Freezone is magic! Corns and calluses lift right off—
Doesn't hurt a bit

A few cents buys a tiny bottle of the magic Freezone at any drug store. Apply a few drops of Freezone upon a tender, aching corn or a callus. Instantly that troublesome corn or callus stops hurting, then shortly you lift it out, root and all, without any pain, soreness or irritation. These little bottles of Freezone contain just enough to rid the feet of every hard corn, soft corn, corn between the toes and the calluses on bottom of feet. So easy! So simple. Why wait? No humbug.

THE MOVIES IN GERMANY

The doughboy of Occupation, who spent the winter in Coblenz, went to German movies for entertainment. He was sure to be diverted, even though the "filmspiel" happened to be a heavy Boche tragedy. This was what a lieutenant yearning for the Rialto, wrote home under the caption "Dem Choiman Movies".

"It costs three marks to see a nickel movie show but it's worth less. Every time we want a good laugh, we take in a heavy tragedy. They print the scenario on the program, because otherwise you would not know what it was all about. Hearing the natives read the letters aloud puts you in mind of somebody trying to recite the jabberwocky backward and then getting all mixed up. A German vampire must be a blonde weighing 20 pounds avoirdupois. A hero is generally fair and fat and partly baldheaded. You can always tell in the first act who is going to die in the next. If an actor puts his hand where his heart is supposed to be, you know "tootsweet" he's going to pop off from "herzschlag".

But a greater source of amusement was the program, translated into English by the management with more or less success.

MUST GIVE THE OLD DEARS DUE CREDIT

(Toledo Blade)

Three cheers for the men! At last we have found one little lone job that they can do better than women.

A news despatch published some weeks ago states that after a trial of eight months the experiment of having a newspaper edited, managed and printed entirely by women had proved to be a failure. The "Evening Union" an Atlantic City daily newspaper which was managed for a time entirely by college women has been put once more under the guidance of mere man.

No one but a ranting feminist will call this bad news. Some of us will even hail this slender evidence of man's fragile hold upon superiority with a sense of relief if not positive elation.

After all, what's the use of promising to "love, honor and obey" a race whom you can excel in every occupation from millinery to munition-making? Even if you are untrammelled by such vows, and enjoy the independence of single blessedness, it is probable that you have joined the great army of women workers, who receive their pay checks and most of their marching orders from the vanishing male. And it must be admitted that if we must take orders, it adds a little to our self respect to take them from some one about whom we still cherish even a faint illusion of ability.

So let us admit without rancor that there is one job that men can do better than women. We know that the list of women's achievements is a long one, and has been made overwhelmingly longer by the war. But that's "old stuff" by this time. The "news" from now on must come from the other direction.

By the way, it was this very sense for news which the women were said to lack. They failed to develop "news sense" in the handling of stories, the despatch said.

And there you have it once again—women's old enemy is here overweening sense of the personal.

The ability to know news is a kind of sixth sense which tells you what will interest everybody. It is being able to think impersonally. It is knowing the news value of a Methodist picnic when you yourself are a hard-shelled Baptist. But women, though learning the lesson of being impersonal in business very rapidly still think too much in terms of self.

"World's greatest crop of beans promised" may be the cheering news which comes over the wire; whereupon the woman editor is all too likely to explain, "I loathe baked beans, and I hate Boston anyway, cut it to fifty words and give it a one line head." Whereas the beans may have been castor beans and a million mothers would hail with joy the diminishing price of castor oil. Not to mention the innumerable aviators who need the precious fluid to lubricate their airplane bearings.

MR. PERKINS' REPORT ON THE Y.M.C.A. WORK

Did Not Sidestep the Task It Was Asked to Perform—
Workers Brave and Unselfish.

New York, May 6.—George W. Perkins, chairman of the finance committee of the Young Men's Christian Association, made public here tonight his official report as investigator into the efficiency and service of the organization overseas. He went abroad with Mortimer L. Schiff, F. S. Brockman and John R. Hall, when criticism of the Y. M. C. A. was being made in this country, and returned to make his report last week.

"The Y. M. C. A. undoubtedly made mistakes," Mr. Perkins said, "but what it tried to do was to respond to every call that the army made on it. It did not sidestep any task that it was asked to perform."

That the Y. M. C. A. workers as a whole, were brave and unselfish is shown by the fact that fourteen secretaries were killed and 126 others wounded, he declared.

Regarding the charge of profiteering in supplies, Mr. Perkins says:

"One day we could get supplies on a government steamboat without freight charge; the next day the only way to send them was to pay almost as much in freight as the goods cost. It will be readily seen that it was almost impossible to arrive at anything like an average cost price at which to sell the goods."

The Y. M. C. A. never solicited any money for the purpose of giving away its canteen supplies. The statement has been frequently made that the Y. M. C. A. charged higher prices for canteen supplies than the army did. This was true at a certain period, when the cost of transportation was exceedingly high and when it was impossible to determine costs accurately, but the final results of the Y. M. C. A. canteen will show a loss."

GENERAL DEBILITY FOLLOWS INFLUENZA

Health Can Only be Restored
Through the Use of a Blood-
Making Tonic.

Debility is a loss of vitality not affecting any one part of the body particularly, but the system generally. It is dangerous because it reduces the body's resistance to disease. When debility follows acute diseases, convalescence is slow, and one's strength does not return as it should. An attack of influenza often results in debility that persists for months. Everybody recognizes that the remedy for debility is to build up the blood, because the blood goes to every part of the body, and any improvement in its condition is quickly felt throughout the system.

In cases of simple anaemia, or debility following acute diseases such as fevers or influenza, Dr. Williams' Pink Pills will be found valuable, because they really build up the blood and strengthen the nerves. There is no other medicine as valuable for growing children, and for men and women whose nervous energy has been overdrawn. They are worth a fair trial in every case where thin blood and weak nerves have started the trouble. The value of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills has been proved in the home of Mrs. John Fram, Owen Sound, who says: "My daughter Mabel was troubled with a bad cough; she was pale, weak and her appetite was very poor, indeed I feared that she was going into a decline. A friend advised the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and after taking eight boxes she was again enjoying the best of health. Again last autumn Spanish influenza attacked our home, and after the acute symptoms were past, both myself and another daughter were left very much run down. My daughter was so weak that she could not walk to school and would tremble when she got upon her feet. I was so weak myself that I could not do my housework. Again we resorted to Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and in each case we took five boxes, when we were as well as ever we had been. I never enjoyed better health than I am now doing, and am able again to do my housework. After our experience it is not possible for me to say too much in favor of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills."

You can get Dr. Williams' Pink Pills through any dealer in medicine, or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

The cleanliness of the sealed package appeals to the daintiness of a woman.

She knows that it protects the contents from dust, dirt, odors and moisture.

She will be doubly pleased with our new waxed board package—which we have adopted after several years of testing—because it is stronger, more secure and more completely air-tight; altogether the best container for tea that has yet been devised.

Ask your grocer for Red Rose Tea in the sealed carton.

ONE ANNUAL STORY THE CABLE NO LONGER BRINGS

(Chicago News)

Five days' rain and Maundy Thursday made the old telegraph operator reminiscent. He thought how news conditions in the last five years have changed. Today great peace developments—the world preparing to establish democracy a momentous speech by the British premier, Europe seething. Five years ago the great rulers on their thrones undisturbed.

"Ces, this is the day," said the superannuated one, "when old Emperor Francis Joseph washed the feet of ten paupers picked up on the streets of Vienna. Every year for a decade and a half Maundy Thursday never failed to bring us the story over the cables from Austria. It was the one democratic act ascribed to the autocrat on the Austrian throne—a sort of yielding to impulses that his life the other 364 days of the year belied. It was an act of democracy clothed as a religious rite."

"The war has made great changes. In nothing has there been a greater change than in the nature and relative importance of news carried by the cable. Emperor Francis Joseph kept up his foot washing act every Maundy Thursday, and it was heralded all over the world. But Francis Joseph is dead his dynasty fallen, their successor has no job, which includes washing one's feet, and the cable would be too busy to carry it anyway.

"Oh, where are kings and empires now?"

"Fashion does not show women's waists this year. Nothing to worry about. Masculine instinct is infallible."

"Adam's first need was for speech, and so God made Eve," said Prof. J. N. Gaylord of the Minnesota normal college, addressing the Chicago Woman's club. Since which, we'll respectfully submit, Adam hasn't had a chance to say what his second need was.
