EASTER MORN.

Easter Day according to well known theologian was new Christmas Day; it was the second birth of Christ. His second birth was greater than his first. His first birth was under disadvantages. The disadvantage lay not in the manger, but in the royal lineage. The swaddling bands that circumscribed him were not the facts of his poverty but the glories of his ancestors; the royal line of David separated him from the main line of humanity. But when he came from the dead he changed his lineage. He broke with the line of David—with all lines but the lowliest. His second life was not from Bethlehem; it was from the common dust of all cities—from the city of the dead. We think of him as nearer to us when a child. That is a great mistake. As a child he was always the Jewish Messiah—nearer to the tribes of Israel than to the tribes of man. But with Easter morn he came up from the depths—from the dust of death. He came from the place where all join hands; and that is the secret of his resurrection power. We all meet in the lowest valley. We do not all meet on the highest mountain, on any mountain; We are not made one by joys the privilege of the Jew divide, him from the Gentile. But calamity make us one. Christmas morning was beautiful, but it came from the fields of gold; Easter morning is more precious; for it comes from the miry clay.

It is a day that will be fittingly observed by all creeds throughout the Christian world tomorrow and rightly so.

With thundering crashes and vivid gleams of lightning the first thunderstorm of the year broke upon Montreal early Monday morning and was followed immediately afterwards by a lurid red sunrise of such an unnatural character that early risers thought a big fire had broken out in the southeast section of the city. The strange glow continued for several minutes, casting its radiance over a city strangely transformed by the phenomenon, until the very streets seemed splashed with ominous crimson. Hail and rain fell with great force.

Atlantic City was startled by the appearance on the boardwalk of a young dandy with his hands in a muff. But why the surprise? asks the Montreal Gazette. If women may vote, may not a male person carry a muff even if he is not a muff himself? For all the scoffers at the resort know the exquisites may have been an European gentleman of distinction. The unfriended ex-German Emperor invariably hunted with a muff and so did the late Kaiser Francis Joseph. The practice is as common over there as carrying a sword with regiments.

Delamare Maze, a French inventor, sold to the French Government the patent on a new long range gun which after thorough tests, has shown it has a range of from 100 to 120 miles. The shell leaves the muzzle of this gun at a speed of approximately 4,178 feet per second. Premier Lloyd George announced in the British Parliament recently that England has been negotiating with France to secure the right to use the plans for the new gun, and the Belgium Government is now manufacturing a similar cannon at Liege.

Some cities in America have decided to advance the hands of the clock an hour at the beginning of April, some are going to take the move in May, while others are not going to interfere with the clock at all. Steamship companies in the United States are announcing their intention of abiding by Standard time, so as not to conflict with the railways and the towns outside the ports. There is evidently considerable confusion in store as regards time for the coming summer.

The death of Judge Savary at Annapolis Royal, it is believed, at Ottawa make Sheriff Hagar of Prescott, Ont., the last surviving member of the Confederation Parliament. Mr. Hagar is in his 90th year, and is still hale and hearty. He represented Prescott in the Confederation Parliament. Last year he officiated at the L'Original Assizes as usual.

LOW NECK WILL PREVENT FLU

(Boston Traveller).

Low-neck dresses, waists and shirt waists that will give women's throats and chests plenty of air are the only preventative of another epidemic of influenza according to Dr. Charles E. Page, prominent Boston health-hygienic advocate.

Dr. Page stated today it was disheartening to see a great proportion of Boston's women and men as well wearing the same attire with the thermometer rising to 60 degrees as they have worn throughout the winter.

"It is cheering too, he added, to see that some women are sensible enough to wear attire which will give the throat and chest an opportunity to absorb oxygen. Wherever the skin is exposed this goes on. Exposing the skin acts as a chimney to let out the surplus heat and perspiration and gives the millions of blood vessels an opportunity for throwing off poisons in the system."

"The tendency of sticking to heavy confining clothes this weather is enough to bring on another influenza epidemic."

Dr. Page frowns upon bathing with water believing that baths result in removing too much of the outer cuticle of the skin which is, he declares essential. He says it should be wiped off only with a dry towel rub instead of with soap and water. A brisk dry rub daily with coarse towels, he asserts, is the only sane remedy for keeping the body clean.
