POORLY PAID PREACHERS

The New York Herald tells of a preacher by name, Rev. Benjamin A. Sherwin, who had a wife and five children whom he undertook to support on a stipend of $93 per month. Domestic infidelities resulted and Mr. Sherwin brought an action for divorce against Mrs. Sherwin in the court of common pleas at Cleveland. The judge refused to grant the divorce, gave the five children into Mrs. Sherwin's custody and ordered the Rev. gentleman to pay her $60 a month alimony. In commenting on the case the judge said:

"I consider it extreme cruelty for a man with a wife and five children to remain at his job, even though it be that of a minister, which pays only $93 a month.

"An able bodied man such as you are should have taken up some other profession."

In commenting on the announcement that Mr. Sherwin had since accepted a job as a machinist the Herald expresses approval of his course in the following terms:

"Apparently he has taken Judge Phillip's rebuke to heart. If he has done this he has shown good sense.

"There is no reason why a minister, unable to obtain a church sufficiently well to do or liberal to pay him a living wage should not work at a trade or a profession. His message to humanity will not be impaired as to quality because he rubs shoulders with humanity in its daily toil in the field, the shop or the office.

"On the contrary, informal association with men and women at their customary tasks should be of the greatest benefit to a preacher. It should broaden his mental horizon, correct his conception of many grave social problems, strengthen him in charity and tolerance. Nor does honest labor detract in any way from the ministerial dignity; indeed, it should add to the respect in which the preacher is held. Many of the greatest and best teachers of religion have labored at trades."

The Daily News, Minneapolis: Movies are coming to the rescue of the English language. On the silvery screen of the theatre in many American cities the daily crimes against the Mother Tongue will be exposed and those who are guilty urged to mend their ways. Over the heads of the audience the rays of the stereopticon will flash such admonitions as this throughout the land. Don't say, "I ain't got." Say, "I haven't." Don't say, "This is him." Say, "This is he." Don't murder English. It's your Mother Tongue. It ought to be a happy week for Mother Tongue, than whom no mother is more abused, day in and day out, by her erring children.

Detroit News: Criminals may be born, but they are also made. They are made by ignorance, oppression, hunger, cold, poverty, dirt and disease—sometimes by the influences in the very jails in which we confine them till we find out if they are or are not criminals. So while eugenics and all other systems of thought which pay due attention to heredity have their place in the world, let us not overlook the possibilities of euthenics. We can't do much to reform Granddad and Granddad's Granddad. But we have the grandchild here with us—ripe for interesting experiments in the way of good food, decent housing, clean amusement and sensible education.

Stoke Newington's desire to rechristen one of its redundant Victoria Groves Crusoe street is exceedingly appropriate, for both Daniel Defoe and the original bearer of the name of his hero were closely associated with the locality. Defoe who already has a road named after him in Stoke Newington, lived in a house in Church street, which was standing in 1845, and, though the adventures of Alexander Selkirk supplied much of the material for his immortal narrative, it was from one of his chums at Newington Green school that the author filched the name of Crusoe.—London Chronicle.

Baltimore Sun: The "wonder children" who see so astonishingly above their playmates cannot be explained in terms of ordinary humanity. They seem almost supernatural, and their exploits are such as to shame the realists who have discarded their belief in fairies. Little Samuel Rzeszewski, who has just arrived in New York is even more wonderful than his name. He has achieved triumphs in chess which would be remarkable in an adult, and he has just eight years and a few months to his credit.

An Ottawa despatch says that the writ for the by-election in West Peterboro, Ont., is likely to be issued soon. The vacancy was caused by the resignation of Ham Burnham, a Tory member, who took the somewhat novel ground that his mandate from the people had expired and resigned his seat. Mr. Burnham will be a candidate for re-election, but it is said that he will have to get along without the endorsement of the government. The combination now ruling at Ottawa evidently has no use for a member who shows some regard for the wishes of the people who elected him.

Attorney General Raney of Ontario has decided that Rev. J. O. L. Spracklin who shot and killed an inn keeper a few days ago shall be placed on trial. Mr. Spracklin, who was acting as prohibition enforcement agent, claims that he shot in self defence. The coroner's jury took the same view of the case, but the Attorney General after consulting with the Crown Attorney, decided that the Rev. gentleman must be placed on trial.

There are now eight vacancies in the senate and the indications are that they will be filled before the next session of parliament. The name of Col. John Stanfield, ex-M. P. is being mentioned for the Nova Scotia vacancy caused by the death of Senator Dennis.

An Ottawa despatch to the Montreal Star says that Parliament will likely meet about the 20th of January, and it is hoped that the session will be finished by the end of May. Premier Meighen and several of his ministers are planning to go to England in June to attend an Imperial Conference.

American Senators from the western states are urging legislative action at Washington to revive the War Finance Corporation. They claim that this is the only agency which can give relief to the agricultural interests in the appalling situation resulting from the sudden fall in prices.

The McGill University endowment fund is steadily climbing up and it looks as if the five million dollar mark will be reached by the end of this week. The total sum raised in four days is given at $3,155,869.

THROUGH OUR SIEVE

When a girl becomes matrimonially engaged her friends say it with showers.

If a youthful prodigy survives his early brilliancy and grows into average manhood he does well.

"So live that you can sleep o'night," says a philosopher. The advice will not appeal to night watchmen.

About all that a woman needs nowadays to keep up with the fluctuating skirt styles is a pair of shears.

Sometimes even a long winter evening isn't long enough for a wife to tell her husband all she has to say to him.

Even the most heartless individual feels some pity for suffering mankind when he hears a bride tell how she is reforming her husband.

Movie actresses are appearing on the screen now with their ears immodestly exposed to public gaze. This means that another epidemic is due.

Nobody has successfully contradicted the old-fashioned fellow, who used to say one man is as good as another and darn sight better.

Despite what the bakers may think there are people who still cling to the notion that bread is a distant relative of wheat.

Weather is one thing that can move the minds of the people when nothing else will disturb them. A cold wave makes them think coal to the exclusion of their eternal salvation.

The second game of the U. N. B. interclass basketball league resulted in a score of 42 to 7 for the Juniors on Friday afternoon. Their opponents, the Freshmen showed some fine close passing but were never able to get near the baskets. The result was that their long shots went wide. Willet and Tumble starred for the Juniors while the passing of McGibbon was the best feature of the Freshmen's play.

The lineups were:
 Juniors Bishop Willet Trimble Sargent Kearns
 Forwards Willet Centre McGinn Defence Fleet Clayton
 Freshmen Barbour McGinn Fleet Clayton

R. A. Dummer refereed.
