THE REPUBLICAN PARTY IN THE U. S. SWEEP BACK INTO POWER BY A GREAT TIDAL WAVE

New York, Nov. 3—At 12.30 o'clock this morning with actual returns far from complete, Harding was certain of 275 votes in the electoral college from the following states:

Connecticut, Delaware, Idaho, Illinois, Iowa, Kansas, Maine, Massachusetts, Michigan, Nebraska, New Hampshire, New Jersey, New York, Ohio, Oregon, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, Vermont, Washington, Wisconsin and Wyoming.

The states from which returns were too meagre to justify actually placing them in either the Harding or Cox column were: Arizona, 3; California, 13; Colorado, 6; Indiana, 15; Kentucky, 13; Maryland, 8; Minnesota, 12; Missouri, 18; Montana, 4; Nevada, 3; New Mexico, 3; North Dakota, 5; South Dakota, 5; Utah, 4 and West Virginia 8, a total of 120.

The states which were certain for Cox at that hour were:

Alabama; Arkansas; Florida; Georgia; Tennessee; Texas and Virginia, a total of 136 votes in the electoral college.

On the face of returns showing the growing landslide for Harding, Governor Cox's own newspaper, the Dayton News and Chairman White, of the Democratic National Committee, soon after 11 o'clock tonight conceded the election of Senator Harding. Without waiting for returns from the West, which four years ago elected Wilson in the face of pluralities for Hughes throughout the east, the Democratic candidate and his chief manager conceded that in the "solemn referendum" which President Wilson declared would decide the League of Nations question, United States voters had preferred Harding, who favored "staying out," to Cox, who favored "going in."

Gathering Momentum.

New York, Nov. 4—At 11.15 o'clock eastern time, with the west and middle west still scarcely heard from, the Harding landslide in the east was continuing with gathering momentum. At the rate the Harding column was growing at that hour, the Republican plurality in the state of New York would be around the unprecedented figure of more than a million. New York city, normally Democratic, was going for Harding by at least half a million. The governorship fight continued close with Republican managers claiming the defeat of Governor Smith.

Two to One For Harding.

In the home district of Charles F. Murphy, of Tammany Hall, Harding beat Cox two to one. Maine reported Harding leading Cox by the largest plurality ever given a presidential candidate. Ohio, one-fifth complete, showed a growing vote for Harding.

Harding carried two wards in the city of Atlanta Ga., and two parishes in the Louisiana sugar belt, both Democratic territories. In the New York senatorial race, Senator Wadsworth was leading his Democratic opponent Lieut-Governor Walker. Senators Brandegee, of Connecticut, and Moses of New Hampshire, opponents of the league of nations both seemed certain of re-election.

New York Celebrates.

New York, Nov. 2—With tooting horns and the cackle of rattles, New York city poured out into the streets late today for its time-honored election night celebration—for New York always celebrates, whoever the winner and whoever the loser.

But hardly had the streets been filled than they were emptied again—or almost emptied—for the skies opened and the rain descended by far more than the proverbial bucket full.

Crowds who had gathered in front of bulletin boards broke and ran, swept along by a furious wind that whipped the rain drops, under umbrellas with merciless force. The few score, however, that stood their ground on Park Row, at 8.45 o'clock saw the tower of the New York World building suddenly illuminated with red lights—the signal that that newspaper, a staunch supporter of Governor Cox, had conceded the election of his rival.

About the same time, the New York Sun which has championed the Republican banner and which claimed a landslide for Senator Harding, admitted that Governor Smith of New York, Democrat, probably had been re-elected.

The New York Times, however, which has supported the Democratic presidential nominee at 9.15 o'clock

Presentation to A. C. McCulloch

The staff of the Agricultural Office presented an address and a gold-mounted fountain-pen and an ever-sharp pencil to A. C. McCulloch who recently resigned the appointment of Provincial Poultry Superintendent to take a Federal appointment. M. A. McLeod read the address and Miss Inez Johnston made the presentation.

had not accepted early returns as indicating his defeat.

The New York Tribune, Republican claimed election of Senator Harding at 8 o'clock.

The Brooklyn Eagle, another strong Democratic organ, in its latest extra carried the headline "Harding Sweeps New York State." The Eagle reports Harding had a majority of about 100,000 in Brooklyn.

The New York American went to press at 9 o'clock proclaiming Senator Harding elected President.

FIGHT IT OUT AND BE HAPPY EVER AFTER

(New York Sun)

Marriage—happy, unhappy or just uncomfortable—is the spice of life and the best kind of an insurance policy against loneliness, says W. L. George, British novelist. He also argues that there should be no unsuccessful marriage in America. "There are the divorce privileges," he said.

"Marriage is the only insurance policy against loneliness," he said, explaining that he believed a marriage which could be described as only slightly successful because of the incompatibility of the couple was in reality a great deal better than an individual man and an individual woman keeping their lonely vigils through life—unloved, unbeaten and alone. Together, he said, each might have found something that would have made their lives bigger and more useful, despite a mutual dislike. Even their abuse of each other forms a certain kind of companionship, he said.

"Despite the tendency of American women to be Americans first and women afterward, women the world over are at heart the same," Mr. George said. "And when they come up against the problem of marriage they have to think the same questions out, under more or less the same circumstances."

Marriage—the natural state of mankind—can be very happy, very unhappy and uncomfortable, in Mr. George's opinion.

For the Sick Marriage

"Use the fair remedies for the sick marriage," urges the British writer. "The hypothesis that all is fair in love and war worked very well when applied to marriage, for is not marriage some love and considerable war?"

"Quarrel" Mr. George urged. "Quarrelling is the physic that will remove the cankers and poisons of married life."

Many of the causes of lingering estrangements between couples are caused by the inability of the persons to air their views of each other in an old fashioned family quarrel.

"Start off in this way," he advised. "I've had enough of this and I can't stand it any longer. What do you mean?" And this exclamation by either of you will be the signal for battle. Words, accusations and grievances will fly and each will flatly deny the statements of the other. After the system has been exhausted, go to bed.

"In the morning the poisonous things which have been stored away have been freed. Neither of you will mention the dispute and gradually both of you will realize that possibly you were each a little right and a whole lot wrong."

Advice to the World

Here are some of Mr. George's observations:

"Marriage is always worth trying. Especially in America where divorces are easily obtained."

"To the man I say, tell your wife you love her. Repeat it every day, and both of you will come to believe you are right. She will like it."

"To the woman I say, tell your husband how fine he is looking. Encourage him. Show him that you love him, at least once in a while."

"Air your grievances often."

"Fight out your troubles. Don't store them away."

"Whatever you do, get married."

Street Parade Today.

The undergraduates of U. N. B. paraded the busiest streets of the city today previous to their march to the College Field. As usual the principal feature of the parade was Doctor Herman Buraglia's orchestra which, seated in a wagonette in uniforms resplendent with multi-colored splashes noisily and humorously thrilled the many people who lined the pavements.

Raymond Wright of Perth, Jet, arrived in the city on Monday evening and has commenced a commercial course at the Business College here. Mr. Wright was accompanied by his father M. L. Wright, who went to St. John last evening.
