THE VOTE IN YORK

Probably for the first time since Confederation the County of York is represented in the Legislature by members who do not represent a majority of the electors. The official returns of the late election as given out by the High Sheriff show that the combined vote of the opposition candidates was 15,756, an average of 3939, that of the government candidates 12,675 an average of 3143, and that of the Farmer candidates 6961, an average of 1740. The average plurality of the opposition candidates was 796 whereas had the aggregate vote recorded against them been divided among four candidates instead of eight Messrs Pinder, Richards, Young and Hunter would have been in a minority of 945 votes.

An analysis of the returns from the different polls shows that the government candidates carried the parishes of Kingsclear, Prince William, Dumfries, Canterbury and North Lake; the opposition carried the City of Fredericton, the towns of Devon and Marysville, and the parishes of Stanley, St. Marys, Douglas, Bright and McAdam, while the Farmers candidates led in Queensbury, New Maryland, and Southampton. The parish of St. Marys the home parish of Candidate Young, had the doubtful honor of being the only parish in the county which gave all the opposition candidates a clear majority over the members of both government and farmer tickets.

Mr. J. K. Pinder led the opposition ticket in Saturday's election. Mr. Dickson the government ticket and Mr. Stairs was high man on the United Farmers ticket, and in making comparisons, of the results in the different parishes the totals of these candidates will be utilized.

In the Parish of Canterbury Mr. now the most populous in the county, Mr. Stairs polled 369 votes, Mr. Pinder 215 and Mr. Dickson 154, which makes a total of 52 against the opposition candidates.

In Kingsclear Mr. Dickson polled 114 votes, Mr. Stairs 133 and Mr. Pinder 87, the latter being in a minority of 190.

In St. Marys Mr. Pinder polled 217 votes, Mr. Stairs 97 and Mr. Dickson 91, a clear majority for Mr. Pinder over both of 29.

In the Parish of Manners-Sutton Mr. Dickson polled 222 votes, Mr. Pinder 103, and Mr. Stairs 138, which left the opposition in a minority of 181.

In Mr. Pinder's home parish of Southampton he polled an even 200 votes, Mr. Stairs polled 347 and Mr. Dickson 93, which means that the opposition ticket was beaten in that parish by 240 votes or more than two to one.

In Queensbury Mr. Stairs polled 157 votes, Mr. Pinder 135 and Mr. Dickson 97, which left the opposition ticket in a minority of 119 votes.

In the Parish of Douglas Mr. Pinder polled 326 votes, Mr. Stairs 254 and Mr. Dickson 176, making the combined vote of the last two 430, or a majority of 104 over the opposition.

In the Parish of Bright Mr. Stairs polled 214 votes, Mr. Pinder 148 and Mr. Dickson 100, making a majority of 76 against the opposition ticket.

Dickson polled 222 votes, Mr. Pinder 165, and Mr. Stairs 128, a majority of 165 against the opposition ticket.

The farmer vote in New Maryland was almost equal to that of the government and opposition candidates combined, while the total majority obtained by the farmers and the government candidates in North Lake about offset the opposition majority in McAdam. Dumfries gave Mr. Pinder 55 votes, Mr. Dickson 71, and Mr. Stairs 27, a total of 114 for the opposition and farmers combined.

The City of Fredericton and towns of Devon and Marysville gave Mr. Pinder a total vote of 1867, while Mr. Dickson got 1509 and Mr. Stairs but 134. Mr. Pinders plurality over the highest government candidate in the three places was 358.

Mr. Pinders aggregate majority in the polls on the western side of the river, including the City of Fredericton was 247, while Mr. Dickson's totalled 223, a lead of but 23 for Mr. Pinder. Mr. Coburn led the government ticket on the western side of the river and actually polled the same number of votes as Mr. Pinder.

Buluwayo Chronicle: Farmers in South Africa seem rapidly to be approaching the stage when their industry will be as completely organized on co-operative principles as is the case in Denmark and to a lesser degree in some other European countries. For years the advantages of the co-operative system have been enthusiastically preached, and a network of societies now covers the Union of South Africa and Rhodesia. There has followed the inevitable fusion of the general interests of local societies into a central federation.

Although there was some money spent in the late election old campaigners declare that it was the cleanest conducted in the province in twenty five years. The influence of good government is making itself felt in more ways than one.

With grain and heavy feeds steadily declining in price there seems to be no justification whatever for another boost in the price of milk to the people of Fredericton.

The Federal Government certainly passed the buck to the Board of Commerce on the sugar question.

AROUND THE TOWN

Continued from Page Three states that the "twenty cent" dinner was introduced into Fredericton by the advertiser in 1891. Will any restaurant-keeper reintroduce it? It is to be feared he will not. The prices are echoes from the distant past when a dollar was a dollar, and a dime a dime. At the risk of making readers doubt the veracity of the writer a few of the items may be quoted: Boston baked beans, clam chowder, boiled or fried eggs, oysters per half dozen, griddle cakes, pigs' feet with bread and butter, cold meat or tongue—any of them for ten cents; beef steak or ham and eggs, twenty cents; "hot dinner" twenty cents; raw oysters per dozen, twenty cents; oyster stew, beef steak with onions, scalloped oysters, twenty-five cents, fried oysters, the aristocrat of them all, thirty cents. No higher price quoted on the bill. "Them was the good old days." Incidentally it may be said that the restaurant keeper still is in business here. His prices have changed—slightly.

The decision of the City Council to take up a matter too long neglected, the provision of emergency exits for the City Opera House, is a reminder that it was the Iroquois Theatre fire in Chicago about twenty years ago, which drew attention to the lack of emergency exits and fire escapes in the great majority of theatres. Some four hundred people were burned to death or trampled to death in that disaster which caused the continent to shudder. Many of the fire escapes secured in a hurry after that fire were of little use. Those installed at the Opera House were examples. They stifled popular clamor, however, and that was their chief purpose.

HAD RHEUMATISM FOR FIVE YEARS

No Return of the Trouble Since Taking "FRUIT-A-TIVES"

MR. JOHN E. GUILDERSON

P. O. Box 123, Parrsboro, N. S.

"I suffered with Rheumatism for five years, having it so badly at times I was unable to get up without assistance. I tried different medicines I saw advertised and was treated by doctors in Amherst, also in my home town, but the Rheumatism came back.

In 1916, I saw in an advertisement that 'Fruit-a-tives' would stop Rheumatism, and took one box and got relief; then I took them right along for about six months and the Rheumatism was all gone and I have never felt it since.

Anyone who would care to write me as regards 'Fruit-a-tives' I would be glad to tell them what 'Fruit-a-tives' did for me."

A BRILLIANT MUSICAL PLAY ON MONDAY

A tuneful musical comedy presented in all its dazzling splendor, is "My Soldier Girl," with new book, lyrics, music and production, coming to the Opera House on Monday for both a matinee and evening presentation.

This new play is brimful of comedy, gorgeous scenic effects and novel costumes, and a bewitching "pony" ballet, to accentuate the sparkling and gay musical novelty in all its merry-making. The story centres about Dixie Harris, a ward of a wealthy Floridian who was a producer of theatrical attractions before the war. Dixie, likewise the Colonel served their country in the late struggle and while in France a love affair crept into the hearts of Miss Harris and a Lieut. Carter. The Colonel made many friends during the campaign, inviting them to visit his home once the armistice was signed. It is at the Colonel's home that the first act opens and a brilliant lawn fete is in progress, presenting a beautiful picture of flowers and lights. So many exceptionally clever entertainers are found among the guests that the Colonel during an impromptu speech, makes known that he is to produce a big "Follies" production in New York and extends an offer to all who desire to become members of it. The suggestion is received with enthusiasm.

The second act finds many of the guests who participated in the festivities at the lawn fete playing leading roles in the rehearsal of the "Follies" production on a roof of a New York theatre. True to his word, the Colonel has given the new show a wonderful mounting and it actually outclasses all that have gone before it.

Dixie is cast as the Soldier Girl and nothing prettier has been done in the pictureland of the stage than this novel play offers in its clever little story. There are more than a score of tuneful song hits of which "My Soldier Girl" leads in popularity, with "Just for You, Dear," "That Dixie Wedding Tune," "Bundle of Love," "Jasper's Ragtime Band" and "When You Dance With the Girl You Love" following closely.

The Monday-Tuesday play at the Gaiety is "The Virgin of Stamboul" featuring Priscilla Dean.

Unleash your imagination and shut out the commonplace world, and you will enjoy "The Virgin of Stamboul" one of the wildest and most fantastic photoplays released this season. While slightly taxing to the credulity of the critical person the picture has plenty of action, an attractive star—and what more is required for an evening's entertainment?

The story centers about Sari, a wild beggar maiden of Stamboul. While in the mosque where she has gone to pray that her soul may be cleansed, Sari witnesses a brutal crime, and consequently becomes embroiled in a web of intrigue imprisonment in a powerful Sheikh's harem, an escape across the desert at the head of an untamed cavalry are only two of the experiences which the girl endures before a handsome American officer comes to her rescue and marries her.
