen four days, September 9 to 12, the eleventh annual and successful exhibition held by this enterprising society.

To meet the demands of exhibitors in all directions for a chance to compete at this live show, the management has opened competition in all departments to Washington county, Maine, and to the Maritime Provinces and their venture is rewarded with splendid entry lists already received from all directions. The display of live stock will be a remarkable feature and it will be a delight to all, embracing as it will herds and flocks that have won fame in widely separated localities. Four big new buildings have been completed for this great feature.

Space in the main building has long since been booked to its capacity and the exhibits of agriculture and everything that pertains to the farm and the home will exceed any previous fair, which is saying a great deal to those who have been the steady patrons of this exhibition and have watched its steady growth from small beginnings to its recognized place as among the best fairs held down east.

The Midway, always a live spot at this show, has been widened and extended and with a lot of the best tent shows already booked it will be one spot of joy and happiness during the four big days.

The management has appropriated $1000 for its free vaudeville attractions this year and assures its patrons that this will be the best they have ever offered their thousands of satisfied patrons. Balloon ascensions, thrilling platform and aerial acts and features to amuse and delight will be presented each day.

Horse racing has always been a strong feature of the Charlotte County Fair and owners of horses seek this track because of the uniform and constant fair treatment they have received. This year, $4000 has been appropriated for horse racing and the large-est purses offered in the history of the society, and at the present time as many horses have been entered as in any of the ten previous big years, St. Stephen, September 9-10-11-12.

NO SCORE WITH
SUNDAY GOLF

Boston, Aug. 22—Golf may be played legally on Sunday in Massachusetts if no score is kept. If a score is kept the golfer is guilty of "taking part in a game on the Lord's Day."

"Knocking a small white ball around with a small club voluntarily last Sunday on the Braeburn Country Club links, in West Newton, was responsible for a test case on the Sunday law being decided in the Newton Court today before Judge Bacon.

The defendants were two of the wealthiest and most prominent members of the club and well-known Boston business men. They were Edward N. Kimball and Howard Emerson.

Each was fined $5 for taking part in a game and not guilty of taking part in a sport.

HIS KIND SUGGESTION.

"Yes, sir," said the kindly looking gentleman during a discussion in a railway car, "I firmly believe it is a man's duty to share any good luck he may have with his wife. For instance when he makes a little extra profit he ought to buy her a new dress."

"A good idea," agreed the man in the corner, "you must be a social philosopher, sir."

"No," replied the other, "I'm a wholesale dress manufacturer."

The U. S. authorities have caught a bigamist with eight wives, who didn't ever try to kill one of them.

With nearly a week still open for entries to be made. For the big "free for allers" that have been brought to this section of the country in recent months, the generous purse of $700 has been set aside, with an added $400 for a free-for-all straight trot assuring the presence at St. Stephen of the really big fellows in the racing world.

Daily base ball games between leading teams will be a feature and every device to amuse and entertain will be in attendance.

The patronage of the people in and about Fredericton at this fair has always been generous and always appreciated and the management confidently assures them that the exhibition this year will exceed their expectations, which are already large and well founded.

Make your plans to be with the as happy throngs on the fair grounds at in any of the ten previous big years, St. Stephen, September 9-10-11-12.

Transforming The Prairies

SELDOM does a settler in a new country find things exactly as he would like to find them. Take trees, as an illustration. It is true there are large stretches of country in different parts of the world where trees seem to be ideally interspersed.
Large areas in the central parts of the Prairie Provinces of Canada are like this. Open spaces of forty to a hundred acres or more are almost surrounded by trees, affording excellent shelter for stock, and making a varied landscape. But such conditions are exceptional, though they serve to emphasize the rule. Mostly the new settler finds too many trees or practically none at all. In the former case considerable labor is required in clearing before the settler can hope for any crop. In the latter case, the settler has the advantage of being able to break his land immediately and, if he proceeds in the right manner, soon has it in a condition for producing a remunerative crop. But if he has come from a home which was surrounded by trees, he certainly misses them for a time.

A large part of the Canadian prairies comes under the second category. Nearly all of the southern to the central parts of these provinces are open prairie, ready for the plow.
Except near the rivers and creeks one could motor miles and miles without seeing a tree. But a wonderful transformation is slowly taking place. If nature has left these fertile prairies practically treeless, she has not left them devoid of the elements necessary to tree growth. Trees will grow there if properly planted and cared for, just as wheat and other grains, just as alfalfa and other fodders, just as potatoes and all manner of roots and vegetables, grow—wonderfully well. And they are being grown more and more extensively every year, beautifying many a farm home, and transforming the prairie landscape.

In this beautifying process, farmers are greatly encouraged by the Canadian Government and the Canadian Pacific Railway. Both are taking a keen interest in the planting of trees on the prairie farms, and encourage farmers to improve their home surroundings by distributing trees free of cost to farmers. Each maintains large nurseries where trees are grown for this purpose under prairie conditions, the government at Indian Head, Saskatchewan, and the Canadian Pacific Railway at Wolsley, Saskatchewan. Up to a few years ago both nurseries were typically open prairie. Now trees are being raised from seed on the Government's farm at Indian Head, Saskatchewan, which comprises 430 acres, in sufficient quantities as to permit a distribution of between seven and eight million young plants annually. The Canadian Pacific Rail-

(2) The kind of home many of the older settlers in Western Canada are building. Note young trees in background. way restricts its distribution of trees to farmers in its irrigation block in Southern Alberta, and during the last six years has distributed about three hundred thousand trees to farmers in this territory. In this company's nurseries trees are also supplied for planting along the right-of-way of the railroad and in station gardens.
To obtain trees, whether from the government or the railway company, similar conditions are required to be fulfilled. Farmers must make their applications a year in advance, and must engage to prepare their land according to directions. Inspectors visit the farms from time to time to see that the land is properly prepared, and, after delivery of the trees, to see that they are given proper attention in the matter of cultivation until they get thoroughly established.
Success in growing trees is being realized by farmers throughout the Canadian Prairie Provinces; and this success is very encouraging to the newcomer who at first misses the trees that were conspicuous near his old home. But he has many advantages over the pioneer who had to work to clear his land before he can start to farm. He can begin to farm from the moment of his occupation of the land. And when he is ready to plant trees, he can plant them wherever he desires, with the assurance that, if given a little intelligent care and attention during the first year or two, they will grow to maturity, and be as strong as trees of the forest.
