CLOVER HONEY BEST TO SAVE

Save clover honey for winter stores. With sugar over 20 cents a pound, and the outlook of a possibly higher price and uncertainty of supply, beekeepers will find it advisable to pay more attention than usual to the saving of wholesome honey for wintering the bees safely, says F. W. L. Sladen Apiarist.

Each colony should have not less than 40 pounds of stores for winter. The honey gathered in June and July from alsike and white clover is perfectly wholesome, and makes the finest winter stores. Most of the honeys gathered from other abundant sources

BIG CIRCUS IS COMING ON 15TH OF JULY

"Hello, Dear Folks:

"It is beginning to be noticeable that little Johnny does not have to be told twice to do a thing now. Noticed it? He always has his face clean, even his neck and ears, is very careful about bringing muddy feet into the house and is gladly taking baby out in the carriage for an airing.

"Strange, for Christmas is yet a long way off. There must be some motive behind his sudden obedience, and no doubt the answer can be found in the thought, that the majestic Hagenbeck-Wallace Circus is coming here Thursday, July 15.

"It's only natural that he should want to see the trained animals, performing to the command of their trainers feats that are daring and astounding. Then there are the funny clowns to help take up much of Johnny's time, besides all the celebrated equestrians, the famous acrobats, death-defying aerialists and many other stunts that just fill his back with chills.

"The day is not far off when Johnny will ask to go. Then that will bring a good excuse for mother, father, sister and brother. They will all say they have to take Johnny. 'S' funny how they do look for excuses when they know that they like it themselves, that they wouldn't miss a performance.

"And if they miss this year's exhibition of the Hagenbeck-Wallace Circus they will be missing many new things and you can believe me, Old Circus Solly."

It would therefore be wise to save combs of clover honey in order that several of them may be placed in the hive about the centre. These combs should be given early enough in the fall; that is to say, about the middle of September, to allow the bees time to empty a few cells to make a place for the winter cluster to occupy. Care should be taken that these combs of honey are taken from colonies that are entirely free from American foulbrood. It will be advisable also to save extra combs of honey sufficient to give each colony one more comb in spring, but the honey given in spring need not be of the best quality.

Many complimentary remarks are made about the industry of ants; but none of them came from the fellow who is trying to produce a lawn.

People who were never financially interested in the booze business are finding it humanly impossible to yearn for the return of the drunkard on the streets.

FROM THE BOYS VIEWPOINT

FRID. DSHIP—"What a friend we have in Jesus." What does a friend represent?

The everyday definition of a friend is, one who knows all about you and still likes you. Have you thought how great your voiced opinion is. You are only one, an individual, but you may become a Lloyd George, a Gladstone, an Edison, a Lipton. Who can foretell your destiny. You can help or harm your "pals". Are you giving your best to try and lift the fourfold standard higher among your "gang".

Have you troubles? Certainly you have. Everybody has them. By troubles we know joy. A true friend will have a common feeling with you in your joys and troubles, and it is a wonderful feeling to have such a friend.

This is one of friendship's privileges. This branch of friendship, that is having troubles, griefs, hopes, fears and joys in common bears two great things. It multiplies joys and subtracts sorrows. When discussing a plan or anything with a chum have you suddenly realized there is another side to it, his side; and an hour's chat with a true friend is one of the gems a man can possess. Knock your mistakes, customs and affections out of your plans by this branch of friendship.

Flattery is the cancer of pure friendship and one's own opinion will flatter, a true friend will picture you as you are.

Proverbs 17, verse 17 reads, "A friend loveth at all times." Do you consider yourself a friend to that chap under this light? Did you love him when you said that cutting remark? Having the deeper views of a chap we are all too quick to pass our selfish decision and voice it.

Adapting the 24th verse of the 18th chapter of Proverbs, reads, "A boy that hath friends must prove himself friendly." Have you when one of the bunch passed a remark stood by and listened to the sneers? Have you studied your friends' problems and helped him solve them. You may lend a helping hand but unless you, his friend, is behind the act it will never bear fruit.

Let your friends find qualities in you that will urge them to "too your mark," for mind your friends carry an impression of you with them. Are you setting an example for them higher than your own. One they will want to imitate?

If you choose heroes that lead you to higher views of manhood naturally you will try to imitate them and in true imitation will become custom and their habit.

I throw this advice to you. Imitate resemble and dig in to working it out, remembering at all times that the cost is great but the reward greater.

Imitation

Imitation, both for good and evil, is almost an unconscious thing but it follows the contact of an impressive person with an impressionable one. Are you a leader? Whether a leader or in the ranks you are some persons hero; remember that. Overcome with your father's help those weak points.

This is a fine motto for a chap of your age:

To live in hearts we leave behind, is not to die. For great is the man who leaves an uplifting example and lesson to his successors.

This might be put under the title Work, but all work becomes a part of one when he wants to see it thru.

It requires the highest type of manhood to stand up in the midst of your gang and stay by the right, but you are making friends setting a higher standard and coming closer to your heroes mark when you do.

The Trail Ranger and Tuxis Boy should try, in his class, home, school, or playground to increase his number of friends.

Good bye Boys,

BOYO.

Boys have you when out on a hike in a camp or wherever you spent your vacation been tempted to "forget to pray" just because the boys were there? Certainly you have but do you know the secret, you pray, then the other fellow feels small and soon you will be among a noble praying bunch.

Here's a prayer from a boy who felt close to his Father.

"Dear God, may us fellers be cheerful and happy. May we show it like the bird up in that tree. May we have a smile on our faces, like Mr. Kern always had. God bless us fellers, and

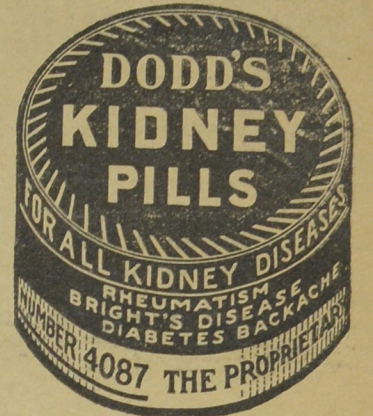

One reason we talk so much about psychology is because we don't know what it is.

"Kenora" A Summer's Idyll

Regatta Day - Kenora

There are some places which never lose their charm as holiday resorts, and which as the seasons pass attract visitors as a magnet does the needle. Such may be claimed for Kenora and the Lake of the Woods.

This lovely spot is within easy access to all situated as it is on the main line of the Canadian Pacific Railway in the beautiful Province of Ontario.

The Lake of the Woods is a perfect earthly Paradise, throned in its thousands of islands, most of which are owned by private Canadian citizens who spend their summers there leading the simple life.

A splendid way to see the beauties of the Lake of the Woods is to make a stay at Kenora and from there hire a motor launch and go sailing among the islands. The Lake is studded over by a perfect archipelago, the islands numbering several thousand, some mere islets of jagged rock, others being several miles in extent on which are built pretty bungalows and camps.

Most of the islands are thickly timbered, the trees growing to the water's edge, and in the early summer months water lilies, both golden yellow and rare white are found everywhere. Blueberries and other wild fruit also grow abundantly on most of the islands, hundreds of pounds being picked by the Indians and shipped to the different cities for consumption.

Kenora itself is a pretty little town built on the lake front, commanding a splendid view of the lake. It has a large number of stores, a Public Library, and is lit by electricity. The Tourist Hotel, in the Main Street, gives tourists every comfort.

Kenora, Ont.- Out for a Spin larger islands run by the Y.M.C.A. and the M.L.A. of Winnipeg, where the tourist can have accommodation at reasonable rates, while on Coney Island there is a fine sandy bathing beach, and pavilion for dancing.

Happiness seems to be the dominant note at Kenora and its vicinity, everywhere one meets parties of young people on pleasure bent, boating, bathing, or picnicking, and the stillness of the air is broken only by merry laughter, or the song of the birds.

The district is much frequented by artists, photographers, and sportsmen, each finding a wide field for his particular bent. The lake is a perfect angler's Paradise, many a trout being landed before break of day to provide breakfast for the campers. Here too in their season are to be found moose and bear, as well as other big game.

A short distance out of Kenora is an Indian Reserve, which is a never failing source of interest to tourists who wish to see the Red Men in their native woods.

A few miles out of Kenora are the little towns of Norman and Keewatin, both of which are within walking distance, the road winding on the hillside affords an uninterrupted view of the lake, every bend opening up new beauty spots.

Who can ever forget the glorious moonlight on the Lake, the intense stillness broken only by the dip of an oar or the throb of a motor boat, when the shadows deepen on the islands, and "when the moon sees her unwrinkled face reflected" in the blue water? Kenora is redolent of romance, is indeed like a tone poem of perfect music where there is no discordant note, and where as each evening closes one can say, we have come to the end of a perfect day.
