THE PRINCE OF WALES ON VISIT TO P. E. ISLAND

His Royal Highness Given a Hearty Welcome at Charlottetown
—A Memorable Day in the History of the Garden of the Gulf—Addresses Presented to the Royal Visitor—A Great Peace Celebration.

Charlottetown, P. E. I., Aug. 19—Charlottetown, called after Queen Charlotte, the capital of a province also rejoicing in the royal name of Prince Edward Island, tendered a right royal welcome today to Prince Edward Albert. Our people acclaimed the heir apparent to the British throne with the genuine enthusiasm which came straight from the heart—the heart that is loyal and true.

August 19, 1919, will be a memorable day in the history of this staunch little sea-girt island, which has sent five thousand men to the great war, for on that day Prince Edward Islanders not only welcomed the Prince of Wales, but they began the peace celebration deferred so as to synchronize with the Prince's visit. Tuesday was the first of the soldier joy days and joy certainly did abound, joy among the soldier lads on again greeting their Soldier Prince, whom they were glad to honor "over there," joy among all the people who joined with the Great War Veterans in demonstrations of devotion to His Royal Highness over here, a hundred thousand welcomes, a welcome from every man woman and child in this province were accorded the future sovereign of the world's greatest empire as he set foot upon the soil of our fair and fertile island.

Welcome was inscribed on arch, shield and banner, it was expressed by fluttering flags and waving pennants. It was written on the faces of the thousands who came from the three counties of the province, the royally named counties of Kings, Queens and Prince, to pay tribute to Royalty. The stirring strains of martial music sounded notes of welcome and the cheers which at times drowned out the bands and pipers thundered forth a welcome.

Addresses Presented

The Prince landed at noon at the marine wharf and was received by Chief Justice Mathieson, administrator of the government, Premier Arsenault, Mayor Wright and others.

After inspecting the guard of honor His Royal Highness was driven to the provincial building. Here he was presented by the government of P. E. Island with an address read by Premier Arsenault. An address from the City of Charlottetown was also read by Mayor Wright.

The Prince's reply to the address of the provincial government was as follows:

"Mr. Premier and Gentlemen—I thank you sincerely for your cordial welcome and loyal address. It is a great pleasure to me to make this my first acquaintance with Prince Edward Island and I keenly regret that I shall not have time to travel beyond the capital and to see the countryside. I will not fail to convey to my father, the king, your warm expression of attachment to his personal throne. I know his happy memories of his visit to the island in H.M.S. Canada and that he regretted his inability to repeat that visit during his last tour through Canada. You may rest assured as you have rightly said in your address that he will always be interested in the welfare of the people of this province. The British empire has just emerged from a terrific ordeal in which its unity of purpose and sentiment alone availed to save it from disaster and I agree with you Mr. Premier, that all its peoples stand more closely together by virtue of their common service and sacrifice.

"Canada played a worthy part in that struggle and I believe that she may now look forward with confidence to a new period of prosperity and peaceful development. I trust that Prince Edward Island may share that prosperity in full measure."

Reply to City's Address

The prince's reply to the city's address was as follows:

"I am much touched by the warmth of loyalty of your address. It will be a pleasure to convey to my father, the king, the tribute which you have so eloquently paid to his hold upon the affections of his subjects here and throughout the empire. I thank you for your too generous appreciation of my own small services during the war. I know how well this city and this province responded to the call of the empire throughout that great ordeal and I wish to express through you my profound sympathy with those who suffered disablement or loss in his majesty's service both on land and sea. It is a great pleasure to me to make the acquaintance for the first time with this island province of the dominion. I only wish that time would allow me to stay longer and see more. May I ask you, Mr. Mayor, to convey to all the citizens of Charlottetown my grateful appreciation of the welcome which they have given me and my cordial wishes for their prosperity and happiness."

After a number of citizens had been presented to his royal highness the latter was then driven through the streets lined with cheering thousands to Victoria Park where he decorated battle scarred heroes with medals. The prince also inspected the veterans boy scouts and cadets. This part of the programme over, he motored to the Prince of Wales College where he was the guest of honor at a luncheon given by the government.

Comes "As a Canadian."

The administrator of the government who presided, proposed the toast to the King and Premier Arsenault a toast to the Prince of Wales. The latter in responding expressed his deep appreciation of the cordial welcome extended to him and his great regret at not being able to make a longer stay. He then spoke of the splendid services rendered by the men and women of Prince Edward Island to the Empire during the great war and of his profound sympathy with the soldiers and sailors who had been disabled and the homes which had been bereft. He concluded:

"Gentlemen: I have one more thing to say, I have said it already, said it at St. John and Halifax, because I feel it so deeply. I come to you in Canada not as a stranger but as a Canadian. I have lived with your soldiers at the front and I wish you all to consider me as, I hope and believe, they have considered me, one of yourselves. I feel that I am a Canadian in mind and spirit and I will always do my utmost to be worthy of your affection and trust."

The prince then proposed the health of the province of Prince Edward Island coupled with the names of the administration of the province.

Chief Justice Mathieson, the administrator, made a fitting reply.

Saw Trotting Races

The Prince visited the Woodman Fov ranch and the Experimental Farm. The scene was then changed to the driving park where trotting races were in progress. Leaving the gaily decorated royal box, the prince ascended to the top of the judge's stand, chatted with the judges and watched two heats with true boyish excitement. "This is the first time I have witnessed trotting races," he informed the Canadian Press representative and it is good sport."
