INTERESTING
MATINEE HEATS
ON THURSDAY

The Fredericton Driving Club ran off the best matinee meet of the season Thursday afternoon. The delegates to the meeting of the Maritime & Maine Short Ship Harness Circuit which was held here were taken to the track and witnessed several heats. The attendance was the largest that has been this season and the classification of the horses seemed to produce some close heats.

Half mile heats were raced for the first time this winter.

Training Disabled Soldiers,

ABOUT 18 months ago it first became possible for a returned soldier, who had been so disabled by service that it was impossible for him to resume his former civil occupation, to take a course of training under government supervision and pay, which fitted him for some new occupation, the pursuit of which would not be prevented by his disability. In other words, his case was carefully considered, his disability taken into account, and his training arranged so that in his new occupation he could develop 100% efficiency. As an example take a machinist who had lost a leg; obviously his disability was such that he could not resume that occupation. He had a knowledge of blue prints and drawing and some latent ability in a drawing line. He was passed for a course as a mechanical draughtsman. At the termination of his course he was employed at a wage nearly equal to his wage as a machinist. The loss of a leg was no handicap as his new occupation did not call for any moving around. Thus this man seriously handicapped as a machinist, was enabled to overcome his handicap and compete successfully with any other draughtsman.

Owing to the increasing number of different trades and occupations in which it became imperative that training places should be found. Obviously if a man was to be trained for a position in a machine shop, the place to train him was right in the particular machine shop in which he would eventually be employed. This resulted in the institution of industrial surveys. One of the first industries in Montreal to be surveyed was the Angus Shops (Canadian Pacific Railway). It can readily be understood that these shops, employing thousands of skilled men, in practically all kinds of mechanical work, offered great opportunities for the training of disabled men. The above mentioned industrial survey consisted of a detailed report on every position in the Angus Shops; it showed among other things the exact nature of the work done and what disabilities would hinder a man from doing the work. This survey was a guide to the District Vocational Officer, as a reference to it showed immediately what mechanical work a disabled man would be physically able to do without being troubled by his disability.

From the outset every official of the C. P. R. who was approached expressed great interest in the work, and by co-operation rendered most material assistance in the re-instating of disabled soldiers in civilian occupations.

The general scheme of training adopted by the Invalid Soldiers' Commission is to give any man taking a machine shop training about three-quarters of his course in the machine shop at McGill University, then place him out with an industry such as the Angus Shops to finish that course and gain the necessary practical experience. During the time that the man is taking this training, he is drawing full pay and allowances from the Invalid Soldiers' Commission so the firm with which he is working is not called on to pay him anything. In this way the man becomes accustomed to his work in a place where he will probably be employed at the termination of his course, and the employer, having had the man under him for some time, knows something about his work. This method generally results in disabled men being absorbed into the industries for which they have been trained with no gap between termination of course and employment and is thus satisfactory to all concerned.

been gassed, shell shocked and tortured by wounds, and consequently are highly strung and nervous and will be for some time to come. What they make of themselves depends on you. If one of these men make a mistake and is roughly reprimanded, he is likely to shake like a leaf, get excited, etc., and be very difficult to make anything of; this is wrong. The greatest tact, care and attention that you can give these men in helping them to become useful employees is what the Company expects, and, moreover, you owe it to them.

There are bound to be some exceptions and some men will fail to make good. The success or failure of the majority, however, depends on you, and it is your privilege to help your country in this national crisis by endeavoring to make useful citizens out of the nerve-shattered men that are commencing to come back to us from the front.

Is further proof of the interest of the C. P. R. necessary? Not now for results. Of the first hundred men to complete Industrial Re-educational Courses in this unit, ten were employed by the C. P. R. on the termination of their courses. Up to date, about two hundred men have completed courses and now many of these men are employed by the C. P. R., i. e.: These men have taken courses in no less than 12 different trades, so it is obvious that the C. P. R. is assisting splendidly.

Many returned soldiers' constitutions are broken down. They have

How do you treat a returned soldier working under you? Do you consider him as an ordinary workman, let him shift for himself and look on his mistakes only as you would an ordinary employee? If so, you are assuming that he is in all respects just a normal man and should be able to do the same work as quickly and as well as the average employee. If you do, you are wrong.

PRISONERS
KEEP UP THEIR NOISY RIOTING

Bedford, N. Y., Jan. 20—While religious services were being held in one of the buildings of the State Reformatory for Women here today the group of rebellious prisoners who for three days have been making all the noise possible kept up their trouble making tactics.

Shortly after daybreak after the rebels had snatched a few hours sleep, Anna Groupe, a newcomer, Lillian Rosenstein, Gertrude Friedman and others began rattling their cell gates, banging on the bars with cell fixtures breaking furnishings, shouting and screaming. Shortly afterward Agnes Ryan, Alma Smith, Irene Fuller, Rebecca Lewis and a few others renewed the demonstration in Rebecca Hall, where the prison is located.

The prisoners kept up the bedlam in both buildings in the hope that prisoners in the separate cottages would hear them and join in the demonstration. Mrs. Henrietta Hoffman who rules the prison with a firm hand, kept every window bolted down tight and every door closed. Mrs. Nellie Stone, matron in the disciplinary building took similar steps.

While Father Martin Scanlon was saying mass in the chapel and later on while Rabbi Jacob Tariau was conducting the Jewish services the prisoners kept up their bedlam.

When the morning services were over Miss Helen Cobb superintendent went to Rebecca Hall where she succeeded in restoring some degree of order, principally because the prisoners were pretty well exhausted. The girls told the attendant that they wanted to leave the reformatory and were going to keep up the racket until they were released.

In the disciplinary building Anne Groupe's aggregation's voices were holding out in great shape, and they kept the racket up the whole afternoon. They gave the same excuse for "carry on," namely that they wanted to be released. The attendant stated that the State should either allow them to restrain the violent prisoners with handcuffs or else provide a psychopathic ward with trained nurses where the disturbers can be treated. The present mutineers are all described as normal, but the continued strain and excitement racked their nerves and made them hysterical.
