VALEDICTORY DELIVERED AT HIGH SCHOOL CLOSING BY LESLIE BOOTH

this year had the reputation of being the most difficult of the course and we determined, by hard work, to make an outstanding success of it. The closing of school because of the influenza epidemic was a great hindrance to us, in our determination. We had social events in this year also at one time or another and the many exciting and amusing experiences will always serve as pleasant reminders of our "B" Class days. This year seemed to drop behind more quickly than our first one had done and in an incredibly short time, so it seemed, we found it our duty to prepare for closing time. We were given charge of preparations for closing night as far as decorating and preparing for the reception were concerned and we maintain that we carried them through with a fair amount of success. With the graduation of the class of '19 we were forcibly reminded that our turn would soon be at hand and that but one year remained to us in the school which, by now had become, in truth our Alma Mater.

Class Grew Smaller.

After vacation we returned, much reduced in number by more losses in membership, to the old school and became "grave and reverend seniors"—grave in name alone for surely no one ever accused the class of 1920 of being grave. We found now, that much was expected of us, that we could not be as careless as formerly, that the teachers expected us to set the other classes a good example. Before us lay the golden opportunity of successfully completing our course. It behooved us to make good. We realized by now how quickly the years are gone beyond recall and saw in the near future, our parting from F. H. S. After Christmas examinations we entered upon the last lap of the race and worked more zealously than ever toward our goal. Spring came and we were soon enjoying the few days of relaxation which Easter brought forth. Upon our return we were surprised and deeply regretful when we were informed that our English Teacher, Miss Thorne, would be unable to return to us, having met with an accident. The task which was Miss Thorne's, and which she had ably begun, that of instilling into the minds of us all the intricacies of English Grammar and Literature, was capably undertaken by Miss Clark.

With this change in the staff, we continued our work. We saw one need of our class—organization. We realized that perhaps our greatest mistake was our failure to organize before this time. We also saw, however, that it might not be too late to mend. Accordingly a president and secretary were elected and during the remainder of the year they faithfully fulfilled their separate duties. To them we owe our thanks for we know that at all times they did their best for the benefit of the class. At the time of organization we started a campaign of class activities. We undertook a banquet for the boys, a class picture party and so forth and in spite of our appalling lack of grave and reverend seniors, we obtained no small amount of enjoyment out of our last term. And now we were on the home stretch as we considered it, and final examinations and graduation were almost the sole topics of conversation in the classroom. With the first of these safely over and our course at Fredericton High completed, the class of 1920 as pupils, are gathered together for the last time and in the near future will be scattered, some to go out into the world, others to continue their education at the University, Normal School or Business College. But no matter how far we are scattered, we shall endeavor from time to time to reunite and thus serve to bring back freshly to our minds the days spent so happily in the school of the Yellow and Black.

Athletics in the School

Athletics have ever been given an important place at Fredericton High though possibly not such an important position as they deserve on account of there being no gymnasium in connection with the school. As far as our sports have gone we have done our best to uphold the reputation which the school has made for itself in that direction. When in our freshman year we were for the most part too light and too unfamiliar with the game to make valuable additions to the football team, we gave our school team the best support we were able. It was in this year that as a result of an accident at Rothesay during a game, the school lost one of the best fellows it has ever known. I refer to George M. Walker. Many of us knew George, and we knew him to be true blue, a friend worth having! He played the game for the honor of the school, he played it for all there was in it; he always played to win, but most important of all, he played fair and that is a reputation of which any one might be proud! Fredericton High will never forget him, and the boys who will compose the teams in the years to come cannot do better than play the game as he did. After George's death the school seemed entirely changed. We missed him more than words can tell and our sports seemed lacking in something vitally important to their welfare. But the games were played as we knew he would have us play them and in our second year we threw ourselves into them more whole-heartedly because we saw that Fredericton High sorely needed players who might fill his place. But our sports in this year were cut short as a result of the influenza epidemic and the consequent closing of school. But in our last year we played all our games, and we are proud of the fact that we have always tried to do our best for the school whether in football, hockey or baseball. We have not always won, neither on the other hand have we always lost. And our defeats, we feel sure, have not been due to lack of trying. On our trips we have always had a good time, but we have always played the games away from home as hard as if not harder than those played in the city. And sink or swim, win or lose, we have always tried to uphold Fredericton High's reputation for fair play.

Thanks to Staff

Members of the staff: It is almost impossible for us to give adequate expression to our gratitude toward you for the personal interest which you have always taken in us, our studies and our sports. Even now it is difficult for us to realize how much you have accomplished for us, but at least we know that we go forth from these halls a thousand times better able to cope with the difficulties of life than formerly, as a result of the influence which you have exerted upon our lives. Always have you stood ready to assist us, always have you been ready to cooperate with us in whatever we have undertaken, to an extent which places us more deeply in your debt than can ever be repaid. It is our earnest wish that whatever institution of learning we may hereafter attend, we may have the good fortune to meet with as kind treatment and as much patience as we have received at your hands.

The Future of F. H. S.

Fellow Students. With you whom we leave behind and with those entering next fall rests the future of the F. H. S. It is your duty to endeavor to make these coming years the best in the history of the school. Profit by the mistakes we have made. Where we have failed, you succeed; where we have done well, you do better. Remember that:—

"Lives are in the making here,
Hearts are in the waking here,
Mighty undertaking here,
Up—and on!"

"Up, boys, truest fame
Lies in high endeavor;
Play the game! Keep the flame
Burning brightly ever!"

"Fair before you lies the way
Time for work and time for play,
Fill the measure while you may!
Up—and on!"

"Foes in plenty you will meet;
Hearts courageous scorn defeat;
And so, press with eager feet
Up—and on!"

"Ever onward to the light!
Ever upward to the light!
Ever true to God and Right!
Up—and on!"

When the new class comes in next fall get them together; set them a better example than we did you; in still into them the motto "Palma non sine Pulvere", and teach them to put their school far before their own ends. Thus will a true school spirit be fostered and each and every pupil will be working for the good of the school and if these things are so the successful future of the Fredericton High School is assured. Remember that we who are going out expect to hear great things of you. When you work, work hard; when you play, play just as hard and above all, play fair. In short each one try to be typical of the students of the F. H. S.

Farewell Classmates

Classmates: We close tonight three of the happiest years we have ever seen. Let us never forget the training we have received in these years and the good times we have enjoyed. And also let us conceal as much as possible our regrets at parting. There is a great future before us, a future made possible by the F. H. S. We owe the world gladness. Let us carry the spirit of gladness with us and go forth determined to do honor to our Alma Mater. Today we may feel a touch of sadness. The sea may be gray today and gray the sky,
—but on that far rim gray and cold,
Tomorrow beckons gloriously once more
Along a sudden, widening path of gold!

Friends, the class of 1920 bids you all—Farewell!
