TO PROVIDE FOR NEXT OF KIN

London, May 23—It is announced by the Daily Mail that it intends, in the unfortunate event that Harpy G. Hawker and Lieut Commander MacKenzie Grieve have lost their lives in attempting to fly across the Atlantic, to devote $50,000 to their next of kin in the proportions that Hawker and Grieve had already agreed to divide the prize. This disposition will not interfere with the contest, which is still open.

NEWFOUNDLAND STIRRED BY VISIT FROM DIRIGIBLE

St. John's, Newfoundland, May 15—The Evening Advocate gives the following account of the arrival of the U. S. Dirigible:

Always efficient and watchful, active and energetic, in a quiet way the Reid Nfld. Co.'s officials anticipated the coming of the big dirigible, and station agents everywhere from Pla-centia Junction to St. John's since last night were on the qui vive to try and win the distinction of first seeing and reporting the big air ship. Roughly speaking the dirigible took an oblique or possibly, if more correctly placed a diagonal direction after passing St. Pierre this morning, and cutting across Placentia Bay in air line found itself over the Placentia littoral, and the presumption is that in the early forenoon and with fog prevailing it lost its bearings for a while about Placentia Junction. Anyhow a glimpse was had of it there and just at 10.01 a. m. the Reid Nfld.
Co.'s despatches were made aware of its presence in the neighborhood of Whitbourne, when station agent Thomas Tipple promptly and deftly touched the wires and apprised the waiting telegraphers here that it was on the spot and passed over the handsome residence of Sir Robert Bond at an altitude which would be approximately 100 feet. In fifteen minutes afterwards Brigus Junction, 13 miles by rail from Whitbourne reported the big air visitor, affording an evidence of its speed and demonstrating the fact that it followed the railway line. At both Brigus Junction and Whitbourne the men in the dirigible could be distinctly seen by the wondering behold-ers on terra firma. At Brigus Junction it was thought the ship's altitude would be 200 feet and it passed directly above the railway station. At Avondale as it came into the line of vision of the people inhabiting the head of Conception Bay it presented not alone a unique but a handsome appearance as it sailed majestically over the azure waters of that famous fjord.
When fully five miles distant it was first described and the people in less time when one can describe it was on the hills and sands of the various sections watching the new and very stranger visitor to our shores. Each little place down to Woodford's Station saw it quickly and the excitement and interest it occasioned can be imagined but not properly depicted in the prosaic perience generally used by a newspaper man. Its color partook of a silvery hue in the new firmament and not a few of the old granddames and grandsires of various places who saw it but took it as a visitor from another world. Seal Cove, and Gullies and other little places saw with interest and wonderment this strange aerial visitant with its vibrant motors audible to their ears.

Populous Kelligrews had been forewarned of its approach, wondering at its speed as it approached, knowing as the people did that a half hour or less before it had left Whitbourne.
Topsail had also been its advance, but when it reached Kelligrews it nonplussed the people when instead of making, as they expected, for St.
John's in its wonderful aerial career it suddenly deflected up over the cultivated south slopes of the pastoral little hamlet and crossed the terrain which leads to the Southern Shore.
Most of those who saw it at Kelli-grews disappear towards the Southern Shore believed that it was receding and asked for Trepassey, which is the station of the American seaplanes.
The idea of the pilot, however, was the correct one as the ship ran out over Bay Bulls or in that neighborhood and came to St. John's breasting the wind as it made its graceful sweep toward Quidi Vidi.

In several places along the railway line the dirigible flew as near to earth as prudence would permit and shouted greetings and questions from the airship.

In the western end of the city the roofs of dwellings and buildings, including the Reid Nfld. Co's station and plant, were crowded with officials and others who had a good if distant view of the machine as it came over the Narrows, but most of the thousands in this section could not see it on account of intervening buildings, and their disgust equalled their disappointment and dissatisfaction on missing

Thought It Was a Boil Doctor Said Abscess

Mr. Gleason R. Young, Kingscroft N.B., under date of February 9th, 1918 writes us as follows: "About five months ago, a lump came on my jaw-bone. I thought it was a boil, and after it had been there quite a while it began to get larger. I went to a doctor and he said it was an abscess, and lanced it. He gave me a wash for it, so I went by his directions until it healed up, but it commenced coming again, and in about three weeks it broke itself. I thought it would get better, but it didn't. A neighbor advised me to get a bottle of Burdock Blood Bitters, so I sent and got a bottle, and by the time it was all gone, the abscess had disappeared, and now it is all better."

Burdock Blood Bitters will heal and dry up sores, ulcers, and abscesses, no matter how large or of how long standing. If you have never applied it to a cut, wound, sore or ulcer, just try it and see what soothing, healing, cleansing power it possesses. It takes out itching, stinging and burning, and promotes the growth of healthy flesh.
So, too, when taken internally, by its power of eliminating all impurities from the blood and making that vital fluid rich, red and pure, it cuts off the origin and source of the foul matter that goes to make boils, pimples, sores, ulcers, abscesses and the like, and at the same time the purified and enriched blood creates healthy tissue where there was formerly, perhaps a sore fall of pus.

Burdock Blood Bitters has been on the market for 40 years. Manufactured only by The T. Milburn Co., Ltd., Toronto, Ont.

LIKE KISSING YOUR SISTER

That is really about the only argument left to the anti-prohibitionist.
There are very few who really feel that alcohol is a daily necessity.

The great majority of the "wets" are in the class of that man who wrote to the railroad administration a complaint because his baggage had been taken. He added; "I am very sorry we had to drink the nog without the kick, which tasted like kissing your sister."

But there should be comfort in the thought that there is some pleasure in kissing your sister—and it is not really necessary to kiss anybody to get nourishment.

New York Herald: Germany's howls, shrieks, wails, sobs and threats over the peace treaty only emphasize the magnitude of her defeat. Besides, there was no purpose at the Conference to start any hysteria of happiness across the Rhine.

such an epoch-making spectacle. Many thought a half holiday should be proclaimed to give the leges the opportunity they craved.
