THE LAST CHANCE

I have still a few imported Barred Rock Cockerels of high laying strain, which may be seen at my yards, corner of Brunswick and Northumberland streets. These birds come from the best bred-to-lay stock in New England and are possibly the best ever brought into this province. They were hatched on May 4th and some of the pullets in the flock started laying on November 6th. One of them laid six eggs during the first seven days, beating all the birds in the egg-laying contest at the Fredericton Experimental Farm.

TWO STILL ON ONE FARM

Attleboro, Nov. 26—Chief of Police Gingras, Lieut. Flanagan and patrolmen McBride, Candelet, Paradis, O'Hare and Bora raided the Wall farm in the Lenox District today and seized 50 gallons of "moonshine" 600 gallons of mash, two stills and parts of three other stills.

Alfred Viera was arrested on charges of maintaining a liquor nuisance and illegally keeping and exposing intoxicating liquor.

The police claim that the stills were in operation in the cellar. One of the stills is of the 25-gallon type and the other of the 15-gallon size. The 50-gallons of "moonshine" was found in a barrel in the henhouse.

The mash was distributed in different places on the farm, which is situated two miles from the Center.

Deputy Sheriffs Toner, Nerney and Reed and officers Hunt and McKeon conducted two raids today in North Attleboro and seized 210 gallons of wine. At the home of Joseph Morrell, Barrows st., 100 gallons were seized, and at the home of Popino Veceri, Broad st., 110 gallons were seized.

Veceri was not at home when the raid was made. The officers were informed that he had left town.

AMERICANS PLANNING TO STOP ARMY SUPPLIES GRAFT

Major General Chamberlain, Inspector General, Reports Upon Situation --- Some Astonishing Things Took Place---Surplus Cement Bought for $1 per Ton and Resold to Another Department for $6---Army Uniform Abused.

Washington, Nov. 26—Immediate revision of the present method of disposing of surplus Government stores to prevent speculators from buying Federal property from one department and reselling to another at a higher figure is recommended in the annual report of Maj. Gen. J. L. Chamberlain, inspector general of the army, made public today.

The necessity for the proposed action is indicated by a recent investigation, which disclosed that one department of the Government sold surplus cement for $1 per ton to a civilian who immediately resold the same cement to a branch of the War Department for $6 a ton, the report states.

Concerning hazing at West Point, Gen. Chamberlain said that while the practice had not been entirely eliminated, progress had been made to that end.

Abuses of Army Uniform

Prompt measures to check abuse of the army uniform are recommended, the report declaring that "civilian authorities have not always cooperated to stop such abuse."

Other recommendations include: More care with regard to promises made to recruits, particularly with regard to the army's educational courses in order that all enlistment promises may be complied with.

Abandonment of civilian instructors at army schools.

Renewal of the clothing allowance system for enlisted men, a change in the type of collar on the service coat and more care in seeing that every recruit has one new well-fitting uniform.

Consolidation of air service units as far as possible and replacement of civilian employees in this branch with enlisted personnel.

A clean bill of health is given to the forces in Germany by the Inspector General, with the exception of proficiency at target practice, due, he says, to the large percentage of new men and lack of experienced officers to supervise their training.

No Tanks Ready for Battle

The Army Tank Corps has suffered from many resignations and few reenlistments because soldiers trained in this arm of the service find it easy to obtain lucrative employment in civil life, says the annual report of Brig. Gen. S. D. Rockenbach, chief of the corps.

The corps returned from France in July, 1919, with a greatly depleted personnel, but in the past fiscal year a net gain of 20 officers and 1546 enlisted men was made, leaving, however, a considerable shortage still to be made up.

Although the corps possessed more than 800 tanks when it left France, all were in poor repair and none ready for battle. Progress has since been made in repairing damaged material and in designing and manufacturing new machines.

Gen. Rockenbach recommends the production of a durable and fast cross-country tank, without which, the report asserts, "no army can count on a swift advance in the theatre of operations."

STRANGE HOLD-UP AT HARTFORD

Hartford, Conn., Nov. 26—Three men found lying on the road in a semi-conscious condition late this morning were taken to the hospital where it was discovered that acute alcoholism was their trouble. When they were finally able to tell a story they claimed that they were held up "at the point of a gun and forced to drink out of a brown jug and then told to beat it." The Hartford police have heard of many kinds of hold-ups but this is the strangest.

ing the waits between admissions the great iron gates, besieged by the mob groaned on their hinges under the pressure of the small bodies. The toy riot was on.

From early afternoon to dark the children came, an endless succession of pinched faces and bright eyes, until not a toy was left from the heap which gleamed so entirely a few hours previously. Podgoritz's toy riot the first and only toy riot on record had given way to the joyous shouts of playing children.

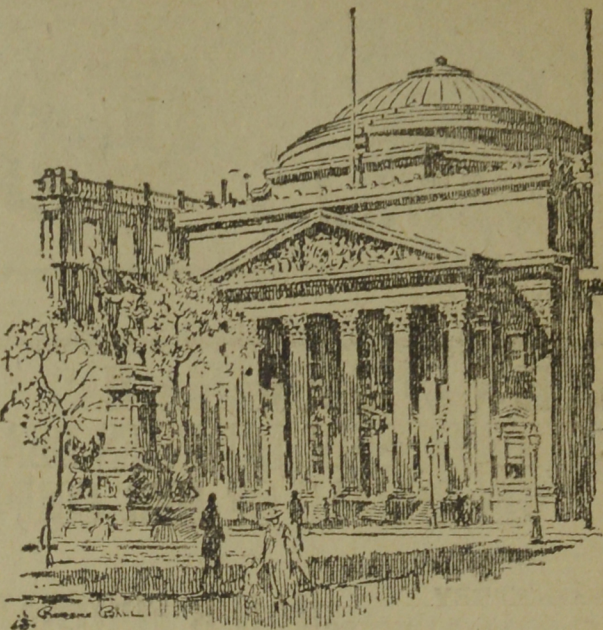

STOCK OF TOYS FOR CHILDREN OF MONTENEGRO

During four long years of war and invasion not a toy had reached Podgoritz, Montenegro, from the outside world. The stock on hand when war broke out lasted less than a year. When it was gone the children watched in vain with the coming of each Christmas for new playthings. Rag dolls became so ragged from ceaseless fondling that in the end they were scarcely recognizable, even to their devoted little "mothers." Tin soldiers, brave as they were, finally went down to defeat, destruction and oblivion. Three years of war found the children of the brave little nation of the Black Mountain quite destitute of any toys at all, either new or old.

There was no question of toys in Podgoritz when the Junior Red Cross reached the scene. The preparation of the new war orphanage by the American relief workers went on quietly. No whisper of what was in store for the children reached their care until the day assigned for the opening of the orphanage. On the eventful day the directress of the orphanage took into her confidence a handful of random little stragglers encountered in the main street of the town. Through an interpreter she let the tremendous secret strike upon their astonished ears. Old in the ways of Montenegro she knew that no town crier need make public proclamation of the treat in store. Within the hour every child inside a ten mile range was running as fast as his legs would let him to the gates of the orphanage.

Admission to the courtyard was allowed to only a hundred at a time. These were further divided into squads of twenty, who filed into the magic confines of this new wonder house of delight. It required four American officers, six Montenegrins and a local policeman to keep order. Dur-

IMPORTANCE OF EDUCATION

Rochester, Nov. 25—No State should allow its boys and girls to start life with anything less than a high school education, Gov. William L. Harding of Iowa declared in an address here tonight before the convention of New York Teachers' Association. The slogan of the country should be "All must be educated," said Gov. Harding, adding that education must be "popularized."

"The public school has come nearer to turning out a 100 per cent perfect product than any other institution of which I have knowledge," said the Governor. "We have outgrown the old doctrine in this country—that 'Education is free.' The new slogan is 'All must be education.'"

"If our schools are to lead, as they should, the teacher must be paid more than a living wage. Teachers should be hired for a twelve months' period, and paid for a twelve months' period, not turned out to grass for three months of the year."
