EX-PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT DIED TODAY AT OYSTER BAY

"Teddy" Had Long Been a Conspicuous Figure in United States Politics—Commanded Regiment of Rough Riders in Cuban War—Succeeded to Presidency on the Death of President McKinley—A Third Party Candidate for President in 1912.

dent the United States has ever had. Three years later he was elected as President by the largest popular vote a President has received.

Thus Roosevelt, sometimes called a man of destiny, served for seven years as the nation's chief magistrate. In a subsequent decade the fortunes of politics did not favor him, for, again a candidate for President—this time leading the Progressive Party which he himself had organized when he differed radically with some of the politics of the Republican Party in 1912—he went down to defeat, with the Republican candidate, William Howard Taft. Woodrow Wilson, Democrat, was elected.

Col. Roosevelt's enemies agreed with his friends that his life, his character and his writings represented a high type of Americanism.

Of Dutch ancestry, born in New York City on October 27, 1858, in a house in East Twentieth Street, the baby Theodore was a weakling. He was one of four children who came to Theodore and Martha Bulloch Roosevelt. The mother was of Southern stock and the father of Northern, a situation which during the early years of Theodore, Junior's life was not allowed to interfere with the family life of these children during the Civil War days.

So frail that he was not privileged to associate with the other boys in his neighborhood, Roosevelt was tutored privately, in New York and during travels on which his parents took the children abroad.

A few months after his graduation from Harvard in 1880, Roosevelt married Miss Alice Lee of Boston. She died in 1884, leaving one child, Alice, now the wife of Representative Nicholas Longworth of Ohio. In 1886 Roosevelt married Miss Edith Kermit Carow, of New York, and to them five children were born—Edith, now the wife of Dr. Richard Derby, and four sons, Theodore, Jr., Kermit, Archibald and Quentin. The last named was killed while fighting in France.

vett insisted he was not seriously hurt and his automobile conveyed him to the hall. There he spoke to an audience which had knowledge of what had happened. Though he speedily recovered the bullet was never removed. The assassin was sent to an asylum for the insane.

Roosevelt after leaving the White House devoted his life largely to literary work, hunting and exploration. He became contributing editor to The Outlook in 1909, continuing this for five years, and later held editorial positions with The Metropolitan and the Kansas City Star. His hunts for big game and his zest for exploration took him into the American West, the heart of Africa and the wilderness of Brazil.

As an Explorer

Upon his return from his African journey—a return during which he made triumphant entries into European capitals and was received by nation's rulers, including the Emperor of Germany—he arrived in New York to experience what was generally conceded to be the greatest ovation an American private citizen was ever accorded by the people of his country. This was in 1910. At the head of an exploring party in South America in 1914 he discovered and followed for 600 miles a Madeira River tributary which the Brazilian government subsequently named in his honor, Rio Theodore. This was the famous "River of Doubt"—so-called because in many quarters considered authoritative it was questioned whether Roosevelt was the first man to explore the stream.

Theodore Roosevelt, besides being a prolific writer lectured and made public speeches extensively, not only in his own country but in England, Spain, South America and other parts of the world. Quaint and picturesque phrases were coined liberally by him and by others concerning him. "Speak softly and use the big stick", "weasel words", "pussyfoot", "mollycoddle", and "my hat is in the ring", were some of Rooseveltian expressions which attained wide publicity.

Urged Preparedness

When the European war began, Roosevelt vigorously advocated a policy of national preparedness, urging universal military training for the nation's youth.

Sons in the War

Denied the privilege of fighting for his flag, Theodore Roosevelt's interest was centered on his family's participation in the war. His four sons and his son-in-law Dr. Derby, carried out a prediction made by the former President before the United States took up arms—that if the war came they
