

A COLD PREVENTIVE.

Have you ever come out of a theatre, or church or over-heated room and felt, immediately the cold night air caught your throat and breathing passages, that you were going to catch cold? That is the time to take Peps. Two or three Peps taken at once will prove an unerring preventive. A cold developed means needless suffering and expense. Safeguard yourself by always keeping a box of Peps on hand.

They are also best for coughs, sore throat and bronchitis. All dealers, 50c. box.

A QUAKER OPINION OF CONDITIONS IN IRELAND

Interesting Statement by a Committee of the Society of Friends—Visited Ireland and Made a Personal Enquiry—Eighty-five per cent of the People Render Allegiance to the Irish Republic.

(Journal of Commerce.)

It is not easy to obtain impartial and correct accounts of the condition of affairs in Ireland. That it is bad everybody knows. But from each side in the quarrel comes the accusation that the other is not putting the truth before the public. Perhaps as fair a statement as we can hope to find is that which has been made by a committee appointed by the English Society of Friends, those who are commonly called Quakers. The organizations of the Friends everywhere have a well deserved reputation for uprightness in all their operations. The Society in England, desiring to obtain a truthful account of the Irish situation, appointed a committee of three members to visit Ireland and make a personal enquiry. The committee visited Dublin, Belfast, Limerick, Cork, and other principal centres and had interview with all classes of people. They found, as their chairman reports, that there are really two 'Governments in Ireland,—that of the Crown and that of the Irish Republic. Each has its Cabinet, its Executive, its armed forces, its courts of Justice. It is no exaggeration, the committee report to say that eighty per cent of Ireland renders allegiance to the Irish Republic, willingly or unwillingly, and that in that area the authority of the British Government rest upon force and not upon consent. The devastation of towns and villages in the recent rioting is pictured and the committee's chairman proceeds:

Some Impressions.

"So much for what we saw. Now for a few impressions. The old irreconcilable Unionism except in Ulster, is dead as a policy. The old Constitutionalist Nationalist Party has gone also; one former Nationalist M. P. told me he doubted if he could find enough supporters to fill in his nomination papers. Everywhere men talked of a Republic, a liberat measure of Home Rule, or Dominion Home Rule. It is not that Unionists think Home Rule the better policy, but that they regard something of the kind as inevitable. A measure of the kind which would have been fought five years ago would now almost certainly

I thought there was no relief until, on a friend's advice, I tried Zam-Buk. From the first it did wonderful good in relieving the irritation and soothing the sores. Further perseverance with Zam-Buk cleared away every trace of the itchy disease that, for so long, had defied everything else."

be accepted by Unionists with thankfulness. We gathered, however, that while extreme Sinn Féiners are apparently irreconcilable and will accept nothing short of an independent Irish Republic, there is a large mass of moderate opinion which would accept a well conceived measure of self-government. Several expressed the opinion that bestowal of this would kill the agitation for independence. However this may be I must report that deeds, not words, are needed. Government promises are simply disregarded."

It is more than probable that if some of the recognized leaders of Irish opinion would take the head in boldly declaring their willingness to accept a measure of Home Rule something like that enjoyed in the Dominion reserving to the Imperial Parliament a few questions that the vital to Imperial unity that "large mass of moderate opinion" to which the report refers would make itself manifest and would attract the support of many others who in their impatience have given some degree of aid to the Sinn Féin movement. Many of those, too, who have hitherto strongly opposed Home Rule would now reverse their judgment. As Lord Morley said in his recent letter "Everybody agrees, from the bewildered Cabinet down to the least unchristian of Orangemen, that Home Rule of some sort is now inevitable." But unless some of the Irish leaders will so declare themselves, unless there is some clear indication that the Irish majority would accept a liberal Home Rule measure—such a measure as John Redmond was ready to agree to—it is not easy to see how any progress can be made in the direction advised by the Quaker committee.

U.S. QUAKERS FEED GERMANS

Special to Daily Mail. Copyright 1920 by Cross Atlantic News Service Berlin, Oct. 25 (by Mail)—Assistance from American Quakers is regarded here as a silver lining in the clouded European sky. In a lecture here recently, a speaker gave some interesting details to show the vast extent of American aid. Never-ceasing collections in the United States supply the funds; all classes, creeds and races are contributors.

At present, 420,000 meals are given daily to needy children, and during June and July the daily average rose to 600,000 meals. Up to the end of September 3400 branches in Germany had distributed 42,300,000 meals at a cost of $2,000,000. In Greater Berlin 56 kitchens and 830 food depots provide for the starving children. The meals consist of rice, flour, fats, cocoa, condensed milk, sugar, peas and beans.

HEZEKIAH FIRST DAYLIGHT SAVER

New York, Nov. 7.—Daylight saving which ends for this season October 31 is not an economic novelty peculiar to the present Administration. Stop-watchful waiting was inaugurated in the reign of King Hezekiah of Judah, 710 B. C. "Behold I will bring again the shadow of the degrees, which is gone down in the sun dial of Ahaz, ten degrees backward. So the sun returned ten degrees, by which degrees it was gone down."—Isaiah 38:8.

It will be noted that to gain the same ends the sun was turned backward ten degrees, while with, exactly reverse technique, in Wilson's time the hour hand is pushed ahead six degrees. Of course, the purpose in the first case was that of giving a divine sign, while the present period of readjustment is more the sign of the times, accompanied by urban-rural controversy.

Incidentally, to those who are fond of the sun dial, it might be of interest to state that the foregoing Biblical quotation is the earliest mention of the sun dial, some 2,600 years ago.

This year's enormous crops were not produced by the fellows who talked last year about going back to the soil.
