

Children Cry for Fletcher's

CASTORIA

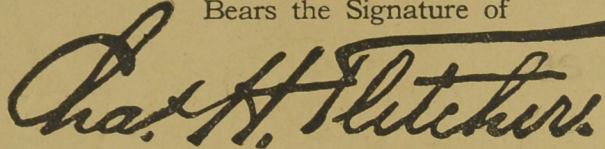

Fletcher's Castoria is strictly a remedy for Infants and Children. Foods are specially prepared for babies. A baby's medicine is even more essential for Baby. Remedies primarily prepared for grown-ups are not interchangeable. It was the need of a remedy for the common ailments of Infants and Children that brought Castoria before the public after years of research, and no claim has been made for it that its use for over 30 years has not proven.

What is CASTORIA?

Castoria is a harmless substitute for Castor Oil, Paregoric, Drops and Soothing Syrups. It is pleasant. It contains neither Opium, Morphine nor other narcotic substance. Its age is its guarantee. For more than thirty years it has been in constant use for the relief of Constipation, Flatulency, Wind Colic and Diarrhoea; allaying Feverishness arising therefrom, and by regulating the Stomach and Bowels, aids the assimilation of Food; giving healthy and natural sleep. VALUE OF RICE.

While nature has distributed values so that no single article of food possesses all the qualities of a perfect ration it has been more generous in its gift to rice than to many other foods. Rice possesses them in a greater degree than the meat, cereal or vegetable commonly found on the average table.Per pound, rice contains a larger total amount of nutritive matter than wheat or corn; 3.21 times as much as ordinary beef and 3.70 times more than potatoes. There is practically no water in rice as compared to the preponderance of water in most common vegetables. Potatoes, for example, are three-fourths water.One can go farther on rice than on any other single article of food. To this capacity for building endurance in the human system is added the ease with which it is digested. It takes rice only one hour to digest, making the slightest tax upon the system and leaving the digestive organs freer for work upon other less easily digested foods.Where rice is used as a regular foods. Its greatest advantage lies in digestion rarely are found.It is the ideal complement for other foods. Its greatest advantage lies in the fact that it can be used with all styles of cooking, in any climate during any season. Its chief ingredient is carbohydrates, the element that provides fuel for making human energy.When combined with the fats of beef, veal, fowl or with the nitrogenous foods such as beans, peas or cheese, the results is as perfectly balanced a meal as it is possible to secure. It adds greatly to the nutritive value of soups, stews and dressings and em-bellishes many fine dishes, especially oysters, clams, shrimps, crabs and all fish.For infants or invalids there is nothing that lends itself better than the curative, healing qualities of rice, possessed in greater degree than any other cereal because of its ease of digestion and nerve building qualities.

WILL THE LADY JURORS INS- PIRE ELOQUENCE IN COURTS

(By Hugh Dryden, staff correspondent Cross Atlantic Newspaper Service.)

London, Dec. 25—"Ladies and gentlemen of the jury" will begin the eloquent speeches of counsel in British law courts after the present session. Nineteen twenty-one will see the advent of the woman juror into the High Court, where hitherto feminine interest has been confined to the witness-stand and the spectators' gallery, and when there is a specially interesting case, a privileged few of "the sex" have invaded the judges' bench itself by invitation of "My Lord."

Now we are to have mixed juries, and there is much speculation as to what will be the effect upon the eloquence of "learned counsel." A writer in the Evening News says:

"Of late years, oratory, the traditional glowing oratory which swept its hearers off their feet—has been a dead letter in the courts: it has given place to a solid reasoning fluency, with an appeal to logic rather than emotion. It may be that ere long a change may come again. It is notorious that the appeal to woman is through her heart, and her emotions rather than through her brain."

"Perhaps certain men of the Bar, who for years have sternly controlled the passionate eloquence of which they are masters, may give free rein to their powers."

"It will be a matter of no little interest to watch what effect the personality of different counsel will have on women."

"Before a jury of men the physical appearance of another man speaking to them has little weight, though, to be sure, shortness of stature is sometimes accounted a drawback.

But will it not be so under the new regime?"

"It would be foolish to suggest that the inexperienced young Adonis—true to all the precedents to be derived from the lady novelist—will, in the teeth of the evidence, snatch a verdict to the surprise of his grim and white-haired opponent. It would be equally foolish to urge that a man's appearance has no influence whatever on a body of women listeners."

GREENWOOD NEARLY HAD AN ENCOUNTER

ent C. A. N. S.)

London, Dec. 26—Sir Hamar Greenwood, Chief Secretary for Ireland, was nearly embroiled in a fight recently at the House of Commons. His challenger was Lord Henry Bentinck, and the "scene" took place after the House had been "counted out"— that is, could not muster sufficient members to carry on business.

Angry passions had been aroused by the fact that when the count was called for it was seen that the supporters of the Government meant to kill the debate on the illegal arrest of Mrs. Annan Bryce (sister-in-law of Viscount Bryce, former Ambassador to the United States) at Holyhead and the latest reports of reprisals in Ireland by keeping out of the way.

WASHINGTON'S prices are low,

The Speaker had left the chair.
Lord Henry Bentinck said. "You ought to face the music and not run away in this fashion." Sir Hamar Greenwood so it is said, called Lord Henry Bentinck a coward, whereupon Lord Henry challenged him to fight. Major Barnes stepped in between them.

They further advanced, and then Lord Henry Bentinck punched Sir Hamar Greenwood on the shoulder.
"Look here, you called me a coward, and you've either got to apologize or fight. I am prepared to fight you now."

Sir Hamar Greenwood replied: "I am prepared to do either, but hadn't we better settle this on friendly terms both of us withdrawing what we have said—I am willing to begin by withdrawing what I have said about you."

Lord Henry Bentinck afterwards said he accepted the withdrawal and in his turn withdraw what he had said about Sir Hamar Greenwood.
