THE LAST CHANCE

I have still a few imported Barred Rock Cockerels of high laying strain, which may be seen at my yards, corner of Brunswick and Northumberland streets. These birds come from the best bred-to-lay stock in New England and are possibly the best ever brought into this province. They were hatched on May 4th and some of the pullets in the flock started laying on November 6th. One of them laid six eggs during the first seven days, beating all the birds in the egg-laying contest at the Fredericton Experimental Farm.

ARGUE CONTROL OVER THE CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCH

Future of Worldwide Organization Before Massachusetts Supreme Court—Noted Counsel Heard—Publishing Society Seeks to Prevent Interference of the Directors—Five Actions Grouped and Lawyers Clash.

Boston, Nov. 29—Before five Justices of the Supreme Judicial Court of Massachusetts—with two exceptions the full bench of that highest tribunal—the final stage was reached today in a trial that will be commented upon by future historians as one of the "famous cases." Upon its determination depends the future of a whole great church organization extending through out the world—the Christian Science organization with its 1,800 branches.

The main point at issue is how that church organization shall be controlled, whether by a supreme board of directors, having a check upon every activity of the church and its related activities, or whether that control shall not extend to the trustees of the publishing society which prepares and issues the literature of Christian Science, which is read in the homes, churches and reading rooms of the sect.

Five separate actions have been grouped for argument and three days assigned by the full bench to hear the arguments. There are about thirty attorneys representing different litigants though only six of them are to address the court. They include such prominent members of the profession as Charles E. Hughes, John L. Bates, former Governor of Massachusetts; Attorney-General J. Weston Allen, Sherman L. Whipple, Gen. Frank S. Streeter, Charles F. Choate, Jr., Miles M. Dawson of New York, William G. Thompson, Edwin A. Krauthoff and others.

Mr. Hughes and Mr. Whipple are chief counsel for the trustees of the Christian Science publishing society. Mr. Bates and the directors; the Attorney-General for the people. Mr. Thompson and Gen. Streeter are for Mr. Dittmore, who is seeking reinstatement as a director; Mr. Krauthoff for himself and others, and Mr. Dawson for Mrs. E. B. Hulih.

The Justices who were on the bench are Chief Justice Arthur P. Rugg, Henry K. Braley, John C. Crosby, James B. Carroll and Charles F. Jenney.

The great and widespread interest there is in the case was apparent from the fact that as early as 5 o'clock this morning persons actuated by a fine religious frenzy, by sincere concern for the future of their church, or possibly by curiosity were sitting on the Court House steps. They remained there patiently, despite the cold and discomfort of their position, until the doors were opened at 8.30 o'clock, by which time the first group had been joined by many others. They had been informed in advance that outside the attorneys, only 125 persons could be admitted to court room, and some of them had come from England from San Francisco, from Los Angeles and from other distant points to attend this trial.

The case began in March 1919 when Herbert W. Eustace and David B. Ogden as trustees of the Christian Science Publishing Society, and Lamont Rowlands, claiming to be a trustee also, filed a bill in equity against the directors of the First Church of Christ Scientist, to prevent the directors' interference with the affairs of the publishing society.

The case was heard by a master last summer. Exceptions were taken and the case carried to the full bench. New petition after new petition was entered until today the case is as many sided as any which the courts here ever have had to handle.

At the opening of court Edwin A. Krauthoff asked the court to instruct the Christian Science Monitor to publish either all the arguments given in court or none at all. The court declined to act in the matter.

Relationship of Two Decades.

At 9.40 o'clock former Gov. Bates began his argument for the directors of the church. He charged that the trustees of the publishing society are seeking the aid of the court to change a relationship between the trustees and directors of the church that has existed for two decades, and added that the trustees "are asking the sanction of this court for abrogating the course of conduct which the trustees agreed" before the death of Mrs. Eddy to perpetuate. He argued that contrary to the contention of the respondents, the directors of the Mother Church have the power to instruct the trustees of the society as to what shall be done.

Speaking of the interpretation the trustees of the publishing society put on the laws of the church he said: "The construction asked for by these plaintiffs disregards the plain intention and purposes of the donor of this charity (Mrs. Eddy), and would, we contend, result in its destruction."

"Their position is one by which they break faith with the donor and inequitably seek to take and keep the benefits from the construction and course of conduct prescribed by Mrs. Eddy and followed by all parties until 1912, and at the same time they insist upon renouncing its obligations."

Former Governor Bates closed at 12.13. Attorney William G. Thompson then started his argument in behalf of John V. Dittmore, ousted director. He argued that "the master found the directors guilty of conduct that no honorable man would countenance."

H. J. MORGAN DIED AFTER A BRIEF ILLNESS

Funeral This Afternoon—Was About on Friday, But Died Saturday Afternoon of Heart Trouble.

Herbert J. Morgan of this city, well known for years as an hotel man, died at three o'clock Saturday afternoon at his apartments, York Street, after a brief illness. The deceased had been in his usual state of health on Friday and had attended the funeral of an employe that afternoon. At night he was seized by an attack of heart-failure and his physician was summoned. Death ensued upon the day following. The deceased was aged 35 years.

The news of the untimely death was received with great regret by the numerous friends of the deceased who were unaware of his illness.

The deceased was a son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Morgan of this city from whose home in St. John street the funeral took place this afternoon. Besides the parents surviving relatives are a little daughter and four brothers Percy, Charles, Harold and Ralph. The service was conducted by Rev. H. H. Ferguson of the Devon Baptist Church and interment was made at the Rural Cemetery. Many friends of the deceased attended.

The deceased was a native of St. Mary's now Devon and was well known throughout the province through his connection with the hotel business. While the Transcontinental Railway was being built he conducted an hotel at McGivney and later conducted the Commercial Hotel, in York street in Fredericton. Some years ago he purchased the Pine Grove property at Nashwaakisis and converted it into a summer hotel which he conducted for some time. Within the past few months he sold that property to the Municipality of York County for use as a Municipal Home, the alterations now being underway. After that sale he purchased the building in York street which had been occupied by Eastern Canneries Limited and which previously had been the Commercial Hotel.

The late Mr. Morgan at various times owned horses which were raced on tracks in this section and in that manner had a wide circle of acquaintances.

ROBBERY IS BLAMED ON A BOY OF 17

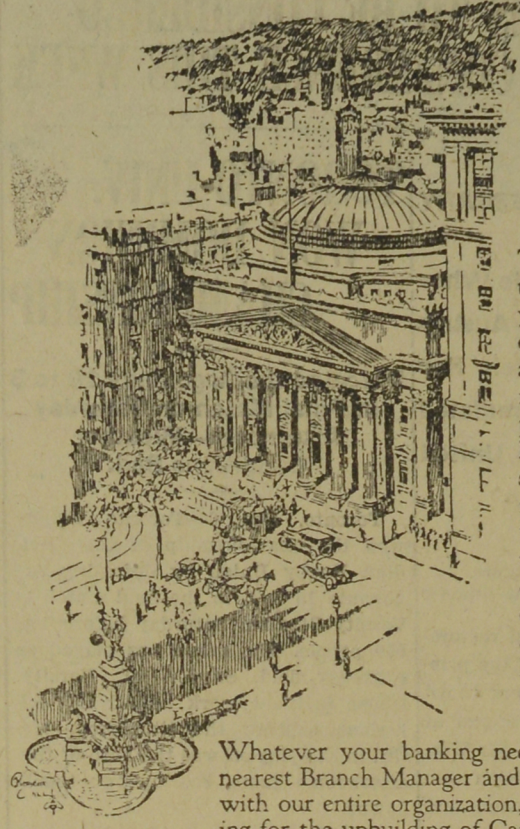

Collins made a clear confession today to post office inspectors here of the part he played in the biggest mail train robbery in history. He admitted getting a large amount of currency and bonds, according to the inspectors who say Collins asserts he became frightened and destroyed by fire all the booty.

The confession will not be made public, Joe P. Johnson, inspector in charge, said, until a few scattered ends of the big mail car robbery have been collected to terminate the case. Then, he said, further details will be given out.

Enough was disclosed to show Collins played a minor part to the master role of Orville Phillips, seventeen-year-old mail piler, who conceived the robbery. Collins' part was to pick up the bags of mail thrown from the train. He did not finish the task, he said in his confession. He gathered a few of the bags, lost his nerve, and left several other bags for Phillips and Fred Poffenbarger to pick up.

Collins said he did not know how much cash he found in the mail bags. He said he gave half of it to Poffenbarger and kept the rest. When Poffenbarger was arrested the Tuesday following the robbery, Collins told the inspectors, he became so frightened at the prospect of arrest he destroyed both money and bonds, believing the currency was marked.

Collins was taken to Omaha at 11.35 o'clock today. He will be taken to Council Bluffs, Iowa tomorrow, where he will be arraigned. The other three principals, Orville and Merle Phillips, and Fred Poffenbarger, all have confessed. Five others have been arrested in the case as accessories after the fact.

There will always be tragedy so long as women trust their daughters with men their husbands wouldn't trust to open an account.

ADVERTISING INCREASES THE HEIGHT OF A MOUNTAIN

HOW MANY PEOPLE know the names of the highest mountain peaks in the world?

FOR INSTANCE, "Kinchinjunga" is the name of one of the highest mountains in the world. It is 28,156 feet high.

PIKE'S PEAK is only 14,108 feet high—but it gets credit for being higher because it is advertised.

ADVERTISING will bring many unknown things into prominence during the coming years.

NOW IS THE TIME, when so many articles and commodities of trade are flooding already overstocked markets, for the man with goods to sell to let the people know all about it.

THE BEST WAY to let the people know is to advertise in the newspapers.

YOU HAVE SEEN THIS in the Daily Mail—let the public know what you have to sell through the advertising resources of this newspaper.
