FISHING LEASES.

We are inclined to think that the Northern Light of Bathurst is not far from right in some comment which it makes on the agitation against leasing the trout fishing privileges of the Tracadie River. It says:
"What possible interests have Saint John people in the leasing of the Tracadie or other rivers in this county? What do they know about conditions up here, and why should they presume to dictate what should or should not be done?"
The paper then goes on to say that "unless the Government is prepared to properly protect our streams from the dynamiter and the spear and netters, it will be far better to let the lease holders do it, as otherwise there will quickly be no fish either for the resident angler or the visiting tourist."
What our North Shore contemporary predicts will happen should the Tracadie River be thrown open to the public, actually happened in connection with the Upsalquitch River some years ago. In response to public demand the government of the day refrained from leasing the fishing privileges of the Upsalquitch but opened it to the public on payment of a rod licence fee. The experiment proved a success from the standpoint of the poachers, but a rank failure from the government's standpoint. The rod privileges were eventually withdrawn and the river was leased to the late Mr. Thomas Malcolm, who gave it efficient protection, with the result that it is now one of the best salmon angling streams in the province.

MUSSOLINI'S SPEECHES.

One by one, all the things in this world that have life, color, pep, kick in them are snatched away from a public yearning to escape boredom. Things have come to a sorry pass indeed when the one statesman of the times who is not moribund from the fallen arches to the scalplock turns censor upon himself and takes all the capscum, mustard and ginger out of his inspired utterances before permitting them to reach the reading populations of alien lands.
That's Mussolini, and it is a pity. He was to other statesmen as twenty-year-old wickedness is to near-beer. When he opened his mouth he said something calculated to spur half of the world, at least, to entertaining indignation. It was stimulating. His speeches were the voice of spring stirring things to life. And now, it is announced he will delete, blue-pencil, scratch all comments of more than one-half of one per cent. potency. Dern!
Dr. Allen O. Whipple, professor of surgery in Columbia university, says text books and teaching methods in medical schools are 20 years behind the times. This is partly true in all schools. It is a good sign. It is encouraging to know that the advance of science and the acquirement of new knowledge are so rapid that text books can't keep up. What we need is more men and women—especially teachers and preachers—who realize that this is a changing world and are willing to discard what seemed to be truth yesterday for what seems to be truth today. Consistency is the great enemy of progress.
Students wonder why they do not grow into great artists. They make progress. They work hard and practice much. They become proficient in technique. But all the work and practice in the world will not make a great artist. Supreme technique will not make you great. A great artist must be great inside. The true artist must not merely strive to perfect himself in the art of producing beauty. He must love beauty—and there must be something lovable within him. Hard work and practice and the acquirement of technique may in time make you a competent musician. Only a great soul can make you great.
Premier Baxter is right when he says that the biggest problem which confronts the people of New Brunswick today is of a financial nature. Last year the deficit on ordinary revenue account was $487,119 the largest in the history of the province. To this amount he added $269,470, of Valley

Railway interest, making a total of $756,589 for the year. This amount will of course have to be bonded and added to the public debt. If Premier Baxter and his colleagues can find some method by which the ordinary expenditure can be kept within the income they will have rendered the province a notable service.
A statement by Sir Thomas Tait, president of the Minto Coal Company, on the coal situation at Minto, appears in another part of this issue and will be read with interest. We believe that Sir Thomas has put the case of the company before the people with absolute fairness.
It is now thirty-two years since Ex-Premier Veniot entered public life, but tomorrow for the first time he will take his seat on the Speaker's left, otherwise known as the cool shades of opposition.
No forecast of the Speech from the Throne with which His Honor is to open the Legislative Assembly tomorrow is yet available but it is safe to predict that it will be short, snappy and business like.
If vinegar can easily be turned into alcohol, putting up pickles may yet be made an excuse for raids on the householder.
Women, or at least a certain class of them, don't like tin soldiers. Neither do men. Apparently the only ones really interested are the kids. The ayes have it.
China had a new Prime Minister the other day, but he was out of office before anyone but the Chinese knew it.
Now comes the time of year when popular reading is furnished by the seed catalogues.
The Austrian Tyrol makes a strong bid for the sympathy of the world in barring the Charleston.
Spring is coming in Morocco. Abdel Krim is getting ready to take the field again.
Half the world wonders how the other half manager to sneak through without getting gripped.
The motto of Chicago is "I will," but, as 9999 people have already suggested, it ought to be "I can't."
The trees are budding in Paris, but that doesn't help us any.
Some people are always ready to meet spring fever half way.
Fighting goes on in China. It may take the spring rains to bring peace.
Maybe people like the excitement of being fooled some of the time.
"Barnum was right," said a Kansas man upon his return from Florida.
Lima Beane says the dog is more amiable than man because he wags his tail in any kind of weather.
Archeologists have found the "Mountain of Love" in the Sahara desert. So potting parties are not new.
Germany might have kicked the world with aspirin in time, had she not become impatient and resorted to Big Berthas.
There is much comment on Henry Ford's purchase of Longfellow's village blacksmith shop. Nobody seems to understand it, assuming that he doesn't need another horse shoe.
It is a great relief to us in these maturer years to realize that we don't have to reform the world after all and we often wish that more of the earnest souls by whom we are surrounded realized that they don't have to either.—Bob Ryder, Ohio State Journal.—They probably feel that conscience has cut out their work for them.
On New Wave Length.
Radio Station CNRA Moncton, is now broadcasting on 312.4 metres, and all listeners will please note and revert to this station up to August last. The wave length of 291 metres is to be used by a Toronto station from which it was borrowed last Summer. It is expected that before long the Moncton Station will have a standard wave length of 322.4 metres.

PUBLIC OPINION
CALLS IT A MENACE.
Fredericton, 8th March, 1926.
Editor, Daily Mail:
Dear Sir,—
A real menace to life is the unused chimney by the roadside adjacent to what used to be Morrison's Mill.
Whose duty is it to remove menaces?
Yours truly,
SOME ONE.
GOLD FROM CANADA SENT TO NEW YORK
New York, March 10.—Between $5,000,000 and $7,000,000 of gold has been forwarded from Canada to New York and the movement is expected to amount to $50,000,000, according to reports in the financial district. The shipments are for Government account and it is considered likely that commercial shipments will be made in addition as a result of the present weakness in Canadian exchange.
The discount of the Canadian dollar now is 1-2 of 1 per cent., following a swing in the trade balance in favor of the United States against Canada. The weakness in Canadian exchange has been emphasized also by the recent break in the stock market which necessitated the purchase of American funds by Canadian interests on whom sudden calls for margin were made by brokerage houses. The decline in Canadian exchange earlier in the year had resulted in the return here of a considerable portion of the gold sent to the Dominion purchases of Canadian products had placed the Canadian dollar at a premium.
Gold from the Ontario mines being refined by the Royal Mint at Ottawa and it is considered likely that the Dominion will be an important shipped of bullion from now on. The Government is expected to acquire a large amount of the gold being refined and use it for interest and other payments abroad.
