THE LEAFY MONTH

Outdoors in June—beautiful and sweet, clean and wholesome. To those who would find things much as God created them, June is calling. One does not have to travel far to find winding paths through pleasant places. They are within easy reach of all who would escape the sordid, distorted, unshapely, suffocating reactions to life. There is melody in the outdoors for all who wish to escape for a day, or an hour or two of each day, the clatter and clang, the grinding and rasping distractions of the town.

Seneca has said: "He who lives after nature shall never be poor." A modern philosopher expects the human race to change greatly in sixty years. He believes "our grandchildren will make nature their teacher, rather than theology and philosophy."

Nature cannot teach much to minds not trained to understanding. Children coming in contact with the wonders of outdoors on a beautiful summer day, are thrilled to bubbling over, but they can't tell why. They express themselves in shouts and screams. It is their only way. To restrain them would offend the spirit that inspires them. Some day they will find that a poet has written the song that sang in their young hearts.

But outdoors is not for children only. It is for anyone who would think clearly and clearly. For him "summer's rosy wreaths are twined," and green fields are waiting.

THE ALBERTA ELECTION

Voting in the provincial election in Alberta is taking place today. The Farmer government led by Premier Brownlee is appealing for a renewal of public confidence and is meeting with strong opposition from the two old parties. In the cities proportional representation is being tried for the first time while in the rural constituencies the single transferable vote has been adopted.

The Conservatives have the largest array of candidates in the field, and stand to greatly improve their position. Hon. R. B. Bennett, M. P. has been actively campaigning in their behalf. Capt. J. F. Shaw, late Federal member for Calgary, is leading the Liberal forces. The result in Alberta will be anxiously awaited by the members of the House of Commons, as it will be apt to have a bearing on the crucial situation which has developed there.

The Halifax Chronicle announces that Mr. Frank J. D. Barnjum of pulpwood fame has informed Premier Rhodes of his intention to resign his seat in the Nova Scotia Legislature. It seems that Mr. Barnjum at the last election when seeking the suffrages of the people of Queens promised to erect a 200 ton paper mill on the Mersey River. He has found himself unable to keep his promise and hence will quit public life. Of late Mr. Barnjum has not been as keen at writing letters to the newspapers as was formerly the case.

Most of us frequently boast of the number of hours we work each day. A man who puts in 14 hours a day at the office, even part of the time, generally boasts of it and wears the air of a martyr. The emphasis on the hours is all wrong. Some men do more in four hours than others do in fourteen.

The question is what are you able to build with your blocks—not how long do you play with them.

A visitor in the Adirondacks, sitting on the front porch after supper, told the story of following a bear's tracks all the afternoon.

"Why did you give up and come back?" asked the listener.

"Well," said the mighty hunter, "to tell the truth, the tracks were getting too fresh."

Most of us are afraid of going into things too far. We are afraid of finding out the truth.

It is pretty difficult to find a precedent for the condition of affairs which has developed at Ottawa during the past few days. The bolting of five Progressives on the Customs report seems to have left the government in a minority. The House will further consider the Customs report this afternoon and should it adopt the Stevens amendment a general election will be the logical outcome.

Miss Agnes MacPhail, the only lady member of the Federal Parliament, went to Montreal on Saturday to take passage for Europe, but at the last moment cancelled her trip and returned to Ottawa. It rather looks as if Miss MacPhail held the balance of power in the crucial situation which developed at Ottawa. She was paired on the Woodworth amendment and did not vote.

In view of the political crisis at Ottawa the government deemed it wise to fill the two vacancies on the Civil Service Commission caused by the resignations of Messrs Jameson and LaRochelle. Mr. Newton McTavish of Toronto, editor of the Canadian Magazine and Mr. J. E. Tremblay of Ottawa, private secretary to Hon. Earnest Lapointe, have been appointed.

Dr. W. L. McDougald, of Montreal, chairman of the Harbor Commission has been called to the senate in succession to the late Senator Mitchell. Two vacancies still exist in the Upper House, one caused by the death of the late Senator Lougheed of Calgary and the other by the death of the late Senator Roche of Halifax.

Parliament by a majority of two on Saturday morning refused to confirm a ruling of Speaker Lemieux. It is said to be the first time since Confederation that such a thing has happened. Parliament is certainly making history these days.

It would be rather strange, wouldn't it, if that Holland girl, seven feet, eleven inches tall, weighing 350 pounds and her fiancé, eight feet and proportionate weight, went in for light house-keeping?

Spain says she won't stand for any classification in the League of Nations that makes her a second class nation. Spain may know it herself, but she doesn't want any other nation to suggest it knows it too.

Professor in an Oregon agricultural college says the life of poultry can be lengthened appreciably. In the event it is accomplished, what then will be the culinary inferior of a stewing chicken?

The young married couple can be considered more or less settled as soon as they no longer feel under any compulsion to keep the useless wedding gift on display in case Aunt Effie calls.

THROUGH OUR SIEVE

Some men fail at everything except criticism.

Add questions that remain unanswered: "Why should the spirit of mortal be proud?"

"This," remarked the Man on the Car, "is my prayer: 'Lord, keep me humble, and let those who like it do the strutting.'"

New York is to have a curfew law. Everybody will have to empty the ginger ale out of the bath-tub and go to bed when the milkman arrives.

It often happens that the fellow who feels certain that he knows everything doesn't know much of anything.

When the person you're talking to is anxious to say something what you say goes in one ear and out the other.

Whoever started the custom of getting married in June certainly knew his stuff. It is still a great fad.

Add thrills for automobile drivers: Act like a gentleman, give the other fellow a chance and see how surprised he is.

"Trees in thick woods grow taller in their efforts to get sunlight." Men are like that, forever trying to get their heads above the crowd.

Our wife may be our best critic but our kind employer is the most influential—Bob Ryder, Ohio State Journal.

We've gotta tolerate kind employers, even when their judgment is little better than poor.

Believes in Preparedness.
A down-town young lady who is very popular with the young men, and who at the present time has two paying her marked attention, when jollied about the matter remarked that she always believes in "carrying a spare."

SPECIAL ATTRACTION AT GAIETY THEATRE

"The Devil's Circus" is the photo play at the Gaiety for Monday and Tuesday.

It is, as may be surmised, a story of circus life, simply but effectively told, with comedy alternating with comedy and melodramatic situations. The Danish director, Christlanson, made the production and Norma Shearer is starred in it. Charles Emmett Mack, Claire McDowell, Carmel Myers and Joyce Coad, a child of unquestionable talent, and the trick of Buddy are also actively engaged in telling the tale.

PERSONAL MENTION

Miss Dorothy Turner, daughter of Mrs. A. K. Turner of this city, arrived home for the holidays, from St. Andrews, where she has been teaching school.

Miss Helen Scott B. A. daughter of Major and Mrs. J. S. Scott of this city is home for her vacation. Miss Scott has been teaching in Milltown, N. B.

A motoring party from St. John consisting of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Golding, Mr. and Mrs. McAvity and Mr. and Mrs. Akerley are registered at the Queen.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Judge of St. John are spending a few days with Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Judge, Regent Street. Mrs. Edmund Berth and child are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Judge Regent St.
