

A NEW BLOOD-FOOD HAS BEEN DISCOVERED THAT WORKS WONDERS

SAFELY TO PUT NEW LIFE INTO PEOPLE THAT ARE RUN-DOWN.

For years doctors have been searching for a combination that would enable them to inject into thin blood the elements it lacked. This can now be done, and any weak-blooded person can quickly be made strong and well. Already a small army of ailing people has proved the merit of taking after each meal with a sip or two of water, two chocolate-coated Ferrozone Tablets. This is easily done, and even one week's use of this wonderful blood-food will prove how nourishing and strengthening and flesh-building, the treatment is.

Just think of it—Ferrozone uplifts the entire nervous system, removes the blood, makes it rich and red—gives the sort of aid that's needed in throwing off weakness and languor.

Tens of thousands enjoy the advantages of renewed health through Ferrozone;—if you'll only use it, you'll surely grow strong too; its beneficial action is noticed even in a week. You see it goes right to work, removes the causes of the trouble and then quickly makes a cure.

For those who sleep poorly and have nervous apprehensions, Ferrozone is a boon; it is a specialist in such cases.

Where there is paleness, poor appetite and languor, Ferrozone makes the patient feel like new in a few days.

In tiredness, nerve exhaustion, spring fever and debility, the power of Ferrozone is known from coast to coast and universally used with grand results.

Let Ferrozone build you up, let it win you back to robust health,—it will do so quickly if you give it the chance. Sold by all dealers. 50c. per box or six boxes for $2.50, direct from the Cattarhous Co., Kingston, Ont.

THE GIRL WALLINGFORD ASTONISHES THE POLICE

Monda Rose Had a $29,000 Social Whirl Which Terminated by Her Landing in Jail—Led a Dual Existence and Made Use of Her Employers' Money to keep Things Going—Lived in Luxury for a Time.

Chicago, Feb. 29.—The social rise and fall of Monda Rose, characterized by the police as "The Girl Wallingford," is a story that surpasses almost the escapades of her fictional male prototype. In a brief fling at the coveted mark of social distinction $29,000—that is the amount Monda Rose's employers charge she pilfered from their tills—can do much when it is accompanied by a grandiose splurge.

The fact concerning Monda Rose's arrest in Winnipeg early this month at the request of Biehl & Sifferman, the leather dealers for whom she worked, is a matter of general public knowledge. How she set the exclusive set of Edgewater by the ears when it learned of the breaking of their newly-erected idol and her incarceration in a cell; how she was returned to Chicago to be revealed to them not as Monda Rose, society-bud of charm but Rose Schweiberg, charged with theft—these things were and are carried in the public prints.

Air of Confidence

It is the psychology behind the mask of social ease and affluence which all agree she wore with bland confidence that is coming to light, piece by piece, that forms an amazing narration linking ambitions with crime and crime with disgrace.

Yes, $29,000 spent with a "splurge" can do much in establishing one's place in society however transient that niche is to be occupied. Gowns jewels—she is said to have had $7000 in gems in her possession when apprehended—fine horses, teas, costume balls and an apartment in the exclusive section that delighted the eye and dazzled the imagination—all these had Monda Rose. Let us look at the other side of the mirror of life.

Here in back of the tinsel and the make-believe we find not Monda Rose all but worshipped by the "younger set," but Miss Rose Schweiberg, toiling faithfully as a bookkeeper at a salary of $25 a week. To those who knew her as Monda Rose this would indeed seem a jest, steeped in bitter irony. Why, she often spent four times her weekly salary for a bouquet

FROM A CHILD WAS CONSTIPATED

According to the best medical authorities, fully three-fourths of the people of the civilized world suffer in some form from constiveness or irregular action of the bowels. There is no doubt that many distressing diseases are caused by constipation. It gives rise to sick and bilious headaches, jaundice, heartburn, floating specks before the eyes, catarrh of the stomach, biliousness and the painful, troublesome piles. Therefore, it is of supreme importance to health that the bowels be kept regular. Simple food, fruit, etc. should be used, and rich food and stimulants of all kinds avoided. This, with the use of Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills to regulate and establish healthy action of the bowels cannot fail to give permanent relief in the most obstinate cases.

Mrs. Letitia Wainman, Orilla, Ont., writes:—"From a child I was always very badly constipated, and I can well remember when quite young, my mother giving me senna tea nearly every morning, and I got to dread it. After taking Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills for a while I am no troubled with constipation any more."

ces of Canada. He has been prominent in many public bodies. One of the honors most recently conferred upon him is election to the office of president of the Fredericton Y. M. C. A. He also is president of the Fredericton Board of Trade and a member of the York Commercial Club. In religion he is an Anglican.

Walter L. Jennings who will represent Wellington Ward has been associated with the mercantile firm of Lemont & Sons for the greater part of his life. He is a native of Fredericton and in religion he is a Methodist.

Joseph A. Cain who will represent Queens Ward is chief member of the firm of Lawlor & Cain hardware dealers. He is a native of Fredericton. In religion he is a Roman Catholic and has taken a prominent part in the activities of organizations of that denomination.

Dual Personality Hinted

A "social butterfly," she has been called. Psychologists hint at a case of dual personality, a Jekyll-Hyde system of mentality in a female manifestation. Whatever she is or was, she is to all an interesting person—an enigma. In the offices she was neat, but her long hours of work over figures stained her pretty hands with ink. But at night when soft music stole through her elaborate drawing room, no hint of the stains of toil appeared on her delicate fingers. For Monda Rose had a maid who kept her nails in "condition," receiving a salary in excess of that earned by Miss Rose Schweiberg. That $29,000 worked and worked well for Monda Rose, life

Edgewater saw her only at social functions. It was not strange that never in her appearance at the opera the charity ball or the horse show that she was not seen and recognized as Rose Schweiberg. A girl at $25 a week in an obscure position does not have the sort of friends as a rule who are apt to sip tea in the parlor of an Edgewater mansion.

When she shut down her desk at evening—and it is said she never missed a day of work in the months she toiled over figures as Rose Schweiberg—she emerged from her own self. At her apartment, where she entered by a side door, the metamorphosis was begun. At the dinner hour, seated before delicious viands in her own home of as a guest at a fashionable function, she was Monda Rose gorgeous exquisitely gowned and competent to engage in repartee or comment regarding the best families."

Girl Became Frightened

Soon the sham became too real. Monda Rose was frightened. While $29,000 had done wonders she was now "in so deep" that she must either risk a "haul" that was so substantial as to be certain to come at once to the attention of her employers on disappearance. She chose to grasp the latter horn or her dilemma, and one morning, Feb. 3 to be precise, Edgewater's younger set read in the papers over their "breakfast in bed tea" that their idol had feet of clay. She had been absent from her usual social haunts for several days, but nothing peculiar had been inferred from that fact.

Even "social butterflies" must pause occasionally to rest their wings. But at the office it was different. An investigation was launched and the firm found that thousands of dollars were missing. Just how much was not known definitely at that time. Certain officers estimated the shortage to be close to $50,000.

Search proved futile for several days. Then her employers received the following message:

"Am going to Eastern Canada to be married."

Message From Winnipeg

The despatch had come from Winnipeg. Nothing further was heard until the telegram from Winnipeg concerning her whereabouts was received on February 3. She was said to have been garbed as the dainty "Monda Rose," immaculate and charming, the girl who had captivated the North Shore social colony. In a Winnipeg bank she had a savings account of $1,700. Her jewels were worth $7,000. She admitted her identity. She said she had been eight years in the em-

Sir
John
Craig
Eaton

New Director

C.P.R.

Honorary Colonel Sir John Craig Eaton, K.B., whose appointment to the Canadian Pacific Railway Company's directorate has been just announced, is best known to the mass of the American public as president and dominant personality of the T. Eaton Co. Ltd. of Toronto and Winnipeg, the largest departmental institution of the Dominion, for which his father, the late Timothy Eaton, fifty years ago laid the foundation. In official circles Sir John is even better known as probably the foremost Canadian in civilian co-operation with the forces of government during the war period. And in the realm of trade he leads as an exponent of scientific organization, while at the same time recognizing the human equation in the labor factor.

Sir John was born in Toronto April 28, 1876, receiving his education in the public schools of his native city and Upper Canada College. He began his commercial career with his father's growing establishment, the business of which has more than doubled in volume under his administration, his individual foresight leading to the opening of the Western house at Winnipeg in 1905, and the Moncton, N.B., outpost this past season. In addition to being president of the T. Eaton Co., he is director of the Dominion Bank, the Canadian National Exhibition Association, and Wellesley Hospital; a member of the Senate of the Finance Committee of the Toronto General Hospital; a member of the Toronto Board of Trade and of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association; also one of Canada's best known clubmen and sportsmen, with yachting, fishing and motoring as his favorite forms of recreation. Political honors, though proffered like Caesar's crown, he has time again refused.

Knighted June 3, 1915, he was incidentally the recipient on Sept. 1915, of the special decoration of the Navy League, this being an exceptional honor conferred on but twenty-eight persons in all the Empire within the past twenty years. In partial explanation it will be remembered that early in the war Sir John turned over to the Admiralty his fine private yacht, the Florence, which served on the Atlantic Coast patrol under the ensign until no longer required, in the late autumn of 1915. During the war period he also organized, equipped and sent overseas the Eaton Machine gun batteries; while over $1,000,000 of his private fortune was expended in the maintenance of dependents of Eatonians at the front, the weekly payroll exceeding $10,000. Two thousand six hundred and eighty-two voluntary recruits went from the T. Eaton Co.'s establishments to the war—a man-power little short of three complete battalions—this splendid body representing 39.25 per cent of the company's male employees. And while the men were fighting for flag and freedom, Sir John provided liberally for their families at home, this wage roll of patriotism exceeding $2,000,000 in the ultimate total.

The inclusion of Sir John Eaton on the Canadian Pacific directorate gives that pioneer national transcontinental road not only another experienced business general capable of and accustomed to thinking and acting in large proportions. It also gives it a man who perhaps more than any other in the Dominion believes in the application of the Golden Rule to everyday affairs and has proven recognition of the human equation to be successful policy, in the operation of his own large concerns.
