OF INTEREST TO WOMEN

TO COOK CEREAL

If you are cooking cereal and do not know the taste of all who are to eat it use salt in the proportion of one level teaspoon to one quart of water, no matter what sort of cereal you use. Some persons like cereal salted slightly more than this, but it is best not to use more salt unless you know the taste of those who are to eat the finished product.

Never cook for less time than the directions, indicate on package. If possible cook longer. Remember that two or three hours cooking cereal in a double boiler does not injure it, and usually improves it. For cooking oatmeal and cornmeal and some other heavy cereals for children it is better to let them cook three or four hours.

Any sort of cereal can be cooked to advantage over night on a coal stove. If you do not let the cereal cool, but keep it cooking at a low temperature, all the time, even the finest ground cereal will not lump with long cooking.

If cereal has crusted over or hardened a little at the top after long cooking, do not stir at once, but add a little boiling water and let this soften the top crust before mixing it.

Taste varies with regard to the right consistency for cereal, but remember that if you are to use plain milk, not cream, on cereal, it is better not to make it very thin, as thin cereal with thin milk makes a rather tasteless mixture.

When rice is to be used as a breakfast cereal, it is always best to cook it in the double boiler, as you would any other cereal, as this makes a creamier, more porridge like dish than is the case when you cook it in actively boiling water.

NEW FROCKS HAVE BRACELETS.

London, Oct. 28.—Dressmakers are adding bracelets of various kinds to the allurements of their new frock models. Upon the bare upper arms of an afternoon gown "merrythought" bands of velvet are seen. Black is chosen as a white skin-foil and is introduced on the left arm in the form of a broad band fringed with monkey fur.

An evening toilette has a twin-train of filiciest lace drawn to the wrists by supporting bands of flowers easily detachable if desired.

Resource is displayed in other directions to produce unaccustomed effects. One beautiful frock is punched with metal-rim eyelet holes such as the shoemaker uses, and another has a gigantic broderie anglaise design upon it. Chinese designs are also immensely fashionable this autumn.

FALL MODES.

Skirts of suits and tailored gowns continue short.

Winter coats have high collars, usually of fur.

Nets and laces are replacing organ-die for neckwear.

The "petal" skirt appears on some smart fall models.

Transparent trains are the latest whim of evening gowns.

ATTRACTIONS AT THEATRES

The week end play at the Opera House is "Cecilia of the Pink Roses" featuring the celebrated American beauty Marion Davis. There is also another chapter of Daredevil Jack.

The play at the Gaiety is "The Story revolves about Becky Warder, married to a wealthy man who sincerely loves her. From a scape grace father, Becky has inherited the habit of lying, of which habit her husband disapproves. In her effort to bring together two of her friends who are separated from each other, Becky sees more of the man than she should. This brings her to the point of white-lying to cover up her actions.

Caught, she lies desperately to save herself and her friends. Discovering her untruths, her husband leaves her and Becky is hard put to it to devise a scheme which will bring him back.

A thug can knock a man down and hold him up in the same language.

Young Mrs. Mason (who is so intelligent, you know)—These are such very small eggs; you must have taken them from the hens too soon.

WON'T BE LOFTY.

Poor Brown—Bricklayers get $100 a week beginning Monday.

Poor Jones—And even then they won't be too proud to stop work and talk if they get the chance.
