MOVEMENTS OF THE STARS IN FILMLAND

Barney Sherry, who plays Inspector McDowell of the Northwest Mounted, in "The River's End," estimates that in the course of a year he buys no less than 50 suits of clothes to meet the requirements of parts he plays in that line.

In "The River's End," however, he was fortunate in possessing several complete uniforms of the Canadian police, having for some years been in that service himself.

Carmel Myers, who took a vacation from pictures by playing in "The Magic Melody," a musical comedy, is coming back to her first love—Universal. She has signed a contract to return to the coast and will be starred by that company. Miss Myers will play "crook" society dramas.

Harold Lloyd's pretty leading woman, Mildred Davis, recently joined the list of Los Angeles dog fanciers. She has purchased the prize Pekingese, San Toy, blue ribbon winner in the last annual dog show of Los Angeles.

Everyone seems to be headed for some far remote section to make pictures. Peggy Hyland and her company are packing up their belongings preparatory to sailing for England May 1. From England they head straight for Egypt, where two productions will be completed before our Peggy returns to us.

George Randolph Chester, editor-in-chief of Vitagraph's scenario department, will personally supervise the direction of three special productions for that company. One of these will be a special production of "The Son of Wallingford," the novel which he and Mrs. Chester are now writing.

The students at the University of Chicago and particularly the members of the dramatic society are anxiously waiting for the Windy City showing of "The World and His Wife" as one of the alumni, Leon Gendron, makes his first screen appearance in this production as the leading juvenile.

SNIFFERS.

Miss Elsie De Wolfe said on the Imperator en route for a summer in Versailles and Venice:

"New York is the most democratic city in the world. In New York talent real talent will admit one anywhere. There is nothing snuffy about New York."

"No, we're not like the duchess whose little daughter Lady Ann said: 'Mother, why do people have noses?' 'Common people dear Ann the duchess answered, have noses to smell with; high-born people like us have noses wherewith to express contempt for common people.'"

HER ARMY.

"There's one thing I've always wanted to ask you about your life in France," she said.

"Yes?" prompted the ex-buck tremulously.

"What did you and the Colonel usually talk about at meal times?"

WISE YOUTH.

"What would you do," asked the little girl who reads fairy tales, "if some stranger were to appear and promise to grant you three wishes?"

"I'd call a policeman," replied the modern boy. "He'd probably be some kind of a confidence man."

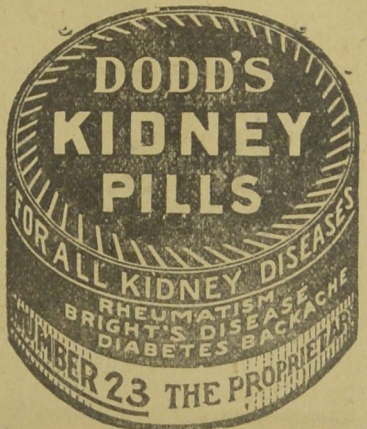

Scientific Refining.

Oculist (pointing to test chart, showing letters in various sizes) P-X-Z-Y-O-Q-N-R-Z-S-C-Y—Can you read that?"

Patient—"Sure! But I can't pronounce it, I'm not a Bolshevik."

Waiter (observing diner's dissatisfaction)—Isn't your egg cooked long enough, Sir?

Diner—"Yes, but not soon enough."

JACK TWIN SULLIVAN IN COME-BACK

Boston, April 28—Jack (Twin) Sullivan the Cambridge heavyweight may be classed as a veteran, but he showed in his battle with Karl Wicks National amateur champion at the Union Square A. C. Somerville, last night, that he has not lost any of his cleverness or cunning.

He gave Wicks such a whaling that the bout was stopped in the fifth round to save the ex-amateur from a knockout.

Hundreds of old-time sports were present and they were surprised to see Sullivan show such good form. He proved his contention that he defeat most of the heavyweights of today.

CRASH AT END OF SPENDING ORGY

Philadelphia, April 26—"The American people are headed for a financial crash which can be averted only by coming to their senses speedily and ending the drunken orgy of extravagance."

This warning was sounded today by George W. Norris on assuming his new duties as Governor of the Federal Reserve Bank of Philadelphia, 925 Chestnut Street.

"The high cost of living will come down only when the people want it to come down," he said. "Proof of this desire will be presented when they stop their riotous spending."

"As long as mechanics wear silk shirts and stenographers wade through slush in satin slippers, the high cost of living will stay up."

"Extravagance encourages profiteers. The retail dealers cannot be blamed for selling what the people demand. Every man and woman who buys unsuitable goods and pays more than they know the goods are worth is helping keep up the high cost of living."

"No economic machinery and no legislation will solve the problem. It rests entirely in the hands of the people. They can effect the change when they come to their senses and so decree."

He cited instances of the "craze for high-priced goods," mentioning a store which advertised silk petticoats for $3 without result, but which sold them like hotcakes when they were advanced to $7 apiece.

Army women are stepping into the breach to bolster up their husbands in comes. The wives of many officers, especially those stationed in or near New York, are working as salesgirls, stenographers and in similar occupations to get sufficient money to pay the family expenses.

An officer who has been in Washington in the interests of a pay increase showed letters from other officers illustrative of conditions in the service today, that told of many expedients resorted to for the sake of the family income, ranging from the wife of a Captain who is making a success in literature to a Second Lieutenant who lives in a tenement and does the family laundry work after office hours in order to spare his wife who is too frail to do more than cook, wash dishes, sew and clean house.

One missive from a Captain describes the dwindling savings in moving about the country under orders, and after arrival in New York the accumulation of debts and the death of his baby daughter.

He summarizes his letter as follows: "I have bought no clothing for myself since December, 1918, except one pair of quartermaster shoes, despite the fact that my uniforms are almost in rags. When they do give out I can see nothing but further debts in order to clothe myself."

Opportunity is the only knocker that ever kept his friends.

GAFFNEY AND EVERS AT HUB TOGETHER

James E. Gaffney, and Johnny Evers the "Keystone King," and captain of the Braves when the Boston club was owned by Mr. Gaffney arrived in town yesterday. They had a talk last night at the Copley-Plaza, where both are stopping but each said that no significance, so far as baseball affairs are concerned, could be attached to their simultaneous arrival in Boston.

Mr. Gaffney said he came to look over the Braves Field of which he is the owner, and to look into some other interests which he has in Boston. He will remain until Wednesday.

Mr. Gaffney was much surprised at the extent of building operations around the park. He said he believes that there is a lot of space at Braves Field that could be utilized for several purposes. These things will be taken into consideration and some radical changes may be made within another year.

Evers, who is writing some articles for a syndicate, is here for material and will remain for a day or two.

He never looked better than he does at present, and it would require no stretch of the imagination to believe that he could hop right into the playing end of the game and do a good job.

Both Evers and Mr. Gaffney seemed to think well of the prospects of the Boston club.

NO CIGARETTES, NO BOLSHEVIKI

New York, April 26—What would become of the Bolsheviks without cigarettes?

Whether the two facts belong to the same family or not, it is recalled that in the old days when the "proletariat" smoked pipes there seemed to be more peace and less economic unrest in the world than there is today.

The average reader of these columns is perhaps a little hazy in his ideas of what a real Bolshevik looks like anyway, but he is rather certain to incline toward the belief that he wears bushy whiskers or an interesting mustache—according to his age and radicalism—but always smokes cigarettes of some unidentified brand.

A man with a cigar could scarcely be a "red." The cigar—according to the movies at least—is the badge of the capitalist. A pipe belongs rather to the spirit of contentment. Aged gardeners and oldtime toilers who raise large families on a wage of a dollar and a half a day smoke pipes. It is said there is not one revolution in all the pipe tobacco in the world.

But the cigarettes—at least this strange cigarette, somehow different from the sort one sees in the chain of cigar store windows—is different. Almost anything can be expected when one sees this burning like a signal fire in a dark forest.

FRISCH HAD OPERATION

New York, April 28—Frank Frisch third baseman of the New York Nationals, who was seized with appendicitis Saturday while on his way to New York from Boston underwent an operation. He was reported tonight to be resting comfortably.

There is so much anguish over high prices during these expensive times that wives always seem to want their husbands to accompany them on a shopping tour, to share some of the anguish.

WAITED 14 YEARS, WILL MARRY RICH

New York, April 26—Here from England with the expressed intention of getting rich as quickly as possible, Elizabeth Gay, a young English woman, left tonight for Berkeley, Cal. where she will be married to Benjamin E. Rich, an engineer, whom she has not met since he left home in Lastbourne Sussex fourteen years ago.

When Rich left England he told Miss Gay, then a schoolgirl, that some day he would send for her. A few weeks ago he kept his promise, and his fiancée left her home to come to the United States for the wedding. A Salvation Army worker met the young woman at the pier when she landed from the American liner New York, and saw her safely on her way to the West.

"I always understood that people came to this country seeking wealth," said Miss Gay before boarding the train. "I am no exception. It will not be long before I get Rich."

TO REGULATE CONTAINERS OF FRUIT

Ottawa, April 27—Hon. S. F. Tolmie Minister of Agriculture, gave notice in the House this afternoon of a resolution to be discussed in the House Monday that will be of interest to the fruit-growing districts of Ontario.

In the opinion of the Minister it is expedient to introduce in Parliament legislation that will repeal certain sections of the Inspection and Sale Act.

The proposal, briefly, is to prescribe the quality, form, dimensions and capacity of all containers in which fruit shall be packed and the materials of which such containers shall be made; to prescribe the kinds of fruit subject to the regulations and to prescribe penalties for violations of such regulations.

Bliss Carman Improving.

Bliss Carman who has been recuperating in California is reported to have improved in health and expects to start for his home in Connecticut early in May. He intends to take a few weeks' treatment at Battle Creek, Mich., on his way through Canada will pay a visit to Peter McArthur, of Merrid, Middlesex County, an old friend of the poet.

INCREASES YOUR WEIGHT, RESTORES LOST STRENGTH PREVENTS ILLNESS

Every day come new converts to that great army of men and women who rejoice in new-found health that came to them through the use of that wonderful blood-renewing preparation called "FERROZONE." Very simple how it acts. All you have to do is take two small chocolate-coated tablets with a sip of water at the close of each meal.

Ferrozone is a marvel. It contains just what thin blood lacks—lots of iron, but mark you, the kind of iron your blood is able to absorb. Ferrozone puts life and vim into the blood. Makes it rich, red and nourishing. Naturally the body is better fed and grows stronger day by day.

Of course digestion must be improved, and probably the stomach will require aid as well. Ferrozone serves the purpose admirably. Those who use it, enjoy appetite and digestive powers far beyond the ordinary.

That tired feeling is replaced by the buoyant, joyous sensation of health and vigor. Day by day as your strength increases, you feel new energy surging through your veins, and know that a great tonic of great merit is at work.

No remedy more nourishing or uplifting, no treatment so sure to bring lasting health, good spirits and contentment. Ferrozone contains just what run-down folks need; it cures because it supplies more nutriment than you can get in any other way. 50c. per box or six for $2.50 at all dealers, or by mail from The Cartharzone Co., Kingston, Ont.
