

VENUS DE MILO WOULD HAVE NO CHANCE TODAY

Would be All Out of Luck Were She, in the Present Age, in America, to Don a Sleeveless 1920 Dress—The Woman Who Wants to Make a Charming Appearance Has But to Cry "To Arms!"

(New York Sun).
Poor old Venus de Milo! She wouldn't have a chance in a beauty contest this season. Every warm day produces further evidence that arms are in again. Fashion's threat of reducing the high cost of living by saving sleeve material is being carried out among all classes and ages of woman-kind.

The ankle connoisseur has gone out for the present. Just now it is the arm connoisseur whose piercing glance appraises Beauty's charm. And the beauty parlors have slackened in their Herculean efforts to reduce double chins and round out facial contours in order to concentrate on the arm issue.

Instead of rushing into the beauty parlor and pointing an accusing finger at fading hair or faulty eyebrow the woman who wants to present a charming appearance this summer has but one cry—"To arms, to arms!"

The beauty expert, hearing this universal call, brings out the unguent jar and becomes exceedingly active, especially in the neighborhood of the elbows.

"The approaching summer will be the season of all seasons for the woman who, like Katisha, has cherished a beautiful left elbow entirely unseen heretofore," said one beauty expert. "As for dimpled elbows, oh what a fortune is there. Dimpled elbows are not only lovely, they are economical. They preclude the necessity of long gloves. It is much less expensive to put the arms through a simple soap and water process than to send long gloves to a cleaner."

Federigo Luigino, of Udine, who qualified as a beauty expert several centuries ago, points out in his "Book of Fair Women" the importance of beautiful arms.

"In the arms no small beauty will be discerned if delicate, softly rounded and velvet smooth they do appear," he remarks. Such arms had Petrarch's Laura, and the great poet has celebrated them in delightful verse.

"But they will not reach the height and summit of beauty," says Luigino, unless they likewise boast the snowy whiteness that pleased Sannazaro in the arms of the fair Amaranto and her friends and companions."

The arms of the goddesses have also been the subject of commentary by poets and prose dreamers. Those of Venus were perfection, of course; Juno's were larger and more useful but not so endearing, while the arms of Minerva are declared by some commentators to have had sharp elbows, due to her habit of studying with her elbows on the desk.

The Greek and Ionian women were credited with having lovely arms, this beauty being attributed by some observers to the fact that they wore no sleeves, merely loose draperies, so that there was no constriction at any point.

"Careful!" the beauty expert whispers when the subject of exercising

TOURISTS IN BASEBALL MAKE APPEARANCE

Old Pro-Amateur Question in a Fair Way to be Re-opened in Nova Scotia.

The Amherst News in speaking of an item in a Halifax paper that McLaughlin who catches for Truro, would be unable to leave Halifax to play in Wednesday's game, said:

There is something funny about this amateur business to us. We know of one Amherst man who was offered a position in Truro, simply because of his baseball ability. Of course the ball players are not receiving salary from baseball—but unless we miss our guess, and taking past experiences into consideration—the salaries that they pull down from their jobs are all due to the way in which they play ball.

This feature of the game simply shows that it is well nigh impossible to run baseball on a really amateur basis. The Maritime Provinces Branch A. A. U. of C. with A. W. Covey at the head has made an excellent attempt but it is doubtful if any permanent results will be obtained. Reinstatement of professionals has been carried out to an extent which is laughable, but appears to be the only thing to do if all players are to be put on an even footing. The sincerity of many "pros" who have applied for reinstatement as amateurs is open to doubt and the future will tell the tale. A forecast is that the majority of them will be back in professional ranks within a comparatively short time.

SHAMROCK TO GET FULL TRIAL

City Island, N. Y. June 8—News that the 23-meter Shamrock "trial horse" for Sir Thomas Lipton's Shamrock IV challenger for the America Cup, had crossed the Atlantic safely was received with enthusiasm by the "war camp" that the Irish yachtsman has established here.

"The arrival of the 23-meter yacht will mean," said Col. Neill, yachting representative of the challenger, "that we, at last, will be able to settle down to the real work of putting the Shamrock IV in commission for the race. A yacht always seems fast when sailing against herself."

"That is the reason why we have no real data on the challenger. As soon as the 23-meter Shamrock is changed to a racing yacht we shall be able to have some brushes that will tell us something worth knowing about our craft."

Besides the topsail spreaders, designer Nicholson discovered several other weak points in the top hamper of the craft and these are being changed.

arms to fill them out is mentioned. It is possible to exercise not wisely but too well. After weeks of immobility herself on the altar of the Indian club and the dumbbell, the woman may find herself with a strong sinewy pair of arms that would look well emerging from a rowing shirt, but are strangely out of place with a flock of flowered chiffon.

Thousands Testify to the Lasting Benefit Secured from

CATARRHOZONE

CURES WITHOUT DRUGS

One of the finest discoveries in medicine was given to the public when "Catarrhozone" was placed on the market about fifteen years ago. Since then thousands have been cured of asthma and catarrh. An interesting case is reported from Calgary in a letter from Creighton E. Thompson, who says:

"Nothing too strong can be said for Catarrhozone. I suffered four years from asthma in a way that would beggar description. I went through everything that man could suffer. I was told of Catarrhozone by a clerk in Pindlay's drug store and purchased a dollar package. It was worth hundreds to me in a week, and I place a priceless value on the benefit I have since derived. I strongly urge every sufferer to use Catarrhozone for Asthma, Bronchitis, colds, small size, 50c; sample size, The one dollar package last two 25c; all storekeepers and druggists, and Catarrh."

It is just as needless as it is dangerous to take violent or nasty cathartics. Nature provides no shock-abor the Catarrhozone Co., Kingston Ont.

CORSETED DOG THE LATEST

Paris, June 8—The corseted dog has made his appearance on the fashionable Place Vendome of Paris. The dog was a whippet pup, and its owner, a smartly-dressed woman, explained that the corsets—which resemble, even to the whalebones and lacing, those worn by women—are necessary because of the danger of the dog straining himself in his preliminary racing trials.

Many other novel dog fashions are displayed in Parisian shop windows. Among them are tiny kid gloves made to measure to fit the paws, with a lining of India rubber to prevent the dog's feet getting wet; fur-lined coats for dogs taken by their owners on flying trips, and artificial canine limbs designed by a famous veterinary surgeon.

A YEAR OLD BABY'S DIET

Baltimore, June 8—Some curious diets for babies are being reported to the bureau of child hygiene at the health department. One mother, for example says she feeds sauerkraut, pork and pickles to her year-old infant.

Another has adopted a diet of fried eggs and fried onions for an infant 5 months old. This baby balks at "kickless" milk. It won't take a drop that is not mixed with whiskey, the mother says.
