WEEK END QUIET AT OTTAWA

NORTH POLE EXPLORER WELCOMED

Los Angeles Honors Intrepid Pilot of the Norge.

ASKED SHARE FOR HIS DOG

Canine's Head Raised Proudly as the Crowd Cheered.

(Special to the Daily Mail by British United Press)

Los Angeles, Calif., July 5—Paths of flowers were made before Major General Umberto Nobile, North Pole explorer and pilot of the Norge as this city honored the Italian yesterday. But Nobile bowing graciously before the tribute seemed anxious that his dog Titinia too should receive a share. The shaggy dog's head was raised proudly as he walked through the cheering throngs with his master. "Titinia had been over the pole too."

HENRY FORD BUYS A NEW PRIVATE CAR

Detroit, July 5—Henry Ford's newest private car, costing $600,000, is considered the height of magnificence in railroad touring circles.

Previously, John Ringling's private car was considered the acme of affluence but the auto magnate's latest travelling acquisition makes it look cheap in comparison.

Ford's new car has a tiled floor, all kinds of shower baths, cooling system and every modern convenience, as well as a beautiful interior decorative scheme.

The Croesus of motor manufacturers was moved to acquire the car because of the great demand for that type in the country today. In certain parts of the country, especially in New York, it is often difficult to engage one from a railroad at short notice.

WHAT WILL MUTT AND JEFF DO ABOUT IT?

New York, July 3—Supreme Court Justice Ford yesterday awarded Mrs. A. Fisher, wife of Harry C. (Bud) Fisher, the cartoonist, alimony of $250 a week, and counsel fees of $10,000 pending her trial for a separation.

The action follows the sudden marriage of the cartoonist and the former Countess De Beaumont, on the Leviathan, last October. Mrs. Fisher charged that he had beaten her.

PENNY POSTAGE AND AUTOS UP TO CABINET

Ottawa, July 4—Postoffice officials state that penny postage could be put into effect by a regulation of that department. Whether or not it will remain to be seen. The excise tax on low-priced automobiles can be removed by Order-in-Council. It is doubtful however, if either of the changes above indicated will be made. No one tonight would say definitely as to prospects.

MEIGHEN WILL FORM STRONG GOVERNMENT

Best Men Available to be Chosen for the Ministry.

COMING WEEK TO BE BUSY ONE

Announcement of the New Cabinet May be Delayed.

(Special to The Daily Mail.)

Ottawa, July 5—The dissolution of Parliament and exodus of politicians on Friday and Saturday gave the Capital a quiet week end. Premier Meighen and his principal lieutenants are busy with their cabinet state, but it is scarcely likely that there will be any official announcements of the personnel of the new administration during the present week. The Premier will not exercise undue haste and it is believed to be his intention to select the best men available in the different provinces that he will get together a strong and aggressive combination there is not the slightest doubt.

It is said that some members of the Conservative Board of Strategy are anxious that the election be held on September 21st, which will be the fifteenth anniversary of the defeat of the Laurier administration on the issue of reciprocity. Adequate protection was the Conservative slogan on that occasion as it will be in the election now pending.

To Implement Legislation.

It has been announced that the new government will as far as possible implement by order-in-council legislation which went into the air when the House was suddenly dissolved. If this can be done it will mean that penny postage will stand.

The coming week is expected to be a busy one for party leaders here and a number of prominent Conservatives are expected to arrive from the different provinces to confer with the Premier.

WILL MR. KING RETIRE FROM PUBLIC LIFE?

(Financial Post.)

Events at Ottawa revive the rumors that Mr. King is likely to give up politics soon and enter academic pursuits. That he has been offered an associate professorship of political economy, with Taussig, at Harvard, is the story that is told.

The King leadership has not been thoroughly satisfying to the Liberals, and is not likely long to continue. They have found it hard to keep cool with King.

That many leaders of the Liberal party are ready to spend a few years in opposition at Ottawa, in fact, hope for that, is as true as it is outwardly anomalous. Canadian Liberalism has never solidified since the war. Its scattered fragments have not coalesced as they might have coalesced under another Laurier.

In opposition, Liberalism will find unity, many of its leaders believe. Progressives, radicals, Liberals by name and Liberals in idea may find a common meeting ground and will find it, given sane, stable leadership. A stronger Liberalism can be forged in the fires of defeat and fashioned on the hard anvil of opposition, they suggest.

TRYING TO OUST THOMAS AS SECRETARY OF THE RAILWAY MEN'S UNION

Important Meeting of Trades Unionists at Weymouth, England—President Dobbs Refers to Premier Baldwin as a Dangerous Hypocrite—Union Has Passed Through a Critical Year.

(Special to the Daily Mail by the British United Press)

WEYMOUTH, Eng., July 5—Representatives of the National Union of Railwaymen, one of the best organized trade unions in the world met here today in an annual meeting which may develop into the most important in the organizations history.

J. S. Thomas, secretary of the union, was to defend himself from attacks arising from the terms the railwaymen were compelled to accept at the conclusion of the recent general strike.

Six branches of the union, including the large Glasgow, Manchester and Paddington branches, have already demanded Thomas resignation, but Thomas is expected to come out of the battle retaining his job.

President Dobbs, in his annual address, described Premier Baldwin as a "dangerous hypocrite."

Since the last meeting Dobbs said "We have passed through the most critical year in the history of trade union movement. The general strike has come and gone and my prophecy of a year ago that the employers were preparing to attack the workers in general and the railwaymen in particular has been proved true."

NO SLUMP IN LUMBER IS ANTICIPATED

New York, July 5—The principal softwood mills appear to be in a much stronger position this year than they occupied at the corresponding date last year. Last year their cumulative sales had amounted to about 2 per cent more.

The favorite statistical showing from a mill standpoint is, however, in part the result of a slowing down in production, for prices have remained at a low and unprofitable level. Reduction in mill stocks resulting from an excess of shipments over production is accompanied by a reduction in retail yard stocks.

Retailers are in fact buying so close to their requirements that the lull in buying usually at this time of year is not expected to be pronounced as it ordinarily would be, says the American Lumberman, and many predict that stocking for fall trade will begin in the next few weeks.

BALLOON PANTS LAND YOUTH IN THE HOSPITAL

New York, July 5—It is dangerous at times to be "collegiate" in New York.

Isadore Tenenbaum, 18, walked his bell-bottomed trousers in a Brooklyn street.

A gang of boys took a deep interest in Isadore's sartorial make-up.

"Get hep to the balloon tires," shouted one.

Isadore walked over to the gang and demanded an apology.

When the fight was over Isadore was on the sidewalk with a stab wound.

The man who is always beefing generally needs a good roasting.

Philadelphia, July 5—Do you think American children should start their schooling at the age of 3?

If you think so, you are in accord with the National Education Association, holding its 64th convention here this week. More than 14,000 teachers from all parts of the country have approved a drive launched by the association to have pupils start the school curriculum at the age of 3.

Prof. Bird T. Baldwin, director of the Iowa Child Research Station of the University of Iowa, attending the convention, said the most important age of childhood is from birth to 5 years of age.

WIDE BRIMMED HATS ARE IN DEMAND AGAIN

Queen Mary Has Abandoned the Coal Bucket Type.

SMART PICTURE HATS POPULAR

Shop Keepers are Overwhelmed as Well as Overjoyed.

(Special to The Daily Mail by the British United Press.)

London, July 5—Queen Mary abandoned the coal bucket type of hat to which she had been faithful for years started a rush for wide brimmed hats when she appeared at the Ascot race meeting in a series of small picture hats. The shops are overwhelmed and overjoyed by the demand. Few of the recently fashionable small hats are seen among society women. But with the single style prevalent it is unlikely that the vogue will out last the summer season for while London weather is uncertain in the fall it can be depended upon.

POLICE WERE NOTIFIED

Proprietor of the Store Was Kept in a Rear Room.

(Special to the Daily Mail by British United Press)

Brooklyn, N. Y., July 5—Wrapping twenty cents worth of bologna in a newspaper cost Peter Curtis, amateur hold-up man his freedom. Curtis was half way through an efficient job of holding up McDonald's delicatessen store when a chance customer entered.

The bandit attempted to assume the role of clerk.

"Twenty cents worth of bologna" was the order.

Pete cut off a generous slice, but did not know where the brown paper was, so wrapped the bologna in a newspaper.

The puzzled customer looked back after crossing the street and saw Curtis busy at the till, keeping the proprietor in a rear room by waving a revolver.

The police arrived before the bandit had departed.

FEMALE VIEW OF DISSOLUTION

(Toronto Globe)

Ottawa, July 2—A cute pair of misses, all set for excitement, walked up the stone steps of the Parliament Buildings at 2 o'clock today. Inside the front doors they were confronted with the black card signs, "House adjourned."

"Won't there be any meeting today?" they asked of one of the white-helmeted officers.

"No, miss. Parliament is dissolved." "Dissolved! Was any one hurt?"
