PREMIER MEIGHEN WARMLY WELCOMED IN NOVA SCOTIA; SPOKE AT DIGBY AND BRIDGEWATER

Bridge water, N. S., July 25—Over highways and byways, Premier Meighen yesterday carried his campaign along the southern shore of Nova Scotia. He crossed from Saint John to Digby by boat, motored from Digby to Liverpool, motored thence to Bridgewater, Chester and Halifax on his way to Sydney, where, on Monday, he is expected to give special attention to the coal and steel industries.

He spoke briefly in Digby and held a couple of meetings in Queens-Lunenburg, the constituency represented in the last Parliament by William Duff, Deputy Speaker of the House.

Caustic Over Duff.

For Mr. Duff, the Prime Minister had caustic reference. "I know of no virtues of your present member," Mr.
Meighen said, "which entitle him to any special consideration at the hands of the people of Lunenburg. A Liberal Government will be pretty black, will be convicted not once, twice, thrice or a hundred times, before it will ever be deserted because of its blackness by William Duff. I think the people, not only of Nova Scotia, but of the Dominion, will watch Lunenburg in this election."

Bogus Question.

Mr. Meighen did not make special reference to the keynote speech of Rt.
Hon. Mackenzie King. But of the constitutional issue, arising from the refusal of the Governor-General to grant dissolution to Mr. King, the Prime Minister warmly exclaimed: "It is a bogus question. It is fiction. It is worse—but the word I was about to use should not be used before any audience. It is nonsense. It is humbug."

The prime minister pressed his policy for public assistance in the shipment of basic Maritime products to the central provinces; and carried it further. He declared that the intention of his government was to commence with the big basic products; and the outstanding basic product was coal. He was prepared to ask the whole Dominion to assist the shipment of Maritime coal to the markets of central Canada.

Subsidized Rates.

"We should leave to the Railway Commission," explained Mr. Meighen, "the duty of specifying the rate in regard to each commodity. But after the commission has done that, then the Dominion of Canada should bear a share of the rates on basic products from the Maritimes on the one hand and from the far west, on the other, to the central provinces' markets."

Mr. Mackenzie King had denounced that policy in Ontario and Quebec.
"Let him come here and say if it is unfair to Ontario and Quebec. If he will not say that, don't take from him the answer that he has got a Maritime commission to find out. When a better proposal than ours comes from any source, I am willing to yield to it. But I am not willing to yield to any man who has not at least some proposal as an alternative."

"What we advocate in opposition, we stand ready, in office, to put into practice."

Use of Canadian Ports.

"We must reach the objective of carrying the freight of Canada, not only of imports, but also of export trade, from the ports of our own country. We must not only reach that objective, but must make any sacrifice to get to it, save this: that we must not sacrifice the trade itself. We cannot go to the extent of losing the market, but short of that any party ought to be able to go and, in my judgment, in justice to this province, any party is bound to go."

Mr. Meighen asserted that the "blighting hand of the fickle fiscal policy" of the King Government had discriminated against Cape Breton "and brought one of the great basic industries of this province to the very precipice of ruin." He charged that the King Government had administered the customs law merely with the object of gratifying the cupidty and graft of its friends. He admitted that dishonesty in public administration could not be absolutely stopped. Under Conservative administration there would no some dishonesty, but dishonesty would not be permitted to eat into the vitals of the country. "Whenever it appears," added Mr. Meighen, "its head will be cut off."

Mr. Doucet Speaks.

On the customs probe also, A. J.
Doucet went into the entertaining cruise of the steamer Margaret. Mr.
Doucet was a Conservative member of the customs inquiry committee. At various meetings since Mr. Meighen opened his campaign, Mr. Doucet has been giving some hitherto unpublished sidelights of the probe. He has asserted that in 1923, the customs productive steamer Margaret was taken from her patrol on Northumberland Straits for a six weeks' cruise on the St. Lawrence with 20 cases of whisky, on board, 200 dozen bottles of beer, and an orchestra.

Mr. Doucet said that he had mentioned Hon. Ernest Lapointe as having been on the Margaret during a portion of her cruise.

Denial Accepted.

"My leader has received a telegram from the former minister of justice," said Mr. Doucet, "denying that he was ever on board that vessel. And as we do in the House of Commons, and as I know Mr. Lapointe, I accept his denial. But I want to say that the logbook of the Margaret shows that she stopped at the wharf at Quebec and took Mr. Lapointe and party. That Mr. Lapointe might not be the former minister of justice I am willing to concede."

Unfit For Her to See.

Mr. Doucet referred to Miss Agnes MacPhail. He spoke of a statement attributed to Miss MacPhail that she had not seen anything of the Duncan report which had not been printed.
"She did not see it," said Mr. Doucet, "because it was not fit for a woman to see. And she knows it. During that investigation, Inspector Duncan laid before the committee a partial report.
He also had other information, documents and exhibits upon which he had not reported. The sub-committee of the committee decided not to inquire into nor print that portion of Duncan's evidence because—I will be frank with this meeting—it was not fit to be printed."

Barred by Woodsworth.

Mr. Doucet went on to say that J.
S. Woodsworth, former Labor member for Centre Winnipeg and Miss Mac-Phail had gone over to the finance department together to see the Duncan exhibits. But Mr. Woodsworth would not let Miss MacPhail read them.

"I think he had a chance of perusing them himself," Mr. Doucet said, "and afterwards he said to Miss MacPhail:
'You cannot read them.' She never read them because Mr. Woodsworth would not let her read them. It is known to every member of the committee, it is known to every member of the government, that what was not produced by Duncan was better left out."

The Premier at Digby.

Digby, N. S., July 25—Welcomed to Nova Scotia by Premier Rhodes and a large crowd of spectators, Premier Meighen arrived here Saturday morning from Saint John, N. B., and left shortly afterwards for Liverpool, by automobile.

Rt. Hon. Mr. Meighen declared in a brief speech that in the last parliament, Mr. Mackenzie King had been prepared to pay almost any price for Progressive support. The way in which Mr. Mackenzie King had clung to office, said Mr. Meighen had been described as "like a lobster with lockjaw." Mr. Meighen spoke of the Customs problem. The probe had shown, Mr. Meighen said, that the most vital of government departments the customs department, had fallen into degeneration. The King government had been condemned by its own friends of the most colossal frauds on the treasury of the country. "Is the King government now to be exonerated by the people?" asked Mr. Meighen.
"That is the great question before electors."

GERMAN NURSES USED AS SPIES, DECLARE FRENCH

Paris, July 24—How, despite the pledges of international friendship at Locarno the German army is alleged not to have abandoned its pre war system of espionage and buying information from French officers by using army nurses as attractive bait for traitors was revealed this week by an investigation carried on with the greatest secrecy by Paris magistrates. The traitor in this case is alleged to be a former captain of the French army, Charles David, who being in serious financial difficulties after the armistice indulged in several swindles. He succeeded in escaping from prison to Dusseldorf.

The French police promptly asked for his extradition but found every attempt to reclaim the prisoner blocked. As the German government had shown no objection to other extraditions this unusual interest in David's welfare aroused suspicions of the Surete Generale.
It was soon discovered that David had become attentive to a member of the German nursing order of deaconesses who was acting as an intermediary of her government.
She had persuaded the ex captain to deliver important French army secrets in return for his own security.

$2.50 WILL BUY IMMORTALITY IN A THEATRE

London, July 24—Anybody with $2.50 to spare may go down to posterity with Shakespeare. The Poetry Society has organized a series of open competitions to aid the rebuilding and endowment fund of a Shakespeare Memorial Theater in Stratford-on-Avon, and has invited poets of all countries to enter sonnets and quatrains on the Shakespearian model—the subject being Shakespeare. Gold and silver medals and certificates will be awarded the best poems which may be submitted in any language including Japanese or Hindustani.

Each competitor will be expected to inclose with his contribution not less than 10 shillings for the Shakespeare Memorial Fund. It is promised that the four best lines from any poems submitted will be engraved on a tablet with the name of the author, which will then be built in the wall of the new Shakespeare theater.

"Wet Paint" Raymond Griffith's one the star's work here compares very favorably with some of Chap-Helene Costello who had been trying to do something serious in pic-made such a meteoric rise to stardom is a revelation here. In fact she gives promise of following right in Dolores's footsteps and that, on
