PARLIAMENT ADOPTED THE STEVENS AMENDMENT; RULING
OF THE SPEAKER WAS UPHELD

Margin of 10.

Ottawa, June 29—The amendment as thus amended was carried by 115 to 109, a Government majority of 10. Progressives voted, as they voted before, 10 with the Government and 10 with the Liberals. Mr. Bourassa however, changed his vote, voting on this occasion with the Liberals, thus reducing the majority from 12 to 10.

Subsequently the House, on the same division, accepted the report of the customs committee as amended.

Put more simply, the House has adopted the recommendation of the customs committee for improved administration of the Customs Department, it has approved the censure of the King Government and of Hon. G. H. Boivin, ex-Minister of Customs; it has recommended the appointment of a judicial commission to investigate customs administration further, this commission to consist of a judge who will be appointed by the two judges of the Exchequer Court of Canada.

Conservatives cheered loudly when the results were announced.

Drayton's Statement.

Ottawa, June 29—The reading of the statement by Sir Henry Drayton in House today was interrupted by derisive Liberal cheering.

When he announced that seven ministers had been sworn in without portfolios there was a Liberal shout of "Why didn't you come in by the front door?"

Loud Conservative cheers followed as the names of the acting ministers were read.

When Sir Henry had concluded Mr. Mackenzie King, in a question of privilege, emphatically denied a report that the Governor-General had declined to sanction certain appointments recommended by the Government.

"I did not present a single order to His Excellency," said Mackenzie King, "to which he did not assent except the request for dissolution of Parliament."

The House then proceeded with routine business.

Customs Report.

The House took up the customs report with amendments.

Fernand Rinfret, Liberal, St. James, spoke of the "supposed and pretended Prime Minister" of today. Conservatives had declared at the opening of the session that a Government could not function without a Prime Minister in the House. Yet the present Prime Minister was not in the House.

"I am surprised to see Sir Henry Drayton occupying a position in complete contradiction to the stand he took at the opening of the session," Mr. Rinfret went on.

Mr. Rinfret charged Conservatives with "smuggling themselves" into power.

Conservatives Pitiless.

Mr. Rinfret accused the Conservative members of being pitiless in their demands for punishment of any Liberal concerned in the Duncan report but subject to all oblivion when it concerns their own members. "They demanded penalties on Hon. G. H. Boivin while they asked for leniency in the case of W. A. Boys. Mr. Rinfret suggested that consistency should be observed in such matters. Mr. Rinfret said that if members permitted themselves to consider only which party should be in power the advantages and benefits to be gained by the customs report would be lost. He stated that in the debate there had been only "jockeying for position" and power.

The temporary advantage gained by the Conservative party would not last, he declared.

The customs enquiry should be continued so as to cover all parts of the Dominion. For that reason

Liberal members had last week supported the idea of the appointment of a judicial commission to complete the investigation.

"It would be sheer hypocrisy" said Mr. Rinfret, "to censure the then Minister of Customs because of the customs report." He said that anyone who understood the practices of this country would appreciate this. It was the customs of the constituents to appeal to their member when needing help which the Government could give and, going a step higher it was the practice of the member if he had the good of his constituency and his constituents at heart, to take up with the minister affected such pleas for help.

Move Sub-Amendment.

Mr. Rinfret then moved a sub-amendment which, he explained, would do away with the motion of censure and privilege for the continuance of the investigation on a larger scale.

The sub-amendment would strike from the amendment before the House the references to influence upon ministers, the rapid deterioration of the department and the "unjustifiable conduct" of the Minister of Customs.

The sub-amendment would also provide for a commission of three judges one to be appointed by the Prime Minister one by the leader of the Progressive party. The commission would examine former Ministers of Customs and generally have all the power conferred under the Public Inquiries Act.

Sir Henry Drayton, government leader declared Mr. Rinfret's sub-amendment "entirely out of order". Its whole object was to strike out the Stevens amendment upon which the House had already passed. The purpose of Mr. Rinfret's move was exactly similar to that made by Mr. Woodsworth on Friday of last week. It was submitting for the second time a matter upon which the House had already voted.

Boivin Takes Part.

Hon. G. H. Boivin former Minister of Customs and Excise said that the question before the House the Stevens amendment had never been voted upon. Under parliamentary practice the Rinfret amendment was therefore strictly in order.

Hon. Ernest Lapointe explained the procedure of dealing with such amendments in the British House which is slightly different from that followed here but which he claimed substantiated the argument of previous Liberal speakers. The House could deal with amendments to any part of the Stevens amendment owing to the House having not already expressed an opinion.

Sir Henry Drayton acting H. leader; George B. Nicholson, Conservative, Algoma East, and E. B. Ryckman, Conservative, Toronto East, supported the claim that the Stevens amendment as it was left by the House in the early hours of Saturday morning could not be amended in the way proposed.

Speaker Sustained.

Speaker Lemieux then ruled Mr. Rinfret's sub-amendment in order. G. R. Greer, Conservative, South Toronto appealed from the Speaker's ruling and the House divided.

On division the Speaker's ruling was sustained by a vote of 115 to 114.

Liberal cheers greeted the announcement that the Speaker's ruling had been upheld. Several Liberal members called out "Resign, resign."

NIAGARA DUSTER

Dusting for diseases or insect control has many advantages not possessed by spraying. The following are some of the advantages over spraying:

- Five times faster.
- Less labor required.
- No water to pump or haul.
- One third the weight.
- Eliminates repairs.
- At least, as effective; many tests proving it to be more effective.

Many farmers are using Niagara Dusters in this vicinity and are entirely satisfied with them. If you are interested write or come in and see us and we will give you any information you desire.
