AROUND the TOWN

This has certainly been a backward spring and summer—rather the date on which summer is to begin, is going to be here before we know it. It seems rather hard to believe that in less than a month from today the sun having reached the northern limit will start working his way back in the opposite direction, which will mean a gradual shortening of the days. We have a splendid climate in New Brunswick, but a month or two less of cold weather would make a decided improvement. A backward spring means that the farmers are behind with their work, but the majority of them seem to be quite optimistic and are confident that once things begin to grow that they will speed up in good shape.

Smelt and gaspereaux are the first fresh fish to arrive here in the spring, or rather the first to arrive by the river route. There has been a good run of both kinds during the past week, and some good catches have been made. While smelt fishing with hook and line as compared with angling for trout, is rather tame sport, still quite a lot of pleasure can be extracted from it, and the little fish, possibly on account of their comparative freedom from bones are very palatable. The gaspereaux is a very good fish but many people seem to have a preference for them when smoked. The gaspereaux is strong on bones, and there would not be any great demand for them but for the fact that they are the first fresh fish to go on the market in the spring. Shad will be along this way about the first week in June, and when the water falls the salmon, the best of all fishes, the trout alone accepted, will have its innings. The local market is always abundantly supplied with salmon during the summer months, and the people are able to choose between St. John Harbor salmon, St. John River salmon and Miramichi salmon. The difference in the three varieties is only one of imagination or sentiment, as all are Atlantic salmon and there is only the one kind.

Victoria Day falls on Monday this year, a fact which will be appreciated by disciples of Isaak Walton, old and young. It is now eighty-nine years since May 24th was proclaimed a public holiday and there are very few people now living whose memory goes back that far. It is to be presumed that soon after May 24th was proclaimed a public holiday somebody made it the official opening day of the angling season and it has been rigidly observed as such ever since. It can be said with truth that more people go trout fishing on May 24th than on any other day in the entire year. It is some times happens that all who go fishing on the 24th do not catch fish, but they invariably have an enjoyable holiday and after all the mere catching of fish is only an incident. What would the poor angler do if the 24th ceased to be a public holiday?

The excellent movies of New Brunswick wild life shown by Burton S. Moore at the Gaiety Theatre on Thursday even, were a revelation to many who composed the large audience. The fact that Mr. Moore was six year making his collection of pictures goes to show that a man to be successful as a naturalist must be possessed of great patience as well as considerable ingenuity. Mr. Moore possesses both of these virtues to a marked degree. One of the most interesting of his pictures revealed a partridge in the act of drumming. Now a partridge when drumming makes a noise that can on a clear day be heard a considerable distance. Many amateur woodsmen have always contended that it made the noise by pounding on a hollow log with its wings. Mr. Moore's picture, however, showed quite plainly that the partridge does not pound on the log, but makes the noise with its wings just as it does when it springs in rocket flight on being flushed by a man with the gun. The partridge is New Brunswick's only non migratory game bird, and with cold winter weather and enemies of various kinds to contend with the only cause for wonder is that it has not become extinct.

Our old friend the woodchuck, better known as the ground hog, was one of the small animals depicted in Mr. Moore's movies, and the comedy role which it played certainly made it a favorite with the audience. It seems that this woodchuck had got on terms of intimacy with the camp cook and came around daily to accept food from his hands. The camera caught the little animal during one of these visits, and it certainly posed well. It accepted a piece of bread from the cook and then sitting up on its haunches allowed the cook to pat and stroke it. Johnny Chuck, as Thornton Burgess calls it, is certainly a clever little animal, far too clever to venture out of his den during the month of February.

It seems a shame to spoil a good story but it is said that the collar button which a youthful disciple of Isaak Walton claimed to find in a smelt which he caught the other day was "planted" in the fish after it was caught. A bystander started a yarn about once finding a ring in a smelt. The youngsters became so interested that he decided to have one of them "find" a coin in a fish. Not having a coin of right size he asked his companion for one but all that they could raise between them for the experiment was a collar button. It worked, however. The boy was induced to clean his fish on the spot and "found" the collar button. He had the discovery duly chronicled in a local paper.

Some variety appears in the signs now carried on the back of cars. "If you can read this you are too d—d close", used to be the favorite. Now one may observe such notices as "If you are in a hurry, detour" with an arrow pointing to the left, or "If you can read this, use your brakes."

TONS OF COAL ABOARD BUT SHIP BURNS WOOD

Philadelphia, May 21—Although loaded with 6,300 tons of briquet coal the Norwegian steamship Birk here from Antwerp burned all the available wood on board for two days before she reached Queenstown, towing another ship she had picked up disabled.

The crew could have paraphrased the "Rhyme of the Ancient Mariner" by chanting: "Coal, coal, everywhere but not a brick to burn!" Capt. Gunderson, master of the Birk explained that he preferred to use up all his wood rather than break into his cargo for fear the consignee might raise a question of accepting it if it were not intact. The Birk responded to signals of distress from the Norwegian steamship Brask which was in danger of foundering while bound from Rotterdam to Newfoundland. After nearly a week of efforts to take the Brask in tow a hawser was finally made fast.

The course was changed back toward the Irish coast and for 26 days the Birk towed the disabled vessel 1,100 miles until she was anchored in Queenstown harbor. The hawser broke eight times.

NEW MANAGER FOR THE N. B. TELEPHONE CO.

St. John, May 22—In line with its established policy of rewarding by advancement those who have served well the company, Otty J. Fraser was appointed general manager of the New Brunswick Telephone Company by the board of directors in session here. Mr. Fraser has been with the company for many years and had been superintendent for the last 12 years. He is vice-president of the Rotary Club, taking a prominent part in the activities of that organization and also takes a deep interest in civic and welfare matters.

Another Advance. S. B. Ebbett, who has been traffic manager of the company for several years, was promoted to the position of assistant to the manager in charge of traffic.

One of the directors, following the meeting, said that the promotion of Mr. Fraser and Mr. Ebbett was well merited, and in each case paid a tribute to the loyalty shown by these men to the interests of the company. The position of general manager was a new office that had been created and would in no way disturb the personnel of the company's offices, it was said.

THE SHEEP AND LAMB TRADE

Sheep and lambs paid well in Canada last year, but market supplies were quite short. The Dominion Live Stock Commissioner attributes the shortage of supply in a large degree to the holding back of suitable ewe lambs for the breeding flocks. There is now a keen and insistent demand for good ewe stock and undoubtedly there is a healthy growth taking place in the industry. A steady improvement is taking place in the quality of sheep kept. The export trade is in a healthy state, the export of mutton and lamb in 1925 being the highest since 1922, totalling 2,640,600 pounds valued at $624,010 compared with 922,200 pounds at $184,423 in 1924. The monthly average prices in 1925 were the highest in recent years. In fact there is every encouragement for the farmers to increase their flocks.
