FREDERICTON EXTENDED A VERY HEARTY WELCOME TO EDITORS

not like to discuss here, has retarded what otherwise might have reached larger proportions. Nevertheless we have both contributed to that great expansion of business between us and it is, I am sure, the wish of us all that we should continue to do business and retain those friendly relations that have existed for so many years.

A Warm Welcome

"In extending a welcome to you to New Brunswick one of the smaller provinces of Confederation, I also include that same warm welcome to the city of Fredericton, our capital city, and seat of government, that welcome also extends to you within the walls of our legislative assembly chamber where we as a government carry on the affairs of our province, or to be more precise, those functions which the fathers of Confederation and the British North America Act define as our "sphere of authority." Under the shadow of the portraits of some of the great men whom we have been taught to honor and who in the past laid broad and deep the foundations for our future, we meet for some months each year to legislate along those lines which I have mentioned by a system of government which is the most democratic system of government in the world. Democratic because the voice and will of the people must always prevail. Of all that we have inherited through our British connections, we prize most highly our British system of government. We prize that great freedom which comes to us through that system more than any other. As members we occupy our seats in this house as an elected chamber or a representative chamber, having been sent here upon a policy which has been placed before our people. Here it is that legislation is passed and presented to the representative of the king in the person of his honor, the lieutenant-governor for his approval, and which approval cannot be denied when once passed by this representative body, except in exceptional circumstances, and then if his approval is refused we can at once appeal for approval of our course to the people by way of a general election. In this way we claim our system of government is the most democratic that exists, as nothing can be denied the people which they through their elective representatives demand shall be law.

Mutual Understanding

Your visit to our country will, I trust, be interesting to you, but apart from that it will afford us an opportunity for personal intercourse which will help to clear and establish a mutual understanding on urgent questions concerning us all. Each country has power to render great service to the other, indeed it has a great deal to learn from the other and we each have some better things than the other. In this regard you apparently think we have a better supply of pulp wood than you have, for I observe that Senator Underwood has had a commission appointed to confer with the Canadian government with reference to the exportation of pulp wood from Canada to the United States. I can assure you your commission will be welcomed and every opportunity afforded for a better understanding of the questions that will come up for discussion and while I would not want to anticipate in any way what the nature of the business of the commission will be, yet I feel that a considerable misunderstanding exists relative to our exportation of pulp wood from this country. There has been apparently an impression that an embargo has been placed on pulp wood from this country. That is not so; there is no embargo on pulp wood from Canada to the United States. True it is that strong efforts have been made to prohibit the export of pulp wood and I am free to admit that I have heard strong arguments advanced in support of such a policy, but it is not in the power of the provincial government to forbid the export of pulp wood, and the Canadian government has never granted the request. True there are certain restrictions which have been applied by this and other provinces where we are free to make our own laws with respect to our own public domain, just as your legislature are free to do across the border. Today stand at the border where the railways cross the International Boundary and you will see thousands upon thousands of carloads of pulp wood grown on private lands in this province, being shipped to your country. Now only a law passed by the government of Canada could stop this and no such law has ever been passed. What has been done is this—and I hope I can make myself clear—in this province we own large areas of land, in all about ten million acres, which we lease to parties who wish to use them, upon certain terms and certain sees when the lease was granted. No variation has been made in the terms under which we lease our property except as stipulated in the leases which were entered into in the year, 1914, for a period of twenty years. Some years previous to this and to be more accurate, in the year 1913, an act was passed prohibiting the export of pulp wood cut upon crown lands, and when the leases expired some years later, they were renewed subject to this provision. How far that policy may be wise is open to consideration, and the greatest amount of good I am sure will accrue by an open and frank discussion of the whole subject with your representatives, whom we will be pleased to receive in the most friendly and sympathetic spirit. When they come we will be delighted to meet them. The more we can get together and talk these things over in a business like way, the better neighbors we Americans and Canadians will be.

"It is the hope and wish of British people wherever they may be, that the co-operation and friendship between the people of your great country and ours may be strengthened and developed and that no cloud of misunderstanding may ever arise; that good will and affection which has endured for so many years may continue and that the imaginary line stretched for so many thousands of miles which separates us, may remain as it is at present unguarded."

Pres. A. E. Albright.

Pres. A. E. Albright replying to Premier Foster expressed the thanks of the visiting party on account of the hearty welcome given its members since their arrival in the Province. In Fredericton the party had found much to admire in the fine trees and the public buildings. The Association was no stranger to Canada. Last year its members had toured the West and this year were visiting the East. The tour was for recreation and for the purpose of obtaining information and knowledge. He hoped that the years of good feeling between the United States and Great Britain would continue. In the latter country it sometimes was said that the clergymen of the United States never offer prayer without calling attention to the greatness and glory of the American Republic. Such being the case it hardly would be necessary for him to dwell upon those subjects. The United States, however, had vast undeveloped resources. Their population was some 110,000,000. Millions of acres of undeveloped land could if cultivated support a population three times as great. The country desired no more territory. In fact it wished for nothing but peace and harmony with Canada and Britain. The speech of the country was English on that account there was no wonder that during the Great War its people allied themselves with the other English-speaking peoples of the world. The party has esteemed it a great privilege to visit Halifax, the port from which some many thousands of Canadian and American soldiers had sailed for the fields of Europe. Evidences of Canadian prosperity had been seen with pleasure by the party. Reference had been made to the Pulpwood Problem. He had no doubt that it would be amicably settled as the boundary and fishery questions had been. Both peoples were enlightened and were able to sit about a table and come to an agreement. He was pleased to accept from the Premier of the province the token of friendship and hoped that the hundred years of peace between the countries would long continue.

Dr. W. C. Crockett, M. P. P.

Dr. Crockett said that in the absence of His Worship Mayor Reid who was attending a meeting of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association at Vancouver he had great pleasure in welcoming the visiting body on behalf of the City of Fredericton. Its citizens rejoiced because of having the opportunity of entertaining the visitors if even for only a portion of a day. The power of the press was generally recognized, everyone knowing the power which a newspaper with an able and keen editor could assert. Perhaps it would not be unfitting for him to refer to the advantages of Fredericton, industrial, railway, educational, in resources and in tourist possibilities. It was not a new city but had ancient history going back to the times of Villebon and Fort Nashwaak. The St. John River they all had noticed. It was a stream which in the summer lost its kick and became insipid although the only beverage Fredericton's citizens had. In Grand Falls the country possessed a natural resource which while of great scenic beauty also contained almost untold possibilities as a source of power. The province of New Brunswick
