Detroit churches says the News of that city, to the number of seventy-five are planning an unusual kind of revival the week of February 1-5. In place of big meetings in the churches with noted evangelists doing the preaching and augmented choirs singing the old Gospel songs, several thousand picked men of the churches are to visit men who are not connected with any church, and in a quiet and friendly way seek to win them for the Christian life. This, of course is not a new method, but it is one that has been neglected sorely. It was this method that made the church powerful in its humble beginnings and the most effective that can be used by institution of movement, to wit: the enlistment of individuals by individuals.

There is a great deal of religion in the right kind of visiting. There are many lonely people in the big cities who must often wonder if the churches have any place for them or are interested in what becomes of them. The Founder of Christianity was himself a friendly visitor into the homes of the people, all kinds of people, and in a famous passage of Scripture. He gave as a basis of judgment upon those who professed to follow Him, "I was sick and ye visited me" and "I was sick and ye visited me not."

Best of all the purpose of this evangelistic visitation movement is to perpetuate the method.

We all have a weakness for accepting reasons for things if the reasons appeal to our imagination. They may not be reasonable reasons at all but we choose them because they are interesting if not logical. For instance, it is often said that prohibition has increased enormously the sale of candy. Lots of people believe it. Comes now Ben Lindberg, of the Western Confectioners' Salesmen's association, making a speech in Chicago, and pooch-poochs the idea. He says the great growth of the candy business is mainly due to a tensive advertising campaign.

James A. Patten, Chicago grain operator, some time ago gave $1,500,000 for charitable and educational purposes. He "wants to see it in use while he is living." That is a reasonable desire. The liberal man is fairly entitled to the joy of seeing his money make a better world. And to watch your own money contribute to the making of a better world is the greatest joy one can experience. Most rich men go through life without ever climbing the heights of pleasure. The consciousness of service is life's greatest joy.

The New Brunswick Farmers and Dairywomen's Convention which closed yesterday was undoubtedly the most largely attended and successful held in many years. A splendid program was carried out and keen interest in the proceedings was maintained throughout. It is beginning to look as if the agricultural industry in New Brunswick was on the threshold of far greater prosperity than it has enjoyed for several years past and when the farmers are prosperous there are good times all around.

It may not be long before we hear Mussolini has issued an edict warning Vesuvius that in future if there's any erupting to be done in Italy he'll do it himself.

A London resident proposed a law requiring everyone to sing. This is believed to be a counter move against the dry efforts of Pussyfoot Johnson.

Doubtless some men have been corrupted by prohibition. But the inclination was there, awaiting opportunity.

"Some people serve the devil for pay," remarked the Man on the Car, "but most of them work for the fun of it."

Lima Beane says the reason there is more joy in anticipation than in realization is that anticipation doesn't show the defects of the thing desired.

As a man grows older his idea of what constitutes youth changes somewhat and we have now reached an age where a maiden aunt and often looks to us like a debutante. —Bob Ryder, Ohio State Journal. —We had no idea you were that old (Bob)

REV. C.R. McNALLY TO TAKE CHURCH IN BOSTON

Former Resident of This City Who Has Been Distinguished Pastor in Winnipeg, Man.

Rev. Charles R. McNally, D. D., a former Frederictonian and for some years pastor of the First Baptist Church of Winnipeg has resigned to accept a call to the pastorate of the First Baptist Church at Boston, Mass. A recent issue of the Winnipeg Free Press in referring to the matter says:

"Rev. Charles R. McNally, D. D., pastor of First Baptist church has received a call from the First Baptist church of Boston, Mass., and has tendered his resignation to the board of the Winnipeg church to take effect Feb. 1. Dr. McNally has been pastor of the First Baptist church, Winnipeg for the past five years, having had in that time what is described by members of the board as one of the most successful periods in the history of the church. He is described as one of the best preachers in the city, one who has developed the work among the young people and in the Sunday school to a high degree and as leaving the church with subscriptions $2,000 and over above the church budget, with an increasing membership and a splendid women's department.

Dr. McNally is a graduate of Acadia university, Nova Scotia; of Newton Theological seminary with successful pastorates in his early years at Lowell, Mass., Brooklyn N. Y., and 10 years at New London Conn. For the past year he has been chaplain of the Winnipeg Kiwanis club and for the previous year chairman of the Winnipeg Ministerial association. He is now a member of the board of directors of Brandon college and a member of the board of the Baptist Union of Western Canada.

The Church to which Rev. Dr. McNally has been called is reported to be one of the largest and most important of the Baptist denomination in New England.

SPECIALISTS ARE TRACING TEETH TROUBLE

Baltimore, Jan. 22—Johns Hopkins specialists are conducting experiments which they believe will have a "profound influence on the breakfast table of the Nation."

They are seeking the cause of decay of the teeth. Through the feeding of rats in a laboratory, Dr. Clarence J. Grieves already has determined that diet is one of the chief factors of decay but the fundamental reason still is unknown.

No one knows what is the chemical, or other agency, which first breaks through the enamel and starts the trouble. If it is a chemical it is not known whether it is taken into the mouth from the outside; produced by a germ, or is a product of the body itself.

Professional Engineers.
