

The Choice of People of Culture

In homes where good books, pleasing pictures and comfortable living express the taste of people of culture, it would be expected that a tea of fine quality would be served.

It was to meet the taste of such people that Red Rose Orange Pekoe Tea was produced.

This extra quality tea consists of mountain grown Orange Pekoes imported from the best tea gardens where unusual care is taken in the selection of the seed, the cultivation of the soil, the plucking of the leaf and the final preparation of the tea for market.

Those who are able and willing to pay an extra price for a very special tea are recommended to try Red Rose Orange Pekoe Tea.

Sold only in our new package—the waxed board carton.

Red Rose Crushed Coffee Pleases Particular People

SOME STYLES AFFECTED BY FILM STARS

Ellain Hammerstein, who can be relied upon to have the latest sartorial offerings, is carrying a lovely fan with a three-cornered panel of printed parchment surrounded with lovely ostrich feathers mounted on tortoise shell.

When Olive Thomas went to California to make "Jenny," she took with her a number of adorable gingham frocks with organdie collars and cuffs and gingham hats to match with big bows of fresh white organdie.

An orchid frock of silver cloth satin and chiffon is worn by Zena Keefe in "Marooned Hearts."

Louise Huff looks like a flower, a daisy, to be specific in her yellow-gold slipon sweater worn with an accordeon plaited skirt of white crepe de chine.

Ida Darling who supports Elaine Hammerstein in "Whispers," has a graceful evening wrap of black taffeta edged with black lace. The lining is of silver cloth.

Edith Hallor is an artist in choosing accessories. She has round, square oblong and diamond shaped handkerchiefs, manufactured and embroidered for her at a little French shop.

Went Shopping in Cathedral
Olive Thomas is very absent-minded. Last Thursday she took a taxi to do a little shopping. As she stepped into the car she said to the driver: "Lord & Taylor's, please."

Then her mind became occupied with other things.

Traffic down Fifth Avenue was very heavy and the taxi was stopped in front of St. Patrick's Cathedral at Fifth Street to enable the cross-town vehicles to pass.

Olive got out of the taxi, "I'll be back in a few minutes," and went running up the Cathedral steps. As she went she unwrapped a package she held in her hand.

"After I got inside the door," Miss Thomas finished the story, "I saw it wasn't Lord & Taylor's at all. So I just rewrapped the collar I was going to exchange, and said a little prayer in the back pew."

IMPORTANT TO HAVE GOOD MALE BIRD

Although poultry experts have long advocated culling non-producing hens poultry workers at the College of Agriculture at Ithaca now advise the selection of roosters to increase egg production, according to an article in the Cornell Countryman. From experiments extending back for more than a year, it has been demonstrated that it is possible to determine from appearance the males which are most likely to produce the best paying hens.

The difference in the appearance of males is comparable to the difference in the rate of growth and the intensity with which hens lay, according to the college. Some hens can lay an egg once in every 24 hours; others are not able to produce an egg oftener than once in 48 hours, although both have the same care and feed. If one hen can lay faster than another, it indicates that she can digest large amounts of feed quickly. The experiments that this point determines also the value of males as foundations of high-producing flocks.

The Cornell workers measured several lots of males a year ago, and by observing the records of the offspring, they say that they can tell from the appearance of the rooster whether his daughters will be good layers. Members of the college staff think the results of these experiments will have as much value in developing efficient poultry flocks as the original discovery that it was possible to determine by appearance which hens were laying.

A rooster to father egg-laying offspring should grow rapidly and mature quickly. He should appear deep-bodied and short legged, full in breast and abdomen with a flat, wide back. His head should be moderately short, set on a large full neck, and with prominent eyes. A good male for breeding is friendly, courageous and proud of himself, calling attention to his pride by frequent crowing.

SLEEPLESS NIGHTS OVERCOME BY SAFE METHOD

SUGGESTIONS GIVEN WHEREBY INSOMNIA CAN BE SAFELY AND QUICKLY CURED.

Worry, overwork, overstudy and indigestion cause insomnia.

Healthy, natural sleep can't be produced by drugs.

First the blood circulation must be improved:

Congestion of blood in the head must be removed.

Irritation in the brain must be relieved.

It's because Ferrozone equalizes circulation, because it soothes the irritation, because it removes congestion that it does cure insomnia.

For building blood and nerve, for instilling force and life into overworked organs, for establishing strength and vitality, where can you find anything so efficient as Ferrozone?

Remember, sleep is just as important as food.

You must sleep, or break down, but if you'll use Ferrozone and thereby remove the conditions which now keep you from sleep, you'll get well quickly.

Ferrozone is not a narcotic, not a dope; it is a health-giving tonic that any child or delicate woman can use.

Absolutely safe is Ferrozone.

Take it for a month, take it for a year—no harm, but immeasurable good will result.

To sleep well, look well, feel well, to be free from depression, nervousness or blues—use Ferrozone. It's a food tonic, a healer to the weak and wretched, a boon to the sleepless—sold in 50c. boxes, six for $2.50, at all dealers, or direct from The Catarrh-ozone Co., Kingston, Ont.

Many a girl has been sorely disappointed because a young man asked her to marry him instead of asking her to accompany him to the theatre.

WOMAN DONNED MALE ATTIRE

New York, June 21—Mrs. Ivy Nasur, 21 years old, who left her five-year-old son at the home of her parents in Columbus, Ohio, to go travelling in male apparel, was arrested soon after her arrival in this city yesterday by detectives, who found a crowd collected about her. Mrs. Nasur had kept a diary which showed she had worked as a bellboy at the Hotel Statler, Buffalo, as a dishwasher in a Detroit

The woman gave the explanation that she had difficulty in finding work at home and determined to assume the male guise. As the risk of discovery was too imminent in Columbus she began travelling, sending back money to support her child.

TAXES WILL HIT BARBERS

(Toronto Globe)
Business men who have been hit by the piling of tax upon tax continue to voice their dissatisfaction in letters containing illustrations of the ineptness—a much stronger word would be warranted—with which the recent amendments to the Revenue Act were framed. A manufacturer of toilet specialties used a good deal by barbers, states that the barbers are going to be hard hit by the new alcohol duties and the luxury tax. This is his statement of the case as it affects the maker of toilet specialties and those who use them:

"When the war stamps had to be put on, the barber's lines had practically all to be stamped, which meant so much directly out of his pocket. This new tax means an enlarged war stamps tax and a one per cent sales tax. And we, as manufacturers, will have to pay $2 per proof gallon on our alcohol. We will of necessity have to raise our price. A rate of $2 per proof gallon means over $3 per imperial gallon. On top of this we are compelled to add a luxury tax at the foot of the invoice at $2 per gallon on the finished product even if only containing one per cent of alcohol. Altogether this will mean that the barber will be paying to the Government approximately $5 per gallon on his alcoholic requirements as a special tax. We think there should be some ruling whereby he would not have to pay the $2 per gallon along with the sales tax as a duplication of the duty we, as manufacturers, have to pay on the alcohol."

The conditions disclosed above indicate that on toilet preparations which formerly cost the barber $7.50 per gallon he will now have to pay $11.98, made up as follows: Original price $7.50; makers' increased price $2; stamp tax, 38 cents; salestax, 10 cents; luxury excise tax, $2. If the bay rum no longer bites when applied to the cheek of the newly-shaven or the head of the shorn, let the blame fall upon the right shoulders. The Minister of Finance, not the barber is the culprit.

In Interest of Prohibition.
Mrs. L. A. Hamilton of Toronto, alderman of that city, was the chief speaker at a public meeting in the interests of prohibition at the Opera House last night. Chancellor Jones of the University of New Brunswick was in the chair. W. G. Clark and a large number of other prohibition workers were seated on the platform. Mrs. Hamilton proved a fluent and interesting speaker and advanced a number of arguments on behalf of prohibition, appealing particularly to women. A large party of delegates to the National Council of Women which was in session at St. John arrived here Sunday afternoon in two motors, registering at the Barker House. The party returned to St. John in the evening.
