THE RADIO.

Most of the inventions that have come into general use, and have attracted large aggregations of capital for their manufacture and distribution, have been substitutes for, or improvements on, something which people already possessed. The cotton gin did by machinery what had been done by hand. The locomotive took the place of the horse. The adding machine did the work of a human brain. The telephone made communication swifter and more direct.

The radio differed from these inventions in that it introduced an entirely new service. It is not, so far, at least, an improvement on the telephone since its messages in ordinary broadcasting travel only one way. It is not a development of the newspaper, because its field of operation is too restricted. It is not even a more versatile phonograph, for the auditor cannot command it at will to do as he wishes. It is a new service and amusement combined, such as the world had never before possessed.

And the world wanted it. Therefore it is not so surprising to read of the huge growth of the manufacture of radio apparatus.

In 1925 in the United States 2,180,622 tube sets were sold which shows how the Radio has swept that country.

OVER PRODUCTION.

A college student, bent on writing a theme, asked a business man in this town: "How did you know when you were beginning to succeed other than by the money you were making?" A man who doesn't know when he is doing good work is too dumb to do good work. He may or may not get much money for his production. He knows when he is going right. That is the biggest pay he can get—the satisfaction of knowing he can do the thing he is supposed to do. That feeling, in the end, will bring him more money.

There is no over-production of people who are expert in their work. Be competent enough and some body is perfectly sure to find it out and pay you properly.

It is understood that the report of the Maritime Royal Commission recommends an increased subsidy of $875,000 for Nova Scotia, $600,000 for New Brunswick and $125,000 for Prince Edward Island. In presenting the case for New Brunswick before the Royal Commission Premier Baxter urged an increased subsidy and also that the Federal Government take over the Valley Railway. The increased subsidy appears to be in sight, but with regard to the Valley Railway the Commission is said to have advised a further enquiry to ascertain the liability of the Federal Government in connection with this road. Should the line ultimately be taken over and the subsidy increased by $600,000 the finances of New Brunswick will be put in a fairly healthy position.

If as has been contended the Federal Government cannot make public the contents of the report of the Maritime Royal Commission until it is first submitted to Parliament it might at least turn over copies to the Premiers of the three maritime provinces. If the recommendations in the report are to be carried out some legislative enactments might be necessary on the part of the provinces and the maritime Premiers should have sufficient time to prepare these for the approaching sessions of the three Legislatures. In any case no great harm could result if the maritime Premiers were furnished with copies for their personal use.

Lady Smith, widow of Sir Albert Smith, who passed away at Dorchester on Sunday, was reputed to have been the wealthiest woman in New Brunswick. Her husband who was a former Premier of New Brunswick and a member of the Mackenzie Government died in 1883 leaving her a large estate, which it is said has since more than trebled in value. Lady Smith was the largest individual holder of bank stock in the province, and it is believed her estate will measure up pretty closely to the million dollar mark.

The Supreme Court of Nova Scotia stands divided on the question as to whether or not the membership of the Legislative Council can be increased beyond twenty-one members and the case will now likely go to the Privy Council. The Rhodes government in keeping with a pre-election promise is trying to abolish the council, but the members have declined to vote themselves out of office. The government is now seeking authority to appoint sufficient new members to carry a measure for abolition.

Somebody says the safety razor has a lot to do with the way some boys and girls behave today. In the gay nineties the old-fashioned razor strop settled many an argument as to whether Minnie or Jim were going to come in at 10.30 or stay out until 11. Perhaps Everett Hill, past president of International Rotary, was right when he said that too many woodsheds had been converted into garages.

One of our particular pet bores is the high powered go-getter who is always boasting that he keeps his desk "clean," because we always have the feeling the lower drawers are chock full of stuff he ought to have attended to long ago.

When distinguished guests are paraded through downtown New York, it is the practice of brokers' boys to empty waste-baskets from upper story windows. This makes an unusually large confetti.

Chemists we understand, are working on a scheme to combine nickel and cobalt for use in certain diseases. Looks as though they might be preparing something to combat softening of the brain.

Afghanistan has but one automobile for her 1,200,000 citizens. Yet if they were college boys, there would be no difficulty about getting them all aboard.

When the Great Orator gets along to the point where he remarks, "But, friends, my time is limited—" it signifies that he will sound off 28 more minutes.

The Swedish ministry of public education has made swimming an obligatory course in the curriculum. There's one study in which the majority of the girls should excel.

The woman who conceals her age, says Dr. Eugene Lyman Fiske, is a public benefactor. The woman who conceals her age is also a woman.

A well-known Texas bad man was recently bumped off ingloriously by a flivver. Well, all is vanity and a haughty spirit goeth before a fall.

Matches are those thin wooden things a man goes back to, about two weeks after purchasing the trick cigar-lighter.

Maybe walking isn't healthful. Weston, the world's greatest pedestrian, has fallen by the wayside at the tender age of 88.

Peach's Cinderella Man claims now he had to pay $30,000 to find out that the mother-in-law joke isn't very funny.

That hoarse and incredulous guffaw is the response of the seven children to Father's reference to "my car."

The 10-ton truck is the modern Colossus of roads.

Also, it may be stated, many of the good aviators die young.

Simple Way to Get Rid of Blackheads

There is one simple, safe, and sure way that never fails to get rid of blackheads, that is to dissolve them. To do this, get two ounces of peroxide powder from any drug store—sprinkle a little on a hot, wet cloth—rub over the blackheads briskly—wash the parts and you will be surprised how the blackheads have disappeared. Big blackheads, little blackheads, no matter where they are, simply dissolve and disappear. Blackheads are simply a mixture of dust and dirt and secretions that form in the pores of the skin. The peroxide powder and the water dissolve the blackheads so they wash right out, leaving the pores free and clean and in their natural condition.

Musquash Storage

Saint John Globe: At 2.15 Monday afternoon, it was reported from Musquash that the precipitation there at that time totalled 4.16 inches for the rain storm which started on Sunday. With rain falling steadily, it will occasion no surprise should the total for the present storm equal the record precipitation of August, 1923, when six inches of rain was received. The precipitation from 7 a. m. until 2.15 p. m. amounted to one inch, indicating that the downpour was very heavy. Another report from Musquash was that the water in the stream was very high and that there was a flowage over the roadway for a short distance.

Probably you know one—the kind of man who would stop to take a drink of bootleg while on his way to put up a safety first sign.

Babe Ruth doubtless is willing to let the other members of the team have what is left after he gets his salary.

"Probably we never laughed more," says Bob Ryder of the Ohio State Journal, "that when the chairman of the executive committee of the Birth Control Club of the Franklin Avenue Protective Association had twins." It's funny even up here two thousand miles away.

ORANGE JUICE AND MILK.

Detroit, Oct. 26—The health-o-maniac who is horrified to see anyone eat cherries over which cream has been poured—arguing that cream and acid are a painful combination once they reach the digestive organs—has something else to worry about now. At the National Dairy exposition a drink that is going over big is orange juice and milk, vigorously mixed in a soda fountain shaker.

Moncton U. N. B. Club

The U. N. B. Club of Moncton had an enjoyable reunion at a dinner at the Windsor Hotel, Dorchester, Saturday evening. The members motored to Dorchester and there was a large attendance. W. McL. Barker was the speaker of the evening and he gave a very interesting address on the trip of the New Brunswick high school teachers to the British Isles with the Lord Beaverbrook party. The dinner was served in the large dining room of the hotel and later the party upstairs where a huge open fire added to the cheerfulness of the meeting. O. L. Barbour, President of the Club, was in the chair.

Spoke on Missions.

The Rotary Club today had as the chief speaker at the weekly luncheon Dr. Kenneth A. Baird who with his wife and family recently returned from Honan, China, where he had labored for several years as a medical missionary. Dr. Baird gave a most interesting account of the land and its people and of the problems which confronted him at various times.

Had Fine Sport.

A party composed of John B. Kinghorn, B. H. Kinghorn and J. H. McMurray have returned from a successful trip to Tabusintac after wild fowl. They each secured a good bag of geese and brant. Messrs. W. T. Chestnut of this city and Fred Davis of Oromocto who accompanied the party remained at Tabusintac for a few days longer.
