

Mothers who have used Zam-Buk say it is so fine for the many little accidents of daily occurrence in the home—and especially where there are children—that they would not be without it. Not only so, but children who have had Zam-Buk applied to an injury or sore, when again injured, cry for Zam-Buk to be applied. They know that Zam-Buk stops pain. Nothing ends the pain of a cut, bruise, burn, or skin disease like Zam-Buk, and nothing soothes, draws out the soreness and heals so quickly.

Mrs. I. Wilson of Sarnia, Ont., says: "I could not do without Zam-Buk for my children. It is the best ointment we have ever used for burns, sores and cuts."

Mr. L. B. Andersen of 1407 E. 22nd St., Minneapolis, Minn., writes: "When any of the children, my wife or self meet with an accident, we immediately apply Zam-Buk. It has saved us many a doctor's bill."

Mrs. C. B. Ritey of Riverport, N.S., writes: "My baby had sores on her face, caused by teething. Zam-Buk completely healed them."

Zam-Buk is equally good for eczema, ringworm, running sores, blood-poison, ulcers, abscesses, piles, boils and pimples. All druggists, 50c. box, or Zam-Buk Co., Toronto. Send 1c. stamp for free trial.

TWO MILLION OVERALL SUITS TO BE SOLD

Washington, May 10—Two million suits of overalls are to be sold immediately by the War Department, it was announced today by Congressman Upshaw of Georgia a proponent of the "wear overalls" movement.

Mr. Upshaw denied that he and Senator Dial of South Carolina another wearer of the blue denim, were "designing politicians attempting to boost the price of cotton."

"The slight rise in the price of overalls is offset by the fall in the prices of clothing," he said.

SHRUBB STILL GREAT TRAINER

Boston Globe: Alfred Shrubb is getting great credit for his conditioning of the Oxford-Cambridge relay team. For nearly a week after their arrival he gave his runners only the lightest work during the acclimatizing process and a week before the Penn meet gave them a trial test without including Rudd, who was indisposed and in whom he had complete confidence. That his team won in world-record time is a complete justification of his method of training.

CARMAN MORE THE REAL THING THAN LE GALLIENNE

Illness of the Fredericton Poet Has Drawn Widespread Attention to His Works—New York Has Appreciated Him Without Going Wild Over Him—Is Still a Canadian.

The following article has been going the round of the press:—

It may not be generally known that Bliss Carman, Canadian poet, is seriously ill of tuberculosis at Saranac Lake, N. Y. Some people argue that Carman is not a Canadian poet because he has lived most of his life in New York City. Do not suggest this to any Carman enthusiast or he will hit you. Ask Peter McArthur or Arthur Stringer, both of whom were pals his in New York. Read his poems—at least some of the most famous are Canadian in subject.

Every editor in Canada should know "The Ships of Grey St. John." Here is the poem:—

Smile, you inland hills and rivers
Flush, you mountains, in the dawn,
But my roving heart is seaward
With the ships of grey St. John.

Fair the land lies, full of August,
Meadow island, shingly bar,
Open barns and breezy twilight,
Peace and the mild evening star.

Gently now this gentlest country
The old habitude takes on
But my wintry heart is outbound
With the great ships of St. John.

Once in your wide arms you held me
Till the man-child was a man,
Canada, great nurse and mother
Of the young, sea-roving clan.

Always your bright face above me
Through the dreams of boyhood shone.

Now far alien countries call me
With the ships of grey St. John.

Swing, you tides, up out of Fundy,
Blow, you white fogs, in from sea
I was born to be your fellow,
You were bred to pilot me.

At the touch of your strong fingers
Doubt, the derelict, has gone;
Sane and glad I clear the headland,
With the white ships of St. John.

Loyalists, my fathers, builded,
This grey port of the grey sea,
When the duty to ideals
Could not let well being be.

When the breadth of scarlet bunting
Puts the wreath of maple on,
I must cheer too—slip my moorings
With the ships of grey St. John.

Peerless-hearted port of heroes,
Be a word to lift the world.

Till the many see the signal
Of the few once more unfurled.

Past the lighthouse past the nun-buoy
Past the crimson rising sun,
There are dreams go down the harbor
With the tall ships of St. John.

In the morning I am with them
As they clear the island bar—
Fade till speck by speck the midday
Has forgotten where they are.

But I sight a vaster sea-line,
Wider leeway, longer run,
Whose discoverers return not
With the ships of grey St. John.

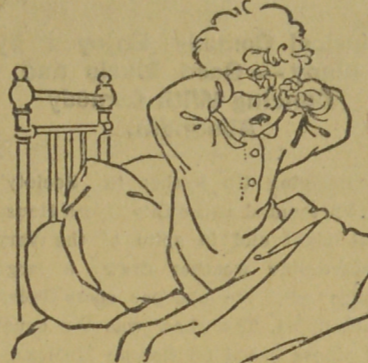

There's real passion for nature in this. No shipping firm ever could use it for advertising. It has nothing to do with cargoes. Just ships and how they make a man feel. A few hundred poems like that here and there in Canada would make this country get a size in the imagination that cargoes never give it. And for 26 years Carman has been turning out poetry at an average of a volume a year.

But neither the poet nor the newspaperman has seen each other. Carman's birthplace was Fredericton, N. B. He graduated from college down there and from both Edinburgh and Harvard, studied law, practiced as a civil engineer and taught school. He was afterwards an editor and drifted down to New York where for years he was the principal figure in elevated Bohemia. New York never went wild over Carman. It just knew him. Always if any tourist asked, "By the way, have you any poet in this burg, any more the real thing than Le Gallienne?" there was somebody to answer, "Oh, sure! There's Bliss Carman. He's the real thing in pure poetry there is since Walt Whitman and Whitcomb Riley. He looks like a statue by Rodin. He never has any money. Got brains enough to be one of the biggest editors in America. Ask Kennerley, his publisher. He'll tell you. But Carman just prefers to use his brains in singing verse with ideas in it. So he's always hard up. Where does he hail from, you say? Oh, from up Canada way, somewhere round St. John. Yes, he talks a lot about Canada. Why didn't he stay there? Oh, well, if a man's going to half starve on poetry it's far more interesting to do it in a big town like New York."

A few of Carman's well-wishers in Toronto recently raised a fund for his benefit and there is still work

NEW MIDDLE WEIGHT CHAMP AN ITALIAN

Johnny Wilson Alriht as Ring Name, but John Francis Panica is His Real Moniker.

Boston, May 11—Johnny Wilson the new middleweight champion received many congratulations yesterday.

The decision which made him champion was a topic of discussion among the sports. While some figured it should have been a draw, most of the fans felt that Wilson was entitled to the award.

Wilson is being besieged with challenges and offers. Even Mike Gibbons who retired after he got a whaling from O'Dowd, wants to arrange a bout for St. Paul, July 4. Boxers and promoters in New York, Philadelphia, New Orleans, New Jersey and several in the West have sent challenges.

Manager Killilea stated yesterday that Wilson would rest for a month and then will be ready to take on any boxer who is after the title.

Trained Hard

Wilson had been training for several months for his battle with O'Dowd and his manager believes he should rest up before making any more engagements.

The fans at the O'Dowd-Wilson contest contributed $1321.80 to the John Murray fund, responding to the appeal of Ex-Mayor Curley.

Italian Origin

The new champion is of Italian origin. His real name is John Francis Panica, and he is a product of the old Sharkey Club of New York. He has been in the game since Dec. 11, 1911. He was born in New York March 23, 1893. He has been making his home to do along that line for the man who is the personal friend of John Burroughs and Le Gallienne, and was of Whitcomb Riley and Theodore Roosevelt, and has never become a naturalized citizen of the United States.

PEPPER BLAMED FOR TROUBLES IN MEXICO

Some Think Fiery Liquor Has Something to Do With Disturbances in Unhappy Republic.

(New York Sun)

Pepper is the source of Mexican revolutions, according to many people. Hot tamales, chili con carne, which means pepper with meat; chili rellenas, chili con queso, or pepper with cheese; all the other hot dishes that delight the Mexican palate, are supposed to incite these fiery Latin-Indian folk to actions that people of more sober mien would not contemplate.

But the border citizens of this country place the greater blame on the liquid refreshments indulged in by our neighbors to the South. Aguardiente, tequila, mescal, drinks that rouse stormy passions in the Latin and paralyze the senses of the Anglo-Saxon, are consumed in great quantities.

Tequila, father of comets, sea serpents, misshapen giants, juggernauts, and a thousand other monsters, is a white liquid brewed from 'bear grass,' a desert growing plant with clusters of thick, hard and watery dagger-like leaves with needle points. Mescal, a brew of cactus leaves, is its companion drink, and mixed, the very smell will put even a prohibition enforcement agent in a state of coma.

MONTREAL GIRL STARRING IN FOX FILM

Miss Pauline Garon a well-known society miss of Montreal, is cast opposite George Walsh in his latest production "Manhattan Knight" which is scheduled for his next release, according to the Canadian Moving Picture Digest.

This is Miss Garon's debut in motion pictures, and only a short time ago she went to New York with a friend, Miss Muriel Lodge, and their beauty immediately won them a place in the famous Zeigfield Follies. Miss Garon graduated from here to a small part in the stage production "Buddies" and recently was signed by Fox to appear in the George Walsh picture.

Trying to keep out of debt is about as hard as being in it.

Every youth thinks he could accomplish a lot at college if his studies did not interfere—and a lot in business if work didn't take up all his time.

You can't make a man believe it, but the most tragic moment of marriage is that in which his wife asks him how she looks in her new spring hat—and he stops to consider.

In Boston for five years. For the past year he has been under the management of Killilea and has never lost a decision in that time.

Wilson is the second southpaw to hold the middleweight title. Al McCoy was the first one and O'Dowd took it away from him.

STOMACH AND LIVER TROUBLE

Once the liver fails to filter the poisonous bile from the blood, there is a clogging up and poisoning of the whole system which causes many troubles to arise. Therefore, upon the liver, more than any other organ of the body depends the general health.

Carelessness and neglect, and oftentimes wilful disregard of nature's laws will put the system out of sorts. The bowels become constipated, the liver inactive and the stomach upset. To bring the system back to its normal state, you should take Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills. They live up to the liver, get the bowels back to their proper condition and tone up the stomach.

Mrs. G. L. Cackett, Enchant, Ala., writes: "I have used Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills and have found them good for both stomach and liver troubles. I have told others about your valuable medicine and they have used them with good results."

"They are also good for headache." Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills are 25c a vial at all dealers or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co. Ltd., Toronto, Ont.

MITCHELL WAS STERN

Pittsburg May 10—It became known today that dissension exists in the ranks of the Chicago club and Fred Mitchell has started to clean up things in yesterday's game. Mitchell and Merkle allowed a fly ball to fall between them letting in a run, and at the end of the inning Mitchell and Merkle had an argument on the bench, each calling the other a bonehead.

Merkle was fined $25 and sent home while Flack also was fined $25. Merkle apologized to Mitchell last night and made an appeal to be allowed to remain with the team, but Mitchell refused, saying he was going to show the ball players that he is a major league manager.

Mitchell played ball in St. John twenty years ago. He frequently was in Fredericton.

THE FUR TRADE OF CANADA - PAST, PRESENT & FUTURE

The possibilities of the Fur Trade of Canada may be said to have had its first publicity from the visit to London of Pierre Radisson and his comrade the Sieur Groselliers. These two intrepid French explorers arrived in the great metropolis after a long period of adventurous exploration into the primeval North West, and it is to their enthusiastic reports that the "Honorable Company of Merchants-Adventurers Trading into Hudson's Bay" owes its inception. This company was incorporated in 1670, and obtained its charter by the patronage of Prince Rupert, who was looking for some reward from King Charles at that time in return for his military services in Europe. A request for money would have sadly embarrassed the "Merry Monarch", but with his customary generosity in all things not affecting his private purse, he cheerfully signed away the trading rights of a continent. Fortunately for Canada this monopoly fell into good hands, and the outcome of this and a similar charter granted the East India Company have had such enormously favorable results on the Empire's trade that little further tribute is required in favor of well protected private enterprise. That the Hudson's Bay Company has successfully survived many oppositor concerns, may be largely attributed to the fairness of their methods with the Indian trader. Unscrupulous traders, principally from the border states of America, were in the old bad days, very glad to barter cheap whiskey for expensive pelts, a nefarious practice that was at last stamped out by the North West Mounted Police. While the Hudson's Bay Company's organization entails the maintaining of big stores of commodities in the remote places of the North, the actual trading with the trapper is done with Canadian dollars, these pieces of paper being held in great respect by the Esquimaux, however rude and unlettered. Most of the big cities in Canada were originally the site of a Hudson's Bay Trading Post, among others, Winnipeg, Calgary, and Vancouver, and it was mainly due to the enterprise of two Hudson's Bay Traders that these cities eventually became linked up by the Canadian Pacific Railway. Donald Alexander Smith, and George Stephen learnt the "Conduct of Life" in a hard school, but from their long periods of isolation in the barren, icebound vastnesses of the North they gained that breadth of mental outlook which comes to man in no other way. In his lonely fur trading post in Labrador, Donald Smith had ample opportunity to acquire the inwardness, the true introspection necessary to his tremendous work connected with the Canadian Pacific Railway; and as Lord Strathcona, with the moulding of young Canada from a Crown Colony to its present status. The fur trade of Canada is not the most valuable of her natural assets, but the present enhanced value of the pelts, and the fact that Canada is still one of the most productive areas for the rare and costlier furs is attracting a renewal of interest to this pioneer industry. It had been estimated that eighty per cent. of the silver foxes of the world come from

Canada, and the value of pelts of all kinds exported has risen from $5,837,383 in 1917 to $14,000,000 during the fiscal year 1918-1919. Beyond the taking and trapping of furs however, the various phases of the industry have, until quite recently passed entirely out of Canadian hands. Statistics have proved that the American markets are absorbing an increasingly larger proportion of Canadian furs, New York taking $9,743,464 worth last year as against $3,763,955 to Great Britain, and $230,202 to other countries. A considerable quantity of these are re-purchased and brought back to Canada, both in the raw pelt and in the finished garments, this anomalous situation entailing a considerable monetary loss to Canada every year. The fur interests of the Dominion have been aroused to the point of action and in future the Montreal Fur Auction Mart, a co-operative concern with $5,000,000 behind it, will undertake the disposal of these valuable skins in the country of their origin. It is to be hoped that this indispensable adjunct to not only the furs indigenous to Canada, but also the skins of other animals from other lands, so that the market may become a representative one, as in this way the numerous important trades necessary to the finished article will quickly develop in its train. It is proposed to hold three auctions a year, the first of which has already been held and proved a great success. Enhanced prices and an enormously increased demand have occasioned a somewhat rubbish assumed that this branch of the fur trade will be considerably developed in the next few years. An extension of the experimental fur farm established by the Government of Canada on P.E.I., and the inauguration of similar institutions in other parts of the Dominion is highly desirable.
