PROHIBITION FORCES WON AN OVERWHELMING VICTORY SATURDAY

Rev. W. D. Wilson, Chief Inspector under the Intoxicating Liquor Act, 1916 which is generally referred to as The Prohibition Act, makes the following statement relative to the support of that Act at the polls Saturday:

"Temperance people are extremely gratified on account of the result. We expect to win on both points and the results are very similar to what we anticipated. Personally I consider the vote deeply gratifying and extremely significant. It shows that the people of New Brunswick have appreciated the trial of Prohibitory legislation which has taken place in this province during the past three years and three months for that is the period of trial although the law was drafted and passed in 1916. The election was held because the people had not been given an opportunity of expressing themselves concerning that legislation. Now that the electors have expressed their opinion, it will be easier to determine what path to follow in legislating for the betterment of the law. Many amendments are necessary to make it an effective and up-to-date instrument for dealing with violators."

"I am of the opinion that the best-thinking people of the province have expressed themselves and have served notice that the Prohibitory Law is here to stay and that wine and beer are things of the past as far as legal sale is concerned."

Big Majority in Westmorland
Moncton, N. B., July 11—By a majority of more than four thousand the city of Moncton and the county of Westmorland voted dry in Saturday's plebiscite for or against prohibition. In Moncton city the majority for prohibition was in the neighborhood of a thousand, while the majority against light wines and beer was a little more than 500. In two parishes, Shediac and Dorchester, small majorities were given against prohibition, and in favor of light wines and beer.

The voting in Moncton city and throughout the county was conducted very quietly. The principal activity at the city polls was displayed by the women who were out in considerable force and assisted very materially in getting out the women voters.

Small Vote in Carleton
Woodstock, N. B., July 11—The figures in the prohibition vote in Carleton county would indicate very little interest taken. A very small vote was polled. In Woodstock there was much activity at the polls, the women working like Trojans. In some instances old campaigners were rather shaded by the methods of the fair sex to bring out the vote. Automobiles were running all day carrying women voters who seemed to enjoy the novel experience of their first election day. The returns were very slow in coming in.

Three to One in Queens
Gagetown, N. B., July 11—Queens county declared emphatically for prohibition yesterday by nearly 1,500 majority, or nearly a three to one vote. On the prohibition issue all parish returns are complete, with the exception of those from Brunswick where there is no telephone connection. That parish will probably increase the majority for prohibition. The county was strongly against beer and light wines, the proportion being about the same as in the prohibition issue. On the beer and wine issue the returns for Cambridge, Petersville and Brunswick are missing. The only wet parish in the county was Petersville where the anti-prohibition vote was seven-seventy and the dry vote seventy-five.

Charlotte County Vote

St. Stephen, N. B., July 11—The plebiscite in St. Stephen passed very quietly and had it not been for the energetic work of the prohibition supporters in getting voters to the polls it would scarcely have been known that a contest was in progress here. On their first opportunity the ladies entered with zest the field of political activities and performed their work in an energetic and highly creditable manner quite like "old stagers," but without any of the disagreeable features that sometimes have marked political contests in which men alone have been interested. The outcome here was as had been expected, excepting that the vote was smaller than anticipated. The men were mostly conspicuous by their absence from the polls.

Some of the Extremes

The strongest wet votes in the province proportionately was probably that cast in St. Ignace, Kent County. There prohibition got three votes while 171 were cast against it. The same vote, reversed, was cast for beer and against.

There was a stronger beer vote proportionately, however, in St. Andre de Madawaska, only one was cast against For prohibition there were eight votes and 164 against.

Jacksonville, Carleton county, was a banner dry place. There prohibition received 295 of the 304 votes cast.

FREDERICTON POLLING ON SATURDAY

the pastor Rev. Z. L. Fash made reference to "the great victory for righteousness at the polls on Saturday. Just as the Germans were overcome by the Almighty so had the liquor forces in the province met with defeat God was back of his battle. In the face of an abusive and unfair newspaper canvass, the temperance forces obtained a great victory by fair and honest methods. The temperance people have nothing to be ashamed of in the way they conducted their campaign and the intelligent people of the province had no difficulty in deciding upon this moral issue."

The preacher said he was proud of the people of New Brunswick. They showed their moral fibre by the big majority they had rolled up for the Prohibition Act and against light wines and beer. The politicians should take warning from this vote that the temperance people of this province are no longer to be trifled with.

At the evening service Rev. Mr. Fash referred to the very imperfect and deficient voters lists and declared they showed at least a great deal of incompetence. "There are a good many indignant people in Fredericton tonight," said he, "who have been deprived of their right to vote by somebody. An investigation should be held to find out why so many names were wrongly spelled and changed and why so many names entirely left off the lists. Every man and woman should have the great privilege of exercising the franchise safely guarded."
