political interferences with the Canadence at this meeting tonight.

It opens with the following telegram from Mr. Meighen to Sir Henry dated Henry quotes the text of Mr. Meighen's message.) Sir Henry then adds: "In reply, I have to say that the administration of the Canadian National Railways has no complain whatever with respect to the attitude of the present government or indeed the preceding government in their relation to the National Railway System."

Mr. Meighen, following the reading of this correspondence with Sir Henry Thornton, spoke of the Hudson Bay Railway. "I am not going to enter into any competition of promises with the Mackenzie King government," Mr.
Meighen said, "they can beat me at that all around the bush, they have all the awards and belts and records in the world on the score of promises."

THE DOUGHNUT WORRIES ROME

Rome, Italy, Aug. 12—"When is a doughnut not a doughnut?" is a question occupying grave editorial writers in Rome today following a decree by the council of ministers ordering the use of war bread and banning cakes in an effort to conserve grain.

One of the items in the decree banishes henceforth a long list of pastries made of fine flour, but does not specify whether the doughnut is included.

The bakers intend to use flour made of potatoes and chestnuts while the ban lasts.

Five Men Taken Out Of Zinc Mine Under Great Difficulties

Men Were Trapped in a Pocket by a Fall of Rock —Fresh Air Was Supplied by a Fissure—Hope Had Been About Abandoned—Lives Saved by a Miracle.

(Special to the Daily Mail by the British United Press)

SALEM, Ky., Aug. 12—Five miners entombed in a zinc and spar mine here since last Thursday were rescued alive today by workers who had toiled incessantly to rescue them under most trying difficulties. The men were trapped in a pocket by a fall of rock, but a fissure supplied them with fresh air. Fresh water also ran through their place of entombment.

The men were rescued by Freeman Cobb, who crawled into the old shaft of the mine, through the mud and slush and met his brother, Randolph Cobb, and his brother-in-law Roy James, who had started to crawl out of the pocket. The two men were brought out first. He then went back after George Catillo, U. B. Wilson and Harry Watson, the remaining three men.

The men were in good condition, according to rescuers, but weak from lack of food and the chill air of the mine.

Hope Almost Given Up

Officials had almost given up hope of rescuing the entombed men alive. More than five hundred men worked day and night to reach them.

Five others who were in the mine when rock and water started pouring down, escaped by fleeing four hundred feet before the rush and climbing timbers to safety.

The crew had been operating a drill six hundred feet from the mine entrance and were believed to have punctured an underground lake from below. Rescuers said that through a fault running through the debris to the place where the men were caught by the fall of earth after the lake was punctured saved them.

current as long as the poles stand.

"Two miles of poles stretch through a picture," one citizen lamented. The electricity corporation refuses to re-
