FIVE MILLION COAL MINERS AWAIT ORDERS TO GO OUT ON STRIKE ON SATURDAY MAY 1ST.

London, April 25—While 5,000,000 Englishmen await possible orders for a nationwide strike beginning next Saturday, interest throughout the country centres on Premier Baldwin's meeting with the operators and coal miners Monday afternoon—the last scheduled attempt to conciliate the two warring factions.

Sensational reports that Baldwin in the event of failure at the final conference, intends to take the question of nationalization of the mines to the English people, in a general election, are confirmed to a certain extent by utterances of men close to the government.

Despite constant efforts on the part of the premier since last week, there appears to be no basis for a possible solution of the differences between coal miners and operators.

Would be Disastrous.

The coal strike will be the most disastrous event that could befall England in a domestic way right now," the premier said Sunday.

"It would result in increasing the depression in industry, and would affect adversely all proposals of trade revival."

Following the meeting between Premier Baldwin and the miners and the operators Monday, miners will go into session Wednesday, provided there is no solution offered up to that time.

Strike to be Planned.

Special delegates from mining groups will then plan for the strike, if it is called, Thursday there will be a meeting of the executives of all affiliated unions represented in the general council of the Trade Union Congress. Announcement would be made after this meeting of the support which the workmen represented by this group will give the striking coal miners. Hope is still held here that Baldwin will settle the strike problem, but in the event he does not, many persons think he will turn as a last resort to the continuance of the coal subsidy, perhaps under another name, until a permanent settlement can be arranged.

NAVIGATION IS OPEN ON THE ST. LAWRENCE

Quebec, April 25—Ice conditions on the St. Lawrence River and in the Gulf having improved in the last few days, two passenger liners docked in Quebec this morning, three in the afternoon and one tonight, making six in all.

The first to arrive was the Aurania which docked at 6 o'clock and thus carries off the honor of being the first arrival at the ancient capital from across the Atlantic this season. It is still unlikely that any of the five passenger ships, which were scheduled to make their western terminus at Montreal, will go further up the river on account of its being still choked with ice above Sorel.

Closely following the Aurania was the Montclair. Third in line was the Letitia, while she was followed by the Montrose and the Ansonia, which came in at 5.10 p. m.

The Doric, which was on Saturday reported in the van, was held up and did not get in until after 9 o'clock tonight.

Montreal Harbor Clear.

Montreal, April 25—Almost overnight the Montreal harbor cleared of ice, as a result of the recent warm weather and the heavy rain today and Saturday. The main basin is completely clear with the exception of isolated floes and it has begun to take on an appearance of summertime.

LONDON TO GO VESTLESS THIS YEAR

London, April 26—The custom of American men in shedding their waistcoats during hot weather is to be tried here this summer even by the most conservative of dressers.

For years it has been the usual thing for an Englishman, at home, to be shocked when an American appeared without his waistcoat, but now at last the Londoner has been converted.

The London tailor has brought about the change through introduction of the double-breasted jacket. The Englishman has now become convinced that, after all, the double-breasted coat suits men of almost every build, and that is particularly comfortable in warm weather when a waistcoat may be discharged without impairing the general smart appearance line of a suit.

Died in Montreal.

St. John Globe: Word was received at noon today by Sir Douglas Hazen of the death in Montreal this morning of Miss Fannie Gertrude Burnside, daughter of the late William and Delia F. Burnside and granddaughter of the late Hon. John A. Beckwith. Miss Burnside was a trained nurse connected with the Waltham Hospital, but of late years she spent most of her time in Saint John and Rothesay. She enjoyed the esteem and affection of a large circle of friends who will hear of her death with feeling of deep regret.

BOOTLEGGERS HAVE THEIR SUCKER LISTS

San Francisco, April 26—Bootleggers buy and sell sucker lists much the way legitimate businesses deal in mailing lists, prohibition enforcement officials here have discovered. A "Bootleggers' Blue Book" and "Who's Who in the Rum Trade" exist, it was found.

Enterprising retailers have built up long and valuable lists and to obtain these new operators must pay a nice figure for them. Evidence was found that some bootleggers, arrested and convicted, sell their lists which they formerly kept secret in an effort to salvage as much out of their blasted business as possible.

A carefully arranged scale of charges has been worked out, depending upon the income of each customer. Wealthy persons are forced to pay more for the same hooch than do poorer customers.

SHE CONCEDED THE RIGHT TO SMOKE IN BED

New York, April 26—The right of a husband to smoke in bed was defended yesterday by Magistrate George Folwell in Brooklyn. The husband, Peter Walsh, was arraigned on complaint of his wife, who agreed, however, to reconciliation on eight conditions. She forbade him to drink, to interfere when she was correcting the children, to bring home intoxicated pals. She required a full pay envelope, home repairs, personal tidiness, respect and, lastly, no smoking in bed.

When Magistrate Folwell said that even the best of husband smoke in bed, Mrs. Walsh relented. Walsh agreed to all the other stipulations.

ODD WATER SUPPLY BARED IN NEW YORK

New York, April 26—The days of old New York when responsibility for the city's water supply rested more on the shoulders of the weather man than on those of the city fathers have been recalled in connection with demolition of the old Astor House at Broadway and Barclay street.

Workmen taking down the famous old structure came across two cement cisterns of 40,000-gallon capacity each. It was found that they were so placed to catch and conserve all the rain that fell on the building, in that manner assuring water to guests except in time of drought.

CHECK SENT ON WIRELESS PHOTOGRAPH

London, April 26—For the first time in the history of a banking check has been transmitted photographically across the ocean by wireless and will be duly honored if there are no legal impediments. The check was written by General J. G. Harbord in the sum of $1000 drawn on the Bankers' Trust Company in favor of the Radio Corporation of America of which General Harbord is president. It was transmitted from Marconi headquarters here this afternoon by the system invented by Captain Richard H. Ranger.

American Ambassador Houghton attended the demonstration of the apparatus and sent the first message addressed to the Rev. Samuel Smith Drury, rector of his old school, St. Paul's at Concord, N. H. The message read: "This is the first message reproduced by wireless across the Atlantic. I sent it to you with best wishes."

Owen D. Young sent the reproduction of part of an autographed manuscript of Robert Browning to St. Lawrence University, Canton, N. Y. for its library. Then General Harbord and Mr. Young sent joint greetings to Vice President Dawes. Reception in the United States was confirmed within 20 minutes by regular Morse signals.

THE SMALL-TOWN GAL.

(From Excelsior Springs (Mo.) Standard.)

A sweetheart in the city may be powerful nice to know, but love ain't very lastin' when you've got too far to go. It's right to figger distance when a feller needs a pal—and, the nearest, dearest, sweetest is—the small-town gal You'll mebbe find her clerkin' where the bargains wait for all—or it may be she's the "central," where she plugs the hurry call; we sometimes find her shoppin' after spareribs or percale—but she's allers doin' somethin', is the small-town gal! I don't know how to say it, but the way she bobs her hair would gather in fast money at the Clinton County Fair! She might be Esmerelda—Mary Jane or ever Sal—I don't keer what you call her—she's the small-town gal!

Interesting Service.

The C. G. I. T. took an important part in the evening service at the Brunswick street Baptist Church last evening. Miss Eleanor Morton, president of the intermediate branch, occupied the pulpit, and was supported by Miss Velma Estabrook and Miss Mary Harris. The members of the two branches of the C. G. I. T. to the number of fifty appropriately costumed occupied the front seats of the middle row. A most interesting feature of the service was an address by Miss Estabrook, who explained in a lucid manner the object and aims of the organization. Rev. Alex. Gibson, who is engaged in field work for the Maritime Baptist Convention also delivered an address.

Dr. A. P. Crockett and wife returned on Saturday from California where they spent the winter.

Mr. and Mrs. F. B. Edgecombe have returned from a trip to California.

Sir Douglas Hazen is here today attending the funeral of the late Miss Burnside.

WANTS SOB STUFF CUT OUT

London, April 25—The 4 day-old daughter of the Duke and Duchess of York was a leading topic of the English newspapers until Friday when it suddenly dropped to a minor position in the news.

The mystery of the sudden change was solved when it was revealed today that secretary at Buckingham Palace had telephoned all London editors, laconically stating:

"King George would appreciate less 'sob stuff' in print regarding the new royal baby."

* SPECIAL ATTRACTION *
* AT GAIETY THEATRE *

"Dancing Mothers" is the photo play at the Gaiety for Monday and Tuesday featuring a star cast.

The plot, which gives evidence of careful directing, runs along evenly throughout the story, unfolding a drama of human interest that is full of good action and hilarious fun.

Clara Bow takes the part of the irrepressible modern woman and handles the role understandingly. She hopes, laughs and cries with great gusto, and provides enough humor to offset any morbid tendencies arising from the melo-dramatic situations which keep Conway Tearle in trouble. He does excellent work in portraying the bored charmer, and Alice Joyce, the conventional "lonesome mama" is beautiful as well as clever in showing her husband why she shouldn't be neglected. There is a good supporting cast.
