Teeth Without Plates

Broken down teeth we restore to beauty and usefulness with crowns of porcelain and gold. Spaces from which one to ten teeth have been lost we replace with bridgework. It occupies just the same space and looks just like natural teeth. It is extremely durable and at our price is within the reach of all.

The right kind of dental work is the kind we do, at the right prices.

Why people suffer from bad teeth or go without teeth is a mystery only explained by ignorance of our painless methods.

Call and have your teeth examined and get our estimate before going elsewhere---it costs you nothing.

Nurse in attendance.

SAYS THAT FIELD AND HIS GIRL BOTH MADE GOOD

Ex-Governor Dunne Says That He Proved Himself a Man and That Peggy Marsh was a Good Mother—The Court Hears the Marriage Contract—Interesting Will Case is Being Tried in Chicago Courts.

Chicago, May 15—"After Harry Field and Peggy Marsh had erred, they acted pretty decently on both sides," said former Gov. Edward F. Dunne, counsel for Henry Anthony Marsh, the son of the English actress, before Judge Charles Foell when the case of the will of Margaret Field was continued today.

"When faced with maternity Peggy Marsh was neither a coward nor an infanticide. She bestowed upon her son all the love of a mother. Henry Field proved himself to be a man. He lavished money on his son and its mother, left nothing undone that would add to their comfort, and before marrying signed a contract to support them."

According to the contract, Henry Field was to pay Peggy Marsh during their joint lives $10,000 a year for the support of herself and child. As the boy became 5 and 10 years old, the sum was to be increased by $2,500, to go toward the child's education. Field also took out an insurance policy for $100,000, of which in the event of his death, 120,000 would go to the mother and the child and the remainder would be so invested as to bring an income of 5 per cent.

"Capt. Marshall Field has complied with all the terms of the contract," continued Gov. Dunne, "and has shown himself to be an honorable gentleman."

Gov. Dunne's argument in behalf of Henry Anthony Marsh was that the word "issue" in the will meant any issue. Whatever "legal issue" was intended, he said it was so specified.

Former Judge Edgar O. Brown, one of the counsel for Marshall Field, 3d, contended that Henry Anthony Marsh was not an "issue" under the meaning of the term used in the will. Judge Brown, although admitting that indubitably young Marsh was the child of Henry Field, maintained that he should not be considered as legal issue.

"Whenever Marshall Field used issue throughout his will," said Judge Brown, "he meant 'lawful issue'. The words are used interchangeably. The use of the word 'lawful' is redundant."

It was proposed that the depositions of Peggy Marsh and other witnesses regarding her relations with Henry Anthony Marsh, suggested that Judge Foell read them himself, but at the insistence of the counsel for Nancy Perkins Field that they be read in open court Judge Brown read them.

According to the depositions, Peggy Marsh testified that she had met Henry Field in London in 1915 and that their son, Henry Anthony Marsh was born in 1916.

"I was not married to Henry Field and I never considered myself married to him," said the deposition.

The actress who was also known under the name of Peggy Greenough, said that on one occasion she and Henry Field had registered in a hotel under the name of Mr. and Mrs. Greenough. When Henry Anthony Marsh was born she had the boy christened that name, giving the fictitious name of Henry Anthony Marsh as that of the father.

Testimony from another witness—a Beryl Gwynn—was read, who said that she knew both Peggy Marsh and Henry Field and said he admitted that he was the father of the child. Neither of them considered themselves married to each other.

The testimony of a waiter at their hotel in London followed. According to the waiter they would frequently eat together in Peggy Marsh's sitting room.

"He never addressed her as his wife," said the waiter, "but he would refer to her as 'Miss Marsh' or 'the lady.'"

A CHIP OF THE OLD BLOCK

"Yes son see how papa is getting gray haired worrying about you and your disobedience."

Observant Son—Well, pa, then you must have been an awful naughty boy, because grandpa's hair is all white.

NOT HER IDEA OF HEAVEN.

The conversation around the long dinner table ended, as do most conversations nowadays, with the subject of spiritualism. The guests and the members of the family gave their opinions as to whether or not the dead could communicate with the living, but it remained for "Sweet Sixteen" to present the only original thought on the subject.

"It's hard enough now for me to keep up my correspondence," she said. "When I die I want a rest."

Another old fellow named Walls, said "I'm strong for the new overalls. For my roll is safe now."
