SANTA BARBARA IS ONE OF THE MOST LOVELY SPOTS IN THE GOLDEN WEST

Washington, D. C., July 22—"To most Americans who have not seen California, but who have pictured the state's interesting spots in their imaginations, Santa Barbara would come close to meeting specifications," says a bulletin from the Washington, D. C., headquarters of the National Geographic Society in regard to the California city recently damaged by an earthquake.

"On and near the site of Santa Barbara is a medley of meadows teeming with wild flowers, rolling country dotted with groves of noble live oaks like a well kept park, mountains, canyons, flourishing citrus and olive groves, walnut orchards, and the blue Pacific with its sandy beaches and rocky headlands. To this wealth of 'raw material' the hand of the man has added much. On a hill at the heart of a plain sloping gently to the sea the old Franciscan Fathers planted Santa Barbara Mission, probably the best known of those famous religious edifices that were strung along the 'Camino Real' in Spanish days. On the two-mile slope between the mission and the ocean the city grew up—a sleepy Indian and Mexican village at first, then an American town of typical Californians.

Blessed By Mountain Barrier.

"Thanks to the barrier of the Santa Ynez mountains, which rise to a height of several thousand feet immediately behind the city, Santa Barbara is sheltered from northern winds and has an almost ideal winter climate. Because of this and the large winter colony that has been drawn there, the city has come to be called the American Mentone, after the well-known winter resort on France's sunny Mediterranean coast.

"With the city's growth in popularity, the hand of man added still more to its charms. People of wealth moved to Santa Barbara from all parts of the United States to build handsome residences and develop extensive estates, until now Santa Barbara has one of the largest 'millionaire colonies' on the west coast. The centre of this development, with its adjuncts of country clubs and polo fields, is in the suburb of Montecito, in the coastal hills several miles east of Santa Barbara.

To Withstand Earthquakes.

"The most famous building in Santa Barbara—the more famous than any of the natural features of the region—is the Santa Barbara Mission, the only two-towered mission in California. The earthquake history of this mission is interesting in the light of the recent destructive quake. Built in 1786, the original mission was destroyed by an earthquake early in the 19th century. When it was rebuilt between 1815 and 1820 the Franciscan Fathers deliberately made it especially massive in the hope that it would withstand future quakes. Its walls are of stone and mortar six feet thick and are strengthened outside by massive buttresses nine feet square at the base. This heavy construction has withstood the minor disturbance of more than a century, but so powerful were the vibrations of the recent earthquake that the towers were shaken down and the front wall was toppled over.

"At the present time the mission is conducted as a Franciscan college for monks, and is a centre of Catholic learning in California. One of its more notable features is a wonderful arcade facing the sea, from which tourists delight to watch the sunsets over the Pacific.

Has "Seagoing" Highways.

"The city of Santa Barbara extends from the edge of the Pacific up the foothills of the Santa Ynez mountains. Many of the business buildings are on relatively low ground not far from the Pacific. Residence have been built up the mountain slopes to the north, east and west.

"Because of its mountain barrier, Santa Barbara's railways enter the city along the ocean and afford travelers for many miles east and west of the city some of the most interesting ocean views to be found on the west coast. At places the rails are only a few feet above the high water mark, and if large tidal waves had swept inland, doubtless much of the track would have been demolished.

JAPAN AGREES WITH POLICY OF U. S. IN CHINA

(Special to The Daily Mail by British United Press)

Washington, July 22—Japan notified the United States today of its agreement with the American policy favoring a commission to study extra-territoriality in China without delay, it was learned at the State Department.

Although formal replies to the State Department communications have not yet been received here from Great Britain and France it is believed that those powers have definitely decided to accept the American proposals.

Trimming is generous, but appears on the back of the dress, while the front is left severely plain.

THE GOVERNOR OF MAINE AT ST. STEPHEN

St. Stephen, July 21—A brilliant reception was held this afternoon at Government House here, when His Honor W. F. Todd, Lieutenant-Governor of New Brunswick, and Mrs. Todd opened their magnificent home to welcome His Honor Ralph O. Brewster, Governor of the State of Maine, and Mrs. Brewster and party. The function lasted one hour, which was full of interest to visitors and hosts.

Governor Todd with Mayor Walter DeWolfe, of St. Stephen, the Governor's secretary, R. S. Barker, and Mayor William Laughlin, of Milltown, N. B., met the United States visitors on the International Bridge and presented them with a Canadian flag. Each of the 40 cars in the party was given a flag for decoration.

The tour of Governor Brewster and party is one of four such tours that are being made by leading citizens of the state to promote its interest. On this tour the party came to study the possibilities of hydro in the Passamaquoddy district.

REQUIEM MASS SOLEMNIZED ON A TRAIN

(Special to The Daily Mail.)

Montreal, July 22—For the first time in the history of Canadian railroading, Requiem Mass was solemnized aboard a train when the Liaison Francaise party who are returning from their trip across Canada over the Canadian National Railways took part in the Requiem Mass celebration for the repose of the soul of the late Cardinal Begin.

The Mass took place in the special car which had been provided for the purpose of holding religious services on the train and arrangements were made for the train to be stopped during the service. The Rev. Father Jaoulette, Directeur of the Liaison Francaise, officiated and was assisted by Rev. Father Emile Cote and Rev. Father E. L. Marsolais. All members of the Liaison Francaise party were very much impressed by the ceremony particularly so as they had been shocked to receiving the news of the death of Cardinal Begin who had wished them all bon voyage on their departure from Quebec on July 3rd.

"You'll have to listen to other people troubles a good bit in this life son."

"Yes, dad."

"So it is just as well to get into some line where you can charge for it."

NEW METHOD OF MAKING HAY WITH HOT AIR

Madison, Wis., July 22—Make hay while the sun shines was good advice when grandfather risked his life on a high wheeled bicycle, but today, in a manner of speaking, it is hot air.

Experimental engineers of the Department of Agriculture, University of Wisconsin, reported today on a new method in hay making recently demonstrated at Genesee Depot Experimental Farms.

By means of a high pressure hot air fan new mown hay was ready for baling eight hours after haying. Besides obviating the two or three weeks of field drying, the artificial process eliminates the risk of moisture damage and pests. Twelve loads were handled on the rack in one operation.

Several hundred farmers witnessed the demonstration this week. Howard T. Greene, owner of Brookhill, the experimental farm, plans to make this year's hay by hot air, rain or shine.

CHINESE ADOPT DARK CLOTHES IN BUSINESS

Shanghai, July 21—One sign of the leveling influence of commercial atmosphere is noticed in the principal business centres of China where black and other somber and dignified colors are now the Chinese business man's dress. Gone are the brilliant flowery silks and satins that once flitted among Chinese hongs and made the Chinese business world so picturesque.

Foreign-style clothing is becoming increasingly popular, and even Chinese who still cling to their native dress have adopted the foreign taste for plain and dark materials as their business color. In Shanghai silks, so long the synonym in popular imagination for China, are going out of fashion for business wear.

Foreign imported woollens are gaining favor. During the last four years woolen imports have increased four-fold and silk merchants state that the new taste is having a marked effect on their trade.

VERY LIKELY.
