BUSINESS LIFE OF THIRTY-FIVE COUNTRIES NOW FEELING THE INFLUENCE OF ROTARY CLUBS

Colorado, June 10—Business and professional men representing thirty-five countries, journeying from Australia, Japan, the Philippines, South Africa, Spain, Holland, Norway and Sweden, Denmark and the Balkan states, as well as from all other important countries of the globe, will meet at Denver, June 14-18, to gain knowledge of the activities of Rotary and develop new energy for the participation of their clubs in the local affairs of their many communities, where Rotary encourages and fosters better living conditions, commercial, social and civic, among its many benefits.

This gathering of probably ten thousand Rotarians becomes a revelation of the influence of friendship and brotherly feeling among men of experience and position, who have found that the elements of Rotary possess a reason for their being—or becoming—natural human beings, expressing their fellowship and comradeship in common interests and with a concerted feeling of service to all humanity itself. This is not a "high-fallutin" analysis of mere superficial sentiment. It is practically experienced by the type of men composing the memberships of the many clubs, and the twenty-five hundred communities throughout the world have felt in some manner the practical results of the activities of men with such visions.

That the demand for the increasing development of the institution of Rotary has been met by the secure supervision of the organization of each club is shown by the fact that there have never been any paid organizers and that only one charter has ever been surrendered by a club.

Upon solid foundations of practical service well defined and correctly understood, the advance of Rotary, first from Chicago in 1905 to the West and then to the East, clubs being formed in San Francisco, Seattle, Oakland, New York, Boston, Minneapolis, was followed by a general development in the United States, which began in 1911.

The Inner Circle.

That the idea of an organization strong enough in personnel to take interest in any activity in the community could proceed without conflict with other civic organizations, was amazing to wise acres who did not understand that the first principle of the institution was to be the inner circle of all circles, the inspirer of action in all societies. This was to be accomplished by the unusual policy of a single representation of each business, trade, or profession, which would ensure one emissary going forth from the Rotary meetings to inject into the society or club composed of men of his own complexion, representing only his own position in the community.

Thus, the one Rotarian would rotate among those of his own business trade or profession in his community and general field of contact with a message and vision and inspiration representing the inner circle of thought and determination in the community. All these members of Rotary being unable to exchange thoughts or ideas identically alike would come to a common understanding of that most desirable action or position to take in the community and the best of concerted action for the benefit of the community would result.

This alone was a novelty in institutional and community life in this country. The many safeguards which were constructed to prevent error in the practical application of this powerful purpose gave the founders many problems to solve. The preservation of the institution for twenty-one years proves the soundness of the original plans and the unwearied attention given to the construction of constitution and bylaws which would govern correctly such a huge structure in the making. The vision must not be merely Gargantuan, it must be translated into human possibility and that is where it is to be found today, a human institution with functions deeply imbedded in the present structure of community, state, national and international society.

A Social Element.

With such a successful position in the United States and Canada, Rotary was soon recognized as a social element needed in old-world centers. Although Dublin accepted the principles of Rotary as early as 1911, soon followed by London in August of the same year, the great expansion in Great Britain and on the continent did not take place until several years later, the British Isles now having nearly two hundred clubs, all established upon the same bases of ethical principles and practical operation as those in the United States and performing similar activities in the interests of their communities.

Not only have the English speaking countries accepted the desirable idea of this world-wide social institution. Countries with other than the English language, such as Chile, China, Japan, Denmark, France, Italy, Holland, Guatemala, Mexico, Spain, Norway, Switzerland, Brazil, among others, have felt the necessity for an organization of leading men of their own communities which bring together representatives of every branch of commercial and professional thought and effort, with but one intention—to understand civic needs and to investigate and discover the inner meaning of every old and new local interest.

A Common Ground.

It was to be expected that all English-speaking countries would desire such a common ground of fellowship and understanding, but the development of the clubs in countries with languages other than English has been of striking significance because of the composition of the original charter memberships, which have not been of English speaking men, but of native citizens who have understood this unique human bond of social equality, where religion, politics, and social position have no distinguishing power, but where there is a single level of association and intercourse.

That there was but one definite group of purposes is shown by the uniform similarity of the work done by the many clubs in Europe, Asia, Africa, Australia, South America, for the benefit of the social and community life of their cities and communities. The work of the clubs of the United States can be seen represented in these few exemplary incidents:

Work Among Boys.

The Rotary club of Sidney, Australia, learned that the Boys' Brigade needed $25,000 to extend the work into new districts in the city, and set to work to raise that sum; the amount obtained was $65,000. Similar work has been done in many clubs throughout the world.

In Mexico, every Rotary club has started work among boys—Chihuahua, Torreon, Saltillo, Monterey have furnished playgrounds and skating rinks, fostered and paid for by Rotarians. Vera Cruz started a Boy Scout organization, uniformed the boys, built a stadium, also a boxing ring, supplied athletic equipment, a radio and a library, at the expense of the members. In Vera Cruz a prospective small pox scare and epidemic was prevented by the members of the Rotary club and their wives who went out and vaccinated 20,000 persons, in many instances proving to the doubting natives that the vaccination was not harmful, by vaccinating themselves several times in the presence of doubters.

In Paris the club established for one of its members a laboratory where he could pursue his researches concerning cancer. In an English club a fund is maintained to assist boys to complete their college education.

Similar work has been done in Milan where the club has provided funds for the former president of the club, a physician, to study cancer; and in Genoa the club has provided the city with a quantity of radium to aid sick people who requires it.

The Rotary club of Montevideo, Uruguay, secured the use of a house which has been turned into a night shelter for boys and, like many another club in the many countries, distributed to children in hospitals, blind schools and deaf and dumb institutions not only gifts at Christmas but made of Christmas a day of happiness for many who had shared but little in the gifts of fortune.

LATZO MATCHED WITH HARMON

Newark, N. J., June 11—Pete Latzo of Scranton, Penn., was matched by the National Sportsman's Club to defend his world's welterweight championship against Willie Harmon of New York in a 12-round, no decision fight at Dremland Park here June 22.

Babe Gahan, matchmaker of the sportsman's Club, said that a guarantee of $25,000 would be paid the champion, while Harmon will receive a percentage of the gate receipts. The fight will mark the second meeting of the two men in Newark, Harmon having won a newspaper decision over Latzo two years ago.

The bout will be staged at the welterweight limit of 147 pounds.

THE THRONE OF POLAND WAS DECLINED

Milan, June 12—A story of two royal European princes who would not be Kings is recounted by the Secolo, which says that Prince Christopher of Greece and Prince Sixtus of Bourbon a brother of the former Empress Zita of Austria-Hungary, have been forced in recent weeks to refuse the throne of Poland.

The Secolo quotes Col. Miklasevski of the Polish army as saying that a number of patriots offered the crown of Poland to Prince Sixtus. He declined despite the fact that the French Government was favorable to his acceptance. He is alleged to have answered the Polish patriots as follows:

"I do not sigh for a throne. The crowns of Poland, Hungary and Albania have been offered to me but I do not desire to be considered a pretender to all the thrones of Europe."

The Poles then turned to the Pope, so Secolo's story goes. They urged the Pontiff to ask Prince Sixtus to accept their offer but Pope Pius is alleged to have replied that he had no desire to mix in Poland's internal affairs and that he would confine himself to bestowing the apostolic blessing on the Prince.

The Poles are then said to have asked Prince Christopher of Greece to accept their throne and he is alleged to have answered jocosely: "Please look at my bald head. Do you think a crown would sit steadily there? I am inclined to believe that it would slip and fall. Hence, no crown for me."

BERLIN BOSS BEING SUED BY HIS STENOGR.

Berlin, June 9—Introduction of the venerable American hot weather custom of wearing shirt sleeves in an office has had a legal aftermath in Germany.

It must be realized that shirt-sleeved men are not tolerated in German offices at which woman are employed. Coatlessness is considered akin to nudity.

Although the court prohibited the publication of the names of the principals in this lawsuit, the facts themselves are eloquent:

During the recent, premature heat-wave in Berlin a young business man arrived at his office, puffing and moping his brow and, desperately seeking to evade the sweltering heat, took off his coat.

His secretary entered the office, saw her boss in shirt-sleeves, shrieked and rushed from the room, never to return.

The next day she filed suit against her employer whom she charged with behaving in a manner calculated to offend the sensibilities of a young lady. The offense comprised appearance without a coat. The judge solemnly deliberated and acquitted the defendant.

Thereupon the young lady arose, indignantly, and declared:

"I deeply regret the low, depraved moral standards of this court. You are incapable of comprehending the honor and dignity of a lady."

Instead of having a warrant issued for contempt of court, the judge smiled as the plaintiff stalked from the courtroom.

AN EXAMPLE OF DEVOTION

Vienna, June 12—Austria pleads poverty but one of the local churches has brought together funds to construct candelabra larger than any in rich prewar Austrian times. Recently the hand-forged Kronluster was blessed in its place, hanging in the Rosenkranz church in Hetzendorf. The candelabra set is twenty-five feet high and nearly twelve in diameter; it weighs a ton and one-half. One hundred and twenty electric lamps are used in carrying out the idea of the victory of night over darkness. Money for the candelabra was obtained by popular collection.
