Denounces Sex Literature, Bigotry and "Filth Now Smearing Our Stage"—Laments Moral Growth of America Does Not Keep Pace With Material Development—Should Be a Fair American Chance for Every Man.

(Special to the Daily Mail by the British United Press)

NEW YORK, Dec. 23—Sex literature, bigotry and "the filth now smearing our stage" were denounced by Cardinal Hayes in a talk yesterday before the New York Electrical League. "Let us rededicate ourselves to what is eternal in our constitution, justice, charity, reverence to God, recognition of the rights of our fellow man a fair American chance for every man" he said.

DEMAND FOR TURKEYS KEEN OVER NORTH

Bathurst, Dec. 22—Local merchants report that business has taken a considerable jump during the past couple of days and say that Christmas trade up to the present time compares favorably with that of last year. With yesterday pay-day in the pulp mill a great difference was noticed in trade. The stores are open evenings and all establishments have added to their staffs to meet the usual last minute Christmas rush.

With a great demand for turkeys coming from Fredericton, Moncton and Saint John the price of the birds has jumped to 55 cents and it is feared that the local requirements will not be satisfied unless a great number are brought into town within the next two days.

THE FIRST BIG FAIR WAS HELD HERE IN 1852

C. S. Brannen Produces a Newspaper Advertisement of Exhibition Held in October, 1852.

The impression seems to prevail among the directors of the Fredericton Exhibition Limited, that the first exhibition held in this city was in the year 1855, but this is undoubtedly erroneous. Mr. John A. Campbell, the honorary president of the Fredericton Exhibition Limited, declares that this city's first exhibition was held in 1852, and in this he is absolutely correct. Mr. Campbell, if he lives until February next, will be ninety years of age. At the time of the first exhibition here he was a boy of fifteen and being blessed with a good memory he recalls having been present during the show. Mr. Campbell's recollection of the date is supported by Mr. James Gray, another veteran resident of Kingsclear, who not only attended the first show ever held here but was an exhibitor of live stock, and won a diploma on the same which he still has in his possession. It was issued in the month of October, 1852.

Mr. Brannen Has Proof.

Another old resident who stoutly maintains that Fredericton's first exhibition was held in 1852 is Mr. G. Sterling Brannen of this city, a former official of the provincial government who will be ninety years of age in May next. Mr. Brannen has in his possession a copy of an advertisement clipped from a newspaper of that time, which features a picture of the exhibition building, and sets forth that the exhibition was provincial in character and opened on October 5th, 1852. There can be no disputing evidence of this kind, and it seems strange that the records in possession of the Fredericton Exhibition should show that the first show was held here in 1855. Mr. Brannen was a boy of fifteen when the exhibition was held in 1852 and has a distinct recollection of it. He says that a temporary building was erected on Parliament Square facing the river, and the engraving in the newspaper clipping shows it to have been quite a classy affair. Mr. Brannen says that the show was a good one and considering that the mode of travel in those days was not like it is today, attracted a large crowd of people.

SPUDS ARE HIGHER IN AROOSTOOK

Bangor, Me., Dec. 22—Although the Christmas business of Aroostook has shaded the potato market and but few sales have been made this week, the last crop report, showing previous reports, has tended to strengthen the market to a firm figure of $3.25 a barrel which experts believe will hold or grow better for some time, after a drop to $3. Shipments continue around 125 carloads a day which is below the normal movement.

GLOOMY DEAN MADE TO LAUGH

London, Dec. 23—At least the wife of Dean Inge, the "Gloomy Dean", can get a laugh out of him. The lady recently told a story that made him laugh aloud.

A doctor, according to the story, left his patient on his death bed and ordered the man's wife to take his temperature every hour. In the morning he found the bed empty and questioned the wife.

"Yes," she said, "We didn't have no thermometer. So I gave him the barometer. That pointed to 'very dry'. So I gave him two pints of ale and now he's gone to work."

Urges Gangsters to Tell Whereabouts of His Brother's Body

Chicago Livestock Broker Makes Novel Plea to Thugs Whom He Suspects of Having Made Away With His Brother—Missing Man Had Lived in Fear Since He Gave Up Bootlegging

(Special to the Daily Mail by the British United Press)

CHICAGO, Ill., Dec. 23—John L. Clements, a livestock broker, has made a plea to the gangsters of Chicago that he be given information as to the whereabouts of his brother's body, as a Christmas present.

"I am sure my brother, Hilary, is dead, and taken for a ride" Clements said, but we haven't any idea where his body is and the suspense is killing mother and Hilary's wife. If there are any good sports in the gang that took him for a ride, I wish they'd speak up."

According to the livestock broker, his brother gave up dealing in illegal liquor last summer, and had been in constant fear of his life since that time. Hilary disappeared on December 16th.

SERIOUS FLOOD REPORTED IN THE OHIO VALLEY

Louisville, Ky., Dec. 22—Freshets, caused by unseasonable heavy rains, spread death and destruction in four states, made several hundred persons homeless, marooned tourists and threatened to cause flood conditions in the Ohio Valley by Christmas.

One life lost today was added to the previous toll of five when a bridge worker died from injuries caused when the falsework of a new bridge at Catlettsburg, Ky., collapsed under pressure of high waters. Two other workers were seriously hurt and five were missing.

Three children were drowned in Arkansas and two men in Kentucky yesterday.

Tug River, on the boundary between Kentucky and West Virginia, overflowed its banks at Williamson, W. Va., making 300 homeless and damaging buildings and industrial plants.

Tourists Marooned.

Southbound tourists were marooned in southeastern Kentucky, where the Dixie highway was reported as being under water, between Pineville and Corbin. One hundred persons were homeless in Pineville and twenty-five families were driven out of their homes at Harlem. Trains were stalled on several lines in the mountains when bridges washed out and landslides covered the railway tracks in several places.

W. C. Devereaux, weather forecaster at Cincinnati, issued a warning today in which he said inhabitants of the Ohio Valley probably will witness a Christmas flood. Rising rapidly, the Ohio has passed the 25-foot mark at Cincinnati today. Flood stage there is 51 feet.

MARRIED MAN HAS CHAMPION IN MISS TAYLOR

New York, Dec. 23—The poor old married man has a defender at last. For Laurette Taylor, dramatic actress not only extols him, but says that "the real hero today is the American husband, who uncomplainingly bears his lot." In addition to praising the husband, she takes the women to task for not appreciating the man.

"I think some day we should erect a monument to the unsung American husband," she said. "I think that 'Pa America' is one of the most brilliant men in our midst. We women don't think these men of ours are big, because sometimes we are not big enough to admit it."

BABY PRINCESS WILL HAVE TO STAY HOME

London, Dec. 23—There has been much speculation, since the announcement that the Duke and Duchess of York were to go to Australia, concerning the care of the couple's infant daughter, the Princess Elizabeth. Everybody wanted to know where the infant would stay and it was assumed the royal grandparents, the King and Queen, would have charge of the child. But it has developed that the duchess' mother, Lady Strathmore, is to have the baby princess.

But the duchess is not the only one to be concerned about the child. For the two ladies-in-waiting, Lady Cavan and Lady Doris Vyner, each leaves small children behind, when they accompany the duchess on the tour. Lady Cavan's daughter, whose name is also Elizabeth, is two years old, while Lady Doris has a son, born this year, as well as a daughter.
