INSPECTOR DUNCAN ON STAND IN THE CUSTOMS PROBE; TELLS OF INTERVIEW WITH PREMIER

Ottawa, March 3—Inspector Duncan testified at the customs investigation late this afternoon on his difficulties with Hon. G. H. Boivin, minister of customs. It was Inspector Duncan who made the now famous report on the customs port of Montreal. He explained first how in 1924, he had been loaned by the department of finance to the Commercial Protective Association to investigate smuggling. A memo that he had received notified him that he was not to take court action without authorization from Ottawa. He thought the thing "ridiculous," and protested to Premier King and to Hon. J. A. Robb, minister of finance.

"Ignore the whole thing," observed Premier King, "put in jail any smugglers you get."

"So," Mr. Duncan informed the committee, "we started out with that intention."

Sent to Montreal

Mr. Duncan then said that on Nov. 27, 1925, Mr. Boivin instructed him to proceed to Montreal and report on whether there was sufficient evidence to justify the dismissal of J. E. A. Bissillon, then chief customs preventive officer at Montreal. In that conversation with Mr. Boivin, Mr. Duncan testified, there was mention of the House resolution of Hon. H. H. Stevens.

Mr. Duncan related a subsequent conversation with Mr. Boivin. In this conversation, he said, Mr. Boivin had charged him with giving information to Mr. Stevens.

Told Charge Untrue

"He said he would expose me to his colleagues," added Mr. Duncan. Mr. Duncan informed the committee that he had told Mr. Boivin the charge was untrue.

Inspector Duncan read a series of telegrams between himself and Mr. Boivin in which Mr. Duncan protested strenuously against a statement reported to have been made in the House by Mr. Boivin.

"From this moment I withdraw from the investigation," wired Inspector Duncan.

Mr. Boivin replied hoping Mr. Duncan would reconsider it and asking for allowance for his own difficult situation.

"My decision is final, unless a retraction is made on the floors of the House," Inspector Duncan wired back.

Slander Mentioned

"Is my reward for doing my duty to be slandered in the public press from coast to coast through a statement made by an honorable member of the crown on the floor of the House?"

Three days later Mr. Boivin wired back: "When I have seen you, I will endeavor at first opportunity to correct that portion of my remark in the House to which you refer."

Donaghy Protests

Dugald Donaghy, of North Vancouver, warmly protested against production of the telegrams. He called it "a mare's nest," and a "dirty political trick."

There were angry interchanges in the committee.

Mr. Boivin undertook to clear up the "grievance" which Inspector Duncan held against him.

"You accused me of trying to get evidence against a former colleague," declared the Inspector.

"I told you I wanted you to prepare your report before continuing to sit in the Windsor Hotel trying to get evidence against Jacques Bureau," replied the minister.

JUDGE LEBLANC TO DELIVER JUDGMENT IN ARBITRATION PROCEEDINGS ON MAY 5TH.

St. John, March 4—The arbitration proceedings between the Ingwood Pulp and Paper Co. and the New Brunswick Electric Power Commission were finished yesterday afternoon before Mr. Justice LeBlanc. May 5 was set as the date for giving judgment. The company claims as amount in excess of $840,000 and proceedings have been going on for more than two years.

Dr. F. R. Taylor, K. C., closed the case for the company at yesterday afternoon's session and P. J. Hughes, K. C., of Fredericton for the commission, was heard in reply.

Dr. Taylor in completing his address, begun at the morning hearing, said that the company valued its lumber on the land expropriated for hydro development at $200,000; hunting and fishing rights at $150,000; the land at $2.50 an acre, and a substantial sum to be determined for the water rights.

Mr. Hughes in Reply.

Mr. Hughes, in reply, dealt with the argument on the Mitchell report. He said that the report was rendered on Sept. 18, 1920 and was based on insufficient information. The Musquash had been first mentioned to Mitchell by Henry Holgate in a letter written Sept. 3. Mitchell had come to Saint John on Sept. 13 and had made his report five days later on information supplied him by Mr. Holgate.

Dealing with the question of fishing privileges, he said that the company could not find a purchaser for these. The Foss report, he went on showed three dams needed on the Musquash, and the correct number turned out to be 25.

Mr. Lea's evidence had been attacked by the opposition because he would not rely on flow figures based on the records of three to six years. These records were not sufficient, especially as the three years dealt with had been of greater than average precipitation.

Dr. Taylor: "As a matter of fact they were dryer than the average."

The Vermule Rule.

Mr. Hughes went on to say that the Vermule rule was not unknown as the company's lawyers had claimed. He produced a textbook in which it was discussed.

Masscurb, he said, was built up month by month and was a record of what had taken place and what could have been used. If the records regarding it were available for a long period of years a chance could be taken basing calculations upon it and allowing for a slight possible decrease. The available masscurb figures showed nothing like the amount the Brown report stated was available for the average year. Mr. Blanchard had proposed to fill the storage at the first of the year and hoped that it would carry him through to the spring floods at the first of the next year.

No Agricultural Value, He Says.

It was present values which must be considered and not something in the indefinite future. The land in question had no agricultural value and would not have for years to come. The 40,000 acres would not be worth paying taxes on as a lumber proposition. The evidence was that the annual growth was only two per cent.

On the evidence placed before the arbitrator the award should be small. The New Brunswick Electric Power Commission was appointed by the province to carry on a certain stated work. It was an arm of the government. The award should be reduced to the limits suggested as the land had no practical value. The company were trying to get something for nothing, he concluded.

Judge LeBlanc set the time and place of judgment at Moncton in the Supreme Court chamber on May 5 at 11.30 in the morning.

SPECIAL ATTRACTION AT THE CAPITOL THEATRE

Plenty of new thrills are added to a well worn western background in Tom Mix's latest effort, "The Everlasting Whisper," which is at the Capitol for the last half of the week. Mix makes a heroic rescue of Alice Calhoun from a runaway horse as the horse leaps a broken bridge.

Tony, Mix's prided mount is shown in a fight with a wolf pack which is entirely different and truly hair raising.

Robert Kane does well as the villain and Alice Calhoun makes a fine heroine.

The serial and a comedy are also on the bill.

DIFFICULTIES IN WAY OF LAW ENFORCEMENT

(Temperance Bulletin.)

We recognize some of the difficulties in the way of a prompt and efficient enforcement of the Prohibitory Law in New Brunswick.

Perhaps the first and the greatest difficulty is the apparent endeavour to make the administration of the law an annex to the political machine. The giving of Licenses and appointing Inspectors on political grounds stands in the way of proper enforcement.

The large stock of liquors held throughout the Country supplied by the late liquor Commissioners and through smuggled liquors brought into the Province is another difficulty in the way of prompt enforcement of the law.

Under the new regime we are looking for a little more honesty and honor in the commission work. That will mean much in the way of law enforcement.

The demoralization caused through the non enforcement of the law during the past few years, and the practically free sale of liquors by the Government, and their Vendors and Licensees, and others, will make for some time the enforcement of the law more difficult. Some of the Vendors still look upon their licenses as an opportunity to get rich at the public expense, instead of a privilege to sell only according to law. The public generally have scarcely as yet realized the bona fide intentions of the Government to enforce the law. An honest straightforward enforcement by the staff of Inspectors will however speedily change most of these conditions, and the change cannot come too soon, it has already been too long delayed.

Many of the Inspectors are new to the duties of their office and are inexperienced in the matter of law enforcement, and can scarcely be expected all at once to do their best work. They should not however long delay proofs of the sincerity of their desire to do all their duty. The people are hardly in the mood to tolerate trifling with this question of enforcing the law, they have already had too much of this.

Very much can be done by the people generally by giving the Officers all possible information and help, and aiding to create a public sentiment in favour of the strictest and most impartial enforcement of the law.
