SORROW QUEENS OF EUROPE

(New York Sun)

Recent news reports say that former Empress Eugenie is expected soon at Madrid. Eugenie widow of Napoleon III, and one of the most famous women of the nineteenth century, will be 94 years old on May 5. She has been a widow just half of her life, for she was 47 years old when Napoleon III died in 1873. It will soon be fifty years since she and her husband lost their crowns by the revolution in France after the Franco-Prussian war.

Since 1871 Eugenie has made her home in England, where she spends the greater part of her time. In the winter she goes to the Riviera, in Southern France. According to recent reports, she has retained her faculties to a remarkable degree, although there are now, of course, few traces of the beauty that made her famous in the days of the second empire. Eugenie was the daughter of a Spanish nobleman, the Count de Montijo, and was married to Napoleon III in 1853. Her only child, the Prince Imperial was killed in Zululand in 1879.

Charlotta, former Empress of Mexico, another "Queen of Sorrows," is still living, although long insane. She lives in Belgium. Charlotta, now 80 years old, is the widow of the Emperor Maximilian, the Austrian archduke whom Napoleon III. made Emperor of Mexico. He was shot by the Mexicans at Queretaro, in 1867, after the French support was withdrawn. Charlotta was born a Belgian Princess, sister of the late King Leopold II. and aunt of King Albert. Maximilian was the brother of the late Emperor Francis Joseph of Austria-Hungary.

MONTREAL PRESS COMMENT ON M'TIGUE

His Win Over Brosseau is Set Down as a Fluke — Is Called Fair Second Rater.

Mike McTigue defeated Jack London of New York in easy fashion at Montreal last week. McTigue's victory at Halifax over Eugene Brosseau the Canadian middleweight champion makes the Montreal press comment of interest.

The Gazette says: McTigue no doubt scored the easiest victory of his boxing career, as he should have put London away in the opening round. London is not a good thrasher, and the victory last night did not add great prestige to McTigue's reputation.

McTigue's initial appearance in a local ring was the attraction for over 4,000 persons at the Arena, and after seeing him in action, his victory over Brosseau is all the more amazing. McTigue has an awkward and unfinished style, his greatest asset no doubt being his punch.

It would perhaps be unfair to judge Brosseau's conqueror on his performance of last night, as he was up against a man without science or punishing ability, and one who devoted his greatest efforts to hanging on to avoid punishment.

During the resting intervals between the rounds many wagers were offered that McTigue would not score another victory over Brosseau, and the fighting public are now demanding another meeting between the two men.

The Herald says: McTigue is just the ordinary second rate fighter the records show him to be.

Although the medium of McTigue's local appearance last night is not one on which any really sound and final analysis of his pugilistic class can be made. McTigue looked very much like an ordinary, average boxer, neither a dub nor a champion.

He fights flatfooted. He is slow and sluggish, is not aggressive, but he's a cagey fighter of the "clever awkward" type. As a drawing card, he would never do, because he is sluggish and uninteresting. He will draw not thirty cents here again, unless Brosseau is his opponent.

The Star says the majority seemed to incline to the view that McTigue's victory over Brosseau was a fluke. The paper admits that it is quite possible that since McTigue was not compelled to extend himself last night he has some excellent tricks in his bag.

Louis A. Larivee, in Le Canada says that it is inconceivable on his showing that McTigue could have knocked out Brosseau. McTigue is a false alarm. His adversary last night was insignificant, a ham, to say the least. To begin with, he was not in condition, and secondly, had not the least idea of how to fight.

Few dimples will be worn with this season's bare elbows.

To be fair-minded we must agree with a lot of fellows who are not.

Here's hoping that spring soon begins to "say it with flowers."

SCRIPTURAL ALLUSION TO "COMP" PASSES

Ancient Hebrews Must Have Had Experience on the Gate — What is Written on the Subject.

In this merry season the league secretaries are making up their annual pass lists. Many are the applications they receive, but few are those who are favored with the mystic passport. There is a lure about a pass to a ball park that few resist. The millionaire who could buy out the grounds is never so happy as when he can flash something that cost him nothing and amble into the field clear of charge. Curious psychology! Back in the Bible times the Annie Oakley habit eventually was known, if we must judge from the following Biblical citations taken from The New York Central Magazine which may prove a solace to those who fail to receive their annual passes this season.

Thou shalt not pass—Gen. 31, 52.
Pass not hither—II. Kings, 6, 9.
He cannot pass—Job, 14, 5.
They may not pass—Psalms 104, 9.
None shall pass—Isa. 34, 10.
No man shall pass—Ezek. 34, 15.
The wicked shall no more pass—Nahum 1, 15.

No oppressor shall pass—Zech. 9, 8.
The unclean shall not pass—Isa. 35, 8.

There shall be no strangers pass—Joel 3, 17.

This generation shall not pass—Matt. 24, 34.

They who would pass cannot—Luke 16, 26.

Though they roar, yet can they not pass—Jer. 5, 22.

But the simple pass on and are punished—Prov. 22, 3.

Suffer not a man to pass—Judges 3, 28.

So he paid the fair and went—Jonah 1, 3.

Go and do thou likewise—Luke 10, 37.

AROOSTOOK ENVOIOUS OF N. B. FARMERS

The Presque Isle, Me., Star-Herald publishes the following interview with J. A. DeWitt an Aroostook farmer who originally belonged to Carenton County, N. B.

Mr. DeWitt says that times are good across the boundary, and that in reality in some respects they have the advantage of us. This is due to some extent to the money exchange.

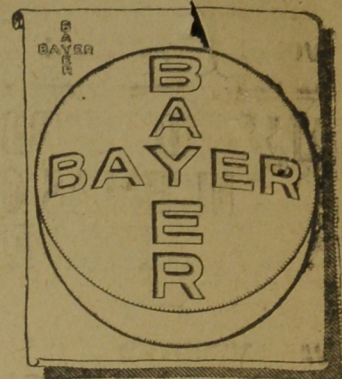

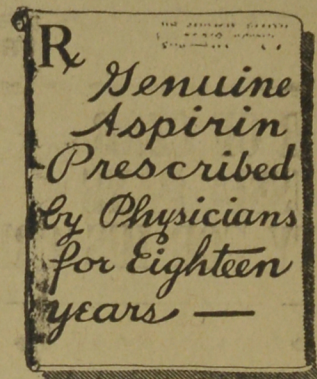

Mr. DeWitt cited a case which came to his attention where this was profitably taken advantage of by a thrifty Provincial farmer who had to meet a $1,200 payment on a mortgage. This shrewd fellow stepped across the line to Yankee land, hired $1,000 of a bank, carried it home, and bought Canadian currency with it, realizing $1,150 on the transaction. Then he scraped up $50 more and took up his mortgage. Proceeding further he made another trip across the border, and converted some quick assets he had into American money, and when his loan at the bank came due, paid it. He was a winner by quite an amount, and somebody must have lost an equivalent sum. Who was it?

The potato raisers and potato buyers are having a prosperous time of it over in Canada. Crops have been good, and free trade, which gives the only fly in the ointment with them is that free trade on potatoes is not quite so solidly anchored as the Prohibitory Amendment is in the Constitution. They fear some erratic Republican Congress may take a notion to pass a protective tariff, which shall put up the bars against them. This is a remote contingency, but the New Brunswick farmers are worrying over it.

In the case of the dealers and ship New Brunswick farmer access to American markets on equal terms with our farmers, is putting them decidedly on Easy Street. The more so as all their running expenses are lighter, taxes, investment in farm and equipment, cost of labor and cost of fertilizer. For these and other reasons the New Brunswick farmers are not looking across the boundary with yearning eyes, and longing for a farm in our land of milk and honey. The pers of potatoes over there, their lot is even happier than that of the farmers. They buy as cheaply as dealers here buy, and get an extra peck in every barrel. They pay the New Brunswick money, which they convert into Canadian dollars at the going premium whatever it may be, and then reinvest the Canadian currency they get in exchange, in more potatoes. Thus, to the regular and legitimate profit such as dealers in Aroostook

The officials are of the opinion that the spirits were placed in the lumber at some point in New Brunswick along the international division of C. N.
