WILL STEP HIGH, TWO INCH HEELS ARE COMING

Boston, July 10—Two-inch heels and pointed toes for men, with round toes and plainer effects for women, are some of the new styles shown at the New England Shoe and Leather Exposition and style show here.

Lizard skins will not be confined to the "lounge" type but will be generally worn by males, in the belief of some of the exhibitors. The higher and narrower shoes will complement the decidedly less wide trousers which other makers think will be the vogue.

There were diamond studded heels on painted silver slippers and gorgeous afternoon high boots with little pockets to hold perfume bottles and cigaret cases for milady, but in general, the experts said, women's shoes would be simpler and smarter.

BIG DIAMOND DISCOVERY IN THE TRANSVAAL

Rush to Stake Claims in the New El Dorado.

PRECIOUS STONES FOUND ON FARM

A Wood and Iron Township Springs Up on the Veld.

Johannesburg, July 10—A wave of excitement is passing over the Western Transvaal owing to the discovery of many diamonds on a farm at Elandsputte.

A wood and iron township has sprung up on the veld, and it now has a population of 5,000 whites, while hundreds more are still trekking to the spot, whole families carrying their household goods with them. Many are passing the frosty nights under sacking stretched across sheets of corrugated iron.

Some time ago the owner of the farm found a diamond near a cattle dip and engaged a geologist, who extracted 50 diamonds from a small hole. The owner offered his housekeeper a claim, and she obtained gems worth £100 from a very small hole.

Another digger realized £300 as a result of eight days' work.

The main street of the camp is three miles long. Water is being sold at 4d. for 60 gallons. The returns of the farm for the past two months are valued at more than £6,000.

When a diamondiferous area is discovered in South Africa, the Government declares the surrounding neighborhood a proclaimed area and fixes a day for the pegging out of claims.

MOTHERWELL DEFENDS KING GOVERNMENT

Winnipeg, July 9—Hon. W. R. Motherwell, Minister of Agriculture in the late Liberal government, fired the first gun of the Federal political campaign in Manitoba, in an address before the provincial Liberal executive and other prominent Liberals, here today.

Mr. Motherwell devoted his address to an extensive review of the action of the King government in connection with customs irregularities.

He charged that Hon. H. H. Stevens whose action in the House precipitated the customs probe, secured 90 per cent of his information from the King Government's special investigator and that Mr. Stevens had in some manner secured access to the Duncan report before that report reached the Minister of Customs.

Planned to Press Probe.

That the King Government had had every intention of pushing the customs probe to a tangible end as it had pushed the Atlantic and fruit combines probes; that Inspector Duncan, the special investigator, had been instructed to get sufficient material upon which to base prosecutions and that Mr. Bolvin had acted as quickly, under the circumstances, as one man could, were claims made by the former minister in the course of his speech.

The King government's actions in regard to other scandals were cited by the speaker as sufficient proof of the government's good intentions, while it was stressed that, anterior to the Duncan probe, the government had been acting in conjunction with the Merchants Protective Association in an effort to curb smuggling operations rumors of which had gained considerable currency.

(Special to the Daily Mail by the British United Press)

LANSING, KANSAS, July 10—Officials of the Kansas state prison were prepared today "To Starve Out" if necessary 273 convicts who had mutinied and were holding captive fourteen guards in the prison mine 27 feet below the ground. The prisoners mutinied yesterday noon and have since refused to surrender. The fate of the guards, who were armed only with clubs is unknown. The convicts revolt was in protest against an alleged shortage of sheets in the cell house.

When the mine cage containing dinner for the shaft crew, was lowered yesterday the convicts seized the cage thrust heavy timbers through and the hoist crew has been unable to break the timbers and lift the cage. Negotiations with the leaders of the mutiny to send a committee to the top to "Talk over" the difficulty, have failed. Officials said they viewed the mutiny as a "Bloodless revolt", against the sleeping conditions.

MUNICIPAL COUNCIL PUT CONSIDERATION OF HOSPITAL ACCOUNT OVER TO JANUARY

Dissatisfaction with the Hospital Financing and Bookkeeping—Education of Children in Municipal Home Also Discussed—Devon Valuation Before Council.

Dissatisfaction on the part of members of the Municipal Council of York County with the manner in which the finances of Victoria Hospital are managed took the form of a six months' hoist, Friday afternoon a motion that $4,400 be paid being amended to defer consideration until January. The council also devoted much time to considering the matter of the education of the children who are inmates of the Municipal Home at Douglass.

At present eight of them are attending the Nashwaaksis school at a tuition fee of five dollars per head. The proposal has been made that a school be established within the Home if the number of children gets much larger. The matter of the valuation of the Town of Devon for County Assessment also was before the council but no action was taken. Coun. Williams of Devon moved a resolution to refer the matter back to the Board of Valuers but the motion was neither seconded nor carried.

Coun. Hinchey Again.

When the Council reassembled Friday afternoon Coun. Hinchey asked for information concerning the expenditure of money on the education of children who were inmates of the Municipal Home.

The County Solicitor, Hon. C. D. Richards, replied that ordinary expenditures for maintenance were under the Municipal Home Commission and capital expenditure under the control of the Council.

Coun. Seymour chairman of the commission had the right to incur the expenditure connected with sending the children to school.

Coun. Hinchey said that the Commission had too great authority.

Coun. Whipple said that it should be remembered in discussion this matter that the Council had the final passing of accounts in its control.

Special Provision.

Coun. Douglass said that the time would come when special provision for the schooling of the children at the Municipal Home must be made. It was his opinion that there would have to be a teacher and accommodation within the Home itself.

Coun. Hinchey said that he would support that suggestion.

Coun. Grant expressed the opinion that the children should go to the Protestant Orphanage and Coun. McMullen agreed with that opinion.

Coun. Whipple said that to send them to the Orphanage would be an admission of incompetence on the part of the municipality.

Coun. Douglass said that there existed peculiar difficulty in having children admitted to the Protestant Orphanage as the parents had to surrender all control and waive all rights.

Tuition Fee Approved.

Coun. Manuel said that he would favor paying a tuition fee to the Nashwaaksis School District but if the number of children became large he would advocate establishing a school within the Home.

Coun. Hinchey said that granting money to the School District was all right but there should be no assessing of the Municipal Home property for school purposes.

Coun. Seymour said that the Commission had been paying five dollars per head for tuition of the children to the Nashwaaksis School District.

On motion this action on the part of the Commission was approved by the Council.

Grant to Hospital.

The Council then considered the application of the Trustee Board of Victoria Hospital for payment of $1,400 the difference between the $3,000 paid for free and part paid patients and the actual cost of maintenance.

Coun. Clarkson, representative of the Council on the Hospital Trustee Board, moved that the sum of $1,400 be paid. Coun. C. W. Pond seconded the motion.

Coun. Grant offered objection to the payment. A free gift of $500 had been given the Hospital. It was "a lot of gall" to ask for this amount. In one year the cost of maintaining the patients had not equalled the sum granted.

Coun. Clarkson replied that if

APPEAL COURT DENIES SILENCE GIVES CONSENT

London, July 10—The old maxim that "silence gives consent" is not accepted by English law, under a recent ruling of the court of criminal appeal.

A prisoner, accused of receiving stolen goods, had remained silent when asked whether guilty or not guilty and his silence was taken as a plea of guilty. He was sentenced by the lower courts to five years of penal servitude. But the court of appeals ruled that the silence was not adequate evidence of a plea of guilty by the prisoner and discharged the convicted man.
