

Of Course, the Women Liked It

On special occasions, such as an afternoon tea, the new Red Rose Orange Pekoe Tea had its first introduction to many of the women of Canada.

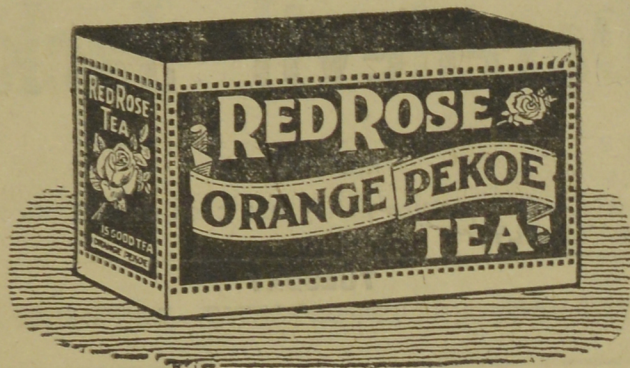

And at such times its extra qualities could be discussed and enjoyed at leisure.

The women found that its aroma is delicate and delightful, that it has a bright sparkling amber color in the cup, that the flavor is of rare charm and distinction, while its strength is rich and satisfying.

The more cultivated your taste, the more you will appreciate Red Rose Orange Pekoe Tea.

SITUATION AMONG COLLEGE TEAMS CLOUDED

King's Looks Better Than Mt. Allison Next Monday's Game Here Will Show Something.

The drawn game at Sackville Friday between the rugby teams representing Mt. Allison and King's College does not throw much light on the situation in this province. On the form shown King's should win today at Moncton although Moncton, playing at home will have as strong a team as it is possible to get.

The result of the game here next Monday afternoon between King's and U. N. B. will be the first contest which will have any value in comparing the strength of the Intercollegiate teams. U. N. B. should have an advantage in playing on home grounds but King's will have the marked advantage of having a tried and tested team which has worked together before.

Interscholastic Game.

The first interscholastic game to be played here this year will take place this afternoon at the College Field when Fredericton High and Rothesay Collegiate meet. These teams always furnish good contests. Rothesay won at home 9 to 4. Fredericton High dropped another goal but the whistle had sounded just before and it was not allowed. The victory of the local team over St. John High and the succeeding victory of St. John High over Rothesay tangles the situation materially and anything may happen. Fredericton High against the U. N. B. Freshmen looked pretty good.

HOLDS SEAT BY SAVING GRACE OF LEGAL EQUIBBLE

St. John Papers Comment on Judge Armstrong's Decision in the St. John County Election Case—Mr. Baxter Well Knew That the Petitioner is a Qualified Elector of the County—The Real Issue.

(St. John Globe)

Judge Armstrong agrees, at least he says he agrees, with the contention set up by Hon. Mr. Baxter in his own behalf that because John McKinnon, who asked for the St. John county recount, failed to describe himself as an elector, the order which Judge Armstrong himself gave at Mr. McKinnon's request is not valid in law and therefore the recount cannot be held. In refusing to do what he had undertaken to do Judge Armstrong points out that while the statute makes no demand that the petitioner should declare himself an elector, he considers it both reasonable and just that such a declaration be made. The learned and high minded judge, fearing perhaps that this explanation might not be regarded as all sufficient in view of the failure of the statute to demand that which he did not demand when issuing the recount order, but which he now demands, declares: "It is not for me to make any presumptions regarding Mr. McKinnon. It is for him, when asking for the recount proceedings, to show that he is entitled to invoke the jurisdiction of this court." And so Mr. McKinnon is thrown out of court with an "it would be useless now to adduce evidence as to Mr. McKinnon's status because any order then made must stand or fall upon the materials which I had before me at the time of making it." As a fitting finale of this exposition of law the Hon. Mr. Baxter generously consented not to ask for costs, and the curtain drops on the constable counting his fee paid from the deposit. And yet Mr. McKinnon, the petitioner, is a resident of the county, an elector in the county, a man qualified in every way to make the application, and that fact, if not known to Judge Armstrong, was no secret to Hon. Mr. Baxter, who now holds his seat by the saving grace of a legal quibble decided in his favor by Judge Armstrong.

Another Aspect

The case has another and even more important aspect. Although there is to be found no where in Hon. Dr. Baxter's technical objections nor in Judge Armstrong's fine spun conclusions, reference to the right of the county to representation by the candidate, who received the majority vote that is the real issue and it is the issue which in the end must decide the matter. If Hon. Mr. Baxter did not receive a sufficient vote he is not entitled to the seat. If Mr. Bentley did receive more votes than did Mr. Baxter the seat is morally and should be legally his without having to fight legal technicalities to obtain it. The three technicalities raised, one of which found favor in the eyes of Judge Armstrong, suggest a fear of the outcome of the recount, which itself must increase the popular impression that the recount demand would have righted a public wrong. Once before in the history of New Brunswick politics the seat won at a general election by one candidate was given to another, but the force of an outraged public opinion compelled eventual resignation of the seat and a fresh appeal to the electorate. The decision of Judge Armstrong gives Hon. Mr. Baxter a seat which his own course, if it does not express certain knowledge that he is not the rightful owner, clearly indicates doubt of his ability to establish that right by a count of the ballots. It is to be regretted that at the very outset of his career as a political leader Hon. Mr. Baxter has made himself a party to such an attempt to prevent a free expression of the public will. If what has happened has made it impossible for a recount with its revelation of the popular will other avenues dealing with this matter in a way that will do justice to himself and to the constituency are still open to Hon. Mr. Baxter. He should lose no time in setting himself right.

Nelson and The Kootenay

The name Kootenay has long been familiar to the mining and lumbering worlds. Kootenay has extensive, varied and rich mineral deposits and every valley and mountain side is a store-house of valuable timber. The city of Nelson, on the Kootenay Lake, is the distributing centre for the district, from which the wholesale trade of the interior is carried on. Nelson owns the public utilities, electric light, street railway, water works and gas works. Special attention is given to the forestry department in guarding the timber resources of the district. With an unlimited supply of wood in the mountains, there is a great future in the pulp industry. Within a radius of twenty-five miles there are twenty-five saw mills in operation. The Board of Trade of Nelson is now in communication with New York capitalists regarding the establishment of a pulp mill. Tributary to the proposed mill site are 11,200 square miles of territory from which wood supplies can be procured. The slopes, forested with timber, are easily workable. The population of the region embracing about forty thousand people, is fairly well spread over the entire area. There are about 15,000 inhabitants in ten towns and the balance are scattered on homesteads, ranches, lumber and mining camps through the district. Many, in order to obtain working capital, accept contracts for delivery of logs, trees, shingles, cedar poles and other products from their lands and there are a number of forest product operators around the Lake. It is computed that nearly 14 million cords of pulpwood could be secured, enough to last one hundred and fifty years, figuring three hundred cords per day.

The maximum distance of raw material from Nelson is sixty-five miles with an average of thirty-five miles. There are excellent railroad connections to market, and there is abundant cheap electric power. The most important power development in the interior of British Columbia is that of the West Kootenay Power and Light at Bonington Falls. Power and light are furnished to Trail, Rossland, Grand Forks, Phoenix, Greenwood, Boundary Falls, the smelters and mines forming much the largest consumers. There are openings for the manufacture of wooden ware. A sash and door factory of Nelson are branching out this year into the manufacture of wash-board, screen doors, brooms and various wooden articles and that a large business of this kind can be developed is assured.

The Kootenay can make other appeals to the world. Fortunes are still to be made by extracting her precious metals from the earth and hewing the trees from her hillsides but she has another treasure to offer in the fertile valleys that circle every Lake and border every stream—these are rich fruit lands. There are exceptional advantages in diversified farming where are combined dairying and the production of hay, grain, poultry, hogs, sheep and a variety of small fruits and vegetables. In the district are many retired military and naval officers who are able to find congenial occupation and for leisure hours there are no waters in Canada that offer greater attractions to the sportsman or lover of the beautiful in Nature, than the Kootenay Lakes and rivers. The keeping is a new industry that is making progress.—C. G.
