PROF. LEACOCK TALKS TO EMPIRE PRESS DELEGATES

Noted Canadian Humorist Outdid Himself — Would Sooner Welcome Visitors to the City of Montreal Than Any Other Spot North of Mexico — The Place, He Says, Where All Conventions Meet.

Prof. Stephen Leacock of McGill University Canada's leading humorist made the following speech at the dinner to the Imperial Press Conference during their stay in Montreal.

"Lord Atholstan and gentlemen: There are times when a speaker feels on rising, somewhat appalled and abashed at the dignity and learning of the audience he is about to address—but this is not one of these times. I am not worried at all. I admit you make a very imposing appearance, but when I remember you are, after all, gentlemen of the press, I have no fear of you whatever.

"I know the press in all its methods. I know it when it sits up at three o'clock concocting leading articles but in no mood do I like it better than the present one. My only direct connection with the press consists of dealing with young men who come to me after I have made a speech and say 'Would you mind giving me the heads of what you said?' There is something about my speeches which makes them think it is all introduction. They think the principal parts are to come later on while the principal parts are coming right now. If there are any members of the press here tonight, I just want to say to them that the chief parts of my speech are coming right now. These are the chief points, just what I am saying now.

Bugs Eating Farm

"I have been asked to come and help welcome you tonight, and I cannot tell you by what great sacrifice I did it. I may tell you, however, that I have come from my farm in the country, and there the bugs are eating my farm away at this moment. I ought to be there. Those of you from the Australian antipodes know that of hand-picked bugs we have more this year than ever before, and I really should not have left. My wife clung to me and asked me to stop. 'The bugs first,' she said, but I said No, the bugs come every year.

"Well, I am sorry if Lord Atholstan should think that I may be talking in a light vein. Lord Atholstan said particularly, 'don't be light. I think they ought to have something to carry home,' I said, 'Forget it, Lord Atholstan. There will be no trouble about that. They will be carrying home all they can get without my telling them anything.'

"It is a pleasure and a great pleasure, gentlemen, to welcome you to Montreal. I don't know of any one spot north of Mexico I would sooner welcome you to than Montreal. If you could just realize the demand we have for beds and accommodation for conventions and meetings. I cannot transact the simplest business in the United States without receiving a wire, 'Think better personal conference in Montreal.' I never get a lower berth on the New York Central without receiving a telegram, 'Think better President meet you Montreal and discuss.'

"But I wanted to congratulate you on the very high and lofty aim for which you are here. Just what it is, I don't remember. Someone told me all about it at dinner, and I remember I said 'that is a lofty thing these fellows are coming for, a splendid thing.' I believe you are going to Ottawa to undertake your really serious labors. You will forgive me if I don't accompany you. This part of your trip is quite good enough for me, and although you are to spend two days in Toronto, you will pardon me if I am not with you. The percentage of effort is not as high there as it is here in Montreal.

The "Mean Average Dinner"

"I have nothing but sympathy and admiration for some of the splendid labors you are about to achieve. I have added up the number of men taking part in this Imperial Press Conference and computed the number of dinners you are going to participate in. I have then multiplied them together and got the mean average individual dinner you are going to eat: 4,200; and 3,600 luncheons. You are to be given dinners and luncheons all the way from here to Vancouver, to be shown waterfalls, factories and works of all kinds, and in the spirit of true British brotherliness you are going to stand for it. I form something of a mental picture of your delegate when he gets to a town at the end of the trip, and they say, 'this is the principal factory of our town, we want you to see it.' Some men break down into hysteria and say in a quivering voice, 'Is that your principal factory, really?' Others go in a flying rage and say, 'By Heaven, don't show me that.' But you are come to eat these luncheons and dinners and look at their factories, because that is the way we bind our British Empire together.

"We have with us tonight distinguished delegates from the United States. They have often wondered how we hung together. Well, I can tell them the secret now, they are seeing us do it. I have met more friends from Tasmania tonight, than I ever did in my life before. He do not need to have conventions and gatherings, we just simply get together, eat, drink and show one another our factories.

"I have only one word of advice to offer to you gentlemen and it is the advice given by Daniel Webster as he stood by the falls of Genesey River and said, 'Men of Rochester, go on.' That is what I invite you to do sirs. Go on as you are doing, you are all right."

JENNIE HAL FORMERLY MARY CAROLINE

Once Owned in Perth, Ont., and Sold to J. E. Sullivan of This City as Common Plug.

(Central Canadian, Perth, Ont.)
Down in the Maritime Provinces there is a little bay pacing mare named Jennie Hal, causing a sensation with her remarkable track achievements. This mare was raised in Burgess by Mr. Stephen White, who sold her as a foal seven years ago to Mr. John A. Kerr, of this town, and she was then known as Mary Caroline. It will be remembered she figured in a runaway accident some years ago, owing to a fright she got and her driver and owner was severely injured. After that incident she was in turn sold to Mr. Frank McLennan, who in turn disposed of her to Mr. T. J. Devlin, and she was afterwards sold as a common plug to Mr. Sullivan, of Fredericton, N. B., and shipped to that province in a car load of other soon discovered and in her first race she won with a mark of 2.24. At Woodstock, N. B., the other day she won second money in the 2.28 trot and pace, and in the heats she won, the best time was 2.23 1/4. Word has been received in Perth this week that her winnings have been protested as it is alleged she is a "ringer," and her identification is awaited. Her present owner will not have the least difficulty in proving her identity. Jennie Hal has before her a promising future.

VACCINATION OF EMPLOYES

THE FOLLOWING IS PUBLISHED FOR THE INFORMATION OF THE PUBLIC, GENERALLY, AND ESPECIALLY OF THOSE DIRECTLY CONCERNED

"1. Section 30 of The Public Health Act, 1918," being 8 George V. Chapter 36, is hereby amended by adding after the last paragraph thereof the following paragraph:

No person shall be employed in any camp, ship, factory or other place wherein the employees come at frequent intervals into close and prolonged contact one with another, unless and until such person produces to the employer or the employer's representative a certificate signed by a regularly qualified medical practitioner, of successful vaccination, or a like signed certificate that he is immune to vaccination as proven by three consecutive non-successful vaccinations, or that he is immune to small-pox by reason of having had the disease, and no employer shall employ any person in employment as set forth above, without such certificate being produced. When any person contracts small-pox, who is at the time of the inception of his sickness employed as set out in this section, or who was so employed within fourteen days prior to the inception of his sickness and who has not complied or been required to comply by said employer of employer's representative with the foregoing provisions prior to his employment, then in such case the employer shall be primarily liable to pay all such costs, charges and expenses as the sub-district Board of Health concerned may have incurred in necessarily protecting the public health; provided such charges, costs and expenses were incurred in or about the necessary precautions relative to, or immediately appertaining to, any such case of small-pox, and such costs, charges and expense may be sued for and recovered with costs, in the name of the Chairman of the sub-district Board incurring the same, in any court of competent jurisdiction, within six months of the recovery or death of any such person. Such liability shall be in addition and without prejudice to any liability for any penalty provided for any violation of the provisions of this Act.

The terms and conditions of this section shall not become operative until the first day of July A. D. 1920."
