OPTIMISTIC ADDRESSES HEARD AT MUNICIPALITIES CONVENTION; PREMIER BAXTER TALKS PLAINLY

Saint John, Oct. 29.—At the dinner given to the members of the Union of New Brunswick Municipalities last evening in the Admiral Beatty Hotel, Mayor W. W. White in an address stated that the city of Saint John proposed to sell the salt water of the lower end of this province much in the same manner as the fresh water of Grand Falls was being sold. In his address he stated:

"We are led to believe that the Duncan Report has made some favorable recommendations to the Dominion Government, one of them being the nationalization of the port of Saint John. This would not only be for the immediate present but in anticipation for future needs."

PREMIER BAXTER.

"The lumber industry in this province," said Mayor White, "is not finished. Just think of the hardwood we have in New Brunswick! There is ample opportunities for furniture manufacturing concerns here, and again we can exploit the West Indies and Africa where this wood is not to be had."

"Over $2,000,000 had been expended on the port of Saint John but it is expected that with new developments Saint John Harbor will be able to compete successfully with the ports of Boston, New York and Portland, because we believe that freight rates will be such as to enable us to do this."

Dr. Murray MacLaren, M. P. elect, stated that the people of the Maritimes could rely on the fact that the members of the Dominion parliament from this section of the country would support any move to rectify the mistakes made at the time of Confederation provided that the recommendations were "fair, just and went far enough." "People in the Maritimes," he stated, "need be under no misapprehension as to the stand they would take in this vital matter."

3 Mills to be Built.

In his address Premier Baxter stated that within a short time three new pulp mills would be erected that would use all the power available at Grand Falls. "The staff of the Provincial Hospital," he stated, "will be maintained, although each municipal district would have to pay the upkeep of any patients sent there for treatment which would amount to $5.41 per week."

Continuing, he stated, "that if the report of the Duncan commission were favorably acted upon the province would not need to resort to direct taxation as it was understood that $600,000 would be returned to the province." He stated that the provincial legislature would always welcome any scheme of the Union of New Brunswick Municipalities for the common good of the province.

In his address on Maritime matters A. M. Belding urged that the Maritimes stick together, that they were on the eve of a great prosperity.

A wave of optimism that permeated the very atmosphere flowed through the banquet hall of the Admiral Beatty Hotel last evening. Speakers representing the Dominion of Canada, the Province of New Brunswick, the Maritimes and the City of Saint John all united in voicing the opinion that better things were in store for New Brunswick and at an early date.

The Premier's Speech.

Premier Baxter in his speech said in part:

Needless to say I am very glad to be here and I was glad to have been able to give some time to attend the convention which has just closed. I was very much impressed with the absolute punctuality and careful preparation for the meetings. Things were arranged on a schedule so that there was not much time left for a discussion of the various papers.

A matter of very great importance was laid before you that will require careful consideration. Some very vital things were mentioned and I found sane, earnest attention to what some might term petty affairs. I know from personal experience what municipal affairs are, how small the individual is when one goes into higher politics and I have found that men are very rarely in violent disagreement over simple stated facts. I have seen good service rendered by men whose interest went no further than serving those nearest their home life. May I say it ought to be a desire, always has been a desire of all governments in New Brunswick to bring about a helpful condition of affairs between the Municipal Union and the Provincial Government. The expenditures in connection with the Provincial Hospital was not made for the purpose of placing extra burdens on the people of the municipalities but extra expenditures were demanded which were made with very little increase in the revenues. Aid has been given to public institutions roads have been built, because the people would not be content to have the roads neglected.

Must Find Money.

"The Provincial Government has to do what the Municipal council has to do, viz., the finding of a dollar somewhere for every one you spend. This is not so easy in provincial affairs. There is only one source for the paying of bills and that is from the pocket of the people. In our budget this year we are short $700,000. I need not go into details where this has arisen except to say that roads, the Valley Railway, etc., has accounted for it. Our policy is to tell the people the facts, we are short and you will have to pay it. That is exactly what we did."

"We will keep up the staff of the Provincial Hospital, but we will have to ask you to pay the cost of the patients which you send in which amounts to $5.41 per week. Of course, it will not be necessary to proceed with direct taxation if the report of the Duncan Commission is carried out. It provides that $600,000 shall be paid to New Brunswick which I think it calls for. If the Dominion Government will take over the Valley Railroad as we believe it will by the report, it will mean that we will be able to do more things in the way of developing New Brunswick."

Immigration Costs.

"When Sir Andrew Duncan was here I said to him, 'I would like to be able to puncture about 50 holes in the crust of this province and see what is underneath. But it requires about $50,000 and I haven't got it to spend. The cost of bringing emigrants to New Brunswick should be borne by the Dominion Government. It is the duty of the Provincial Government to point out the good sections of land and see that the settlers are protected from being victimized. Our natural resources should be developed to prevent our people from going away. They will tell you that, 'Baxter sold our birthright.' I make reference to Grand Falls. Twenty-five years ago a government of this province gave a lease to a company and blocked the title to this property, in fact gave all our rights to these waters for the sum of $60,000. A government should stand by its agreement and that is what this government did. It would have cost us $1,250,000 to get back what was sold for a paltry $60,000. Instead we made them develop it with their own capital. We can apply that power to forests of the province and turn pulp and paper into the markets of the world and it doesn't cost us a cent to do it. The public is safeguarded and any loss will be suffered by private pockets, if there is a loss."

Three New Pulp Mills.

"Within a few years three large pulp mills will be transforming into pulp and paper the forests and they will use all the power available. The province should create opportunities but should not try to run pulp mills but rather to create such opportunities so that companies will come in and operate. It means thousands of workers with their families which in turn means a demand on the farmers for products of the soil. I still think the people have opportunities and can develop them. Then we have the beautiful Miramichi River, unsurpassed in beauty, where industry is vanishing. We are going to endeavor to have pulp and paper mills erected on the Miramichi. Power must be found if possible at a rate that will make it possible for people to invest their money. In this respect the prosperity of any one section will be reflected all over the province. Are the people up on their toes? That is as necessary as anything a government can do."

Will Listen to Problems.

"We are always glad to have the municipal union come to the government at any time with a scheme for the good of the province such as representation, alteration of taxation, etc., but it is our wish that they give careful consideration to their questions before presenting them, and the legislature will always extend a welcome. Don't be hasty in experiments. Come with things well prepared, well thought out and the legislature will be a friend to the Municipal Union."

GIRLS' SLICKERS PIQUE FARMERS IN THE WEST

Portland, Or., Oct. 28.—This is the time of the year when old-timers feel comfortable, as the damp season is here, and when strangers stare at comely maidens parading to and from school dressed in startling fashion.

Galoshes flip and flop, slickers billow out behind, being of a stiff light yellow material. But it is the decoration upon the slicker that causes the man from New York or Chicago, Los Angeles or New Orleans, to rub his eyes and then take another look.

A fair maiden walks down the street wearing a pair of swishing "Capt. Kild" bootees over her dainty shoes. Her bright yellow slicker apparently had been mistaken for an artist's canvas, for upon the back of it there appears a picture. It is of two hearts which are forever joined by a keen-edged dagger which pierces each. Whether it portrays a love fast and true or represents the death of a once mutual affection is unrevealed.

Not to be outdone, on the other side of the street there strolls a flapperish blonde—one running toward the robust lines of the feminine type which a generation ago was classified as "the beef trust."

Frog on Slicker

Her slicker, too, is a bright yellow, but her Daddy must be from Dublin or county Cork, as the decoration is, in dull green. "What is it?" asks the curious visitor, and upon inspection he discovers it to be a giant frog, and Mr. Frog has no fears of the rain for he is holding an umbrella over his head.

Then, as though to gladden the cynical eye, there is the stunning brunette, a willowy beauty with a tender gleam in her soft brown eyes—a girl that makes you think of the pay checks unsent. She is wearing the zipper boot, but the zipper has not been zipped. The boot is open at the top—how else could one see a shapely calf in its sheeny flesh-colored hose.

Her slicker is a bit of art. It pictures a cozy corner, "far from the cares that are" and on a comfortable davenport there are two lovers with arms entwined. A scene telling a story with a sensible moral—one informing man that he should have sense enough to come in out of the rain.

But the old-timer, the Oregonian who loves his Oregon, doesn't like these slickers and galoshes. He does not object to the flopping boots, vivid colors, artistic and inartistic pictures, but maintains that such things cast a reflection upon a Portland and Willamette Valley myth—namely, that Oregon rain isn't wet.

* SPECIAL ATTRACTION *
* AT GAIETY THEATRE *

Never was the wistful innocence of Harry Langdon's screen personality exploited with more amusing effect than in "The Strong Man" featured attraction at the Gaiety, Friday and Saturday.

None of Langdon's full-length photoplays has failed to be amusing but in all that have preceded "The Strong Man" there have been interludes when the fun was at low ebb or even lacking. In this latest effort there is not a moment devoid of mirth except the meeting between our hero and his sweetheart and that is such an expert study in pathos that one must say it "belongs."

Priscilla Bonner Gertrude Astor, William V. Mong and others give the star excellent support.
