says: "Indeed and of a truth, the college professor, like the dog, has his plug of tobacco to break your teeth day, and it has come to him in the on as it does to get the teeth fixed day, and it has come to him in the press, in the forum and even on the street. He is pitied for his unpretentious income, he is exhorted to play likely the man right valiantly, for upon him, as their wives say. he is assured, rests the future of the country. But all this unaccustomed publicity has made him nervous and self-conscious; for the first time in his life he is playing in the spotlight, and dike an unschooled girl he shrinks from the glare."

Monday is nomination day for the civic elections and the indications are that a mayor and five aldermen will be returned unopposed. The present winter has brought trouble enough to the average citizen and nobody seems to hanker for the excitement which goes with a civic campaign. The new Council will have a mandate to get right down to pusiness.

Halifax Chronicie: If the speech from the throne was colorless, the "millinery show" at the opening was of surpassing brilliancy. It made the first ceremony in the new Parliament buildings a gorgeous spectacle, but as an aid to thrift and economy it was impressive only as an example of extravagance and a display of fashion which ill befits the times.

The scarcity of oats in this vicinity is a serious matter to lumbermen and others at the present time. At one time last week there was not a bushel of oats to be had in the city. The railways seem to have fallen down on the job completely during the present winter.
