PONZI ADMITS SERVING TERM IN PENITENTIARY

Hanover Trust Company, of Which the Italian was a Director, Closed by the Bank Commissioner, Who Declared That the Report of Agents Indicated That the Bank was Doing Business in an Unsafe Manner.

Boston, Aug. 11.—Sensation followed in the Ponzi case today. Charles Ponzi who recently jumped into notoriety as a spectacular financier, admitted that he was the Charles Ponzi who served terms of imprisonment in Montreal and Atlanta several years ago.

At the moment that he was making a formal confession of his past, the Hanover Trust Company in which Ponzi was a director was closed by Bank Commissioner Joseph C. Allen.

Mr. Allen declared that reports of his agents indicated that the bank was doing business in an unsafe manner. Ponzi resigned from the directorate of the bank this afternoon.

The admission of Ponzi and the closing of the trust company were quickly associated in the minds of hundreds who had been waiting anxiously in the downtown streets for developments that had been hourly expected. A crowd soon gathered in front of the Hanover Trust Company at the corner of Washington and Water Streets, and presently the street was filled almost to the exclusion of traffic.

Ponzi who organized the securities exchange company and took in millions for investments from thousands of clients, said in his statement today that he took the blame for another person in Montreal. He also insisted that he was still solvent and could pay all notes now outstanding against him.

In his formal statement prepared in conference with his attorneys he said: "The statement I am about to make should have been made before in view of the fact of the notoriety of the press. I felt that the past had very little bearing on the present situation. Several years ago I committed a sin. If I made a mistake and paid for it, I had every reason to believe that society owed me another chance.

"I am not the first one to have committed a sin, and not the only one, not even in the city of Boston. When I see others who were under the same situation years ago and now today occupy prominent positions, I do not see why I should be made the exception to the general rule and become the object of persecution on the part of the authorities, press and the public.

"Montreal record shows that a man of my description was convicted of forgery in 1908 and sent for three years to St. Vincent De Paul and served about twenty months. This is all the public in general cares to know.

"I feel that it is also very important for the people at large to know that although I am the man who was convicted and sentenced for that crime, I am not the man who perpetrated the crime. What is occurring today to me happened in Montreal, the only difference being the object of persecution was my employer.

"A man apparently friendly to him suggested that he leave Canada, the object of the man being to appropriate during his absence, all the assets left by the fugitive banker. In order to be sure he would not come back to demand an accounting, he compelled him to forge certain instruments which he was going to hold as a club over his head. I was present at the transaction.

"When it developed later that the man could not gain possession of the assets, revenge or other motives prompted him to demand the return to my employer under extradition proceedings on a charge of forgery, from Mexico to Montreal.

"I felt indignant as any other man would feel under the circumstances and I decided that I would save my employer regardless of the cost or consequences. When he was brought to Montreal, I exonerated him by assuming all the blame, and to this day I do not know what happened to him."

Picnic at the Birches

A picnic was held last evening at The Birches by a party of young people from the city. A very enjoyable evening was spent, but some difficulty was encountered in getting one of the cars started, it being necessary to leave it there all night. The picnic was in honor of C. C. Matheson, of Edmundston, who is visiting in Fredericton.

Robbins-Urquhart

A wedding of interest took place yesterday afternoon at three o'clock in Christchurch Cathedral when Rev. Can. Smithers united in the holy bonds of matrimony James Harry Robbins of Stanley and Miss Alice Mabel Urquhart of Birdton. The couple were attended and the bride looked very charming wearing a bridal veil and carrying a bridal bouquet. Following the ceremony the happy young people motored to their future home at Cross Creek.

Spooks Be Darned

She was dead against 'em! And she had no use for the queer folk who fooled her queer aunt with seances.

Result: She raised such a row that Auntie's quack doctor pronounced her "queer" and prescribed an asylum.

Did she go in? She did. But it wasn't long till she was out and Auntie and Doc were in.

And as for a certain youth who also acted queerly—after he saw Dorothy—well, you can't beat an asylum as a place for a love affair.

No need to mention fun. Dorothy Gish—that's all. And that's plenty!
