AROUND

the TOWN

Those who have been looking for hot weather this summer will keep on looking but will no doubt look in vain. We are now past the middle of July with the days gradually becoming shorter, but there has been no brand of weather yet which by any stretch of the imagination could be called hot or either warm. If the weather man is unable to hand out something warm at this particular time, when everybody is in a receptive mood, he is going to have difficulty in doing so in August and September. About the only thing of a torrid nature that we are sure of this summer (or it may be autumn before it gets here) is an election, but it is scarcely likely that the mercury will conform to the temperature of the politicians.

Although the weather is far from being warm the ice man keeps steadily on the job, delivering the goods, and householders need look for no rebate in the bill because of the fact that the weather has been cool and sometimes chilly. The ice man stocked up last winter without knowing what kind of a demand there would be for his wares, and he has got to unload and cash in before the river gets sealed over again. As Mark Twain used to say people grumble about the weather but nobody does anything about it. As a matter of fact there is nothing which can be done; we have simply got to take things as they come.

While the weather is not exactly what it might be all must admit that it could be a great deal worse. It is certainly good growing weather and the farmers of the country and the amateur gardeners of the city will readily acknowledge. Not for years has there been less occasion to use the water sprinkler or the garden hose than has been the case this season. Scarcely a week has passed without some rain and the various crops have received the benefit. Garden vegetables are simply bouncing along and next month should see a big display of green stuff in the country market. Some of it ought to be fairly reasonable in price, but that depends on the demand and on who is doing the selling.

Farmers in some sections of the country have commenced haying and motorists are now able to whiff the odor of newly mown hay. This is the season for hay fever too, but in the absence of hot weather that ailment is scarcely likely to become epidemic this year. Some of the tourist literature tells us that there is no hay fever in New Brunswick, and that is probably the case. At any rate very little is heard about it and it is not much of a revenue producer for the country doctors, who are complaining of dull times. Hay fever has no bearing on the hay crop, which this year gives promises of being above the average.

Among those who journeyed from the rural districts to see Sparks' Circus last Saturday was Mrs. Joseph Manzer of Millville, who is now in her eighty-fourth year. There is ordinarily nothing very remarkable in anybody coming to town to see a circus, but the case of Mrs. Manzer was out of the ordinary as it was the first time in her more than four score years that she was privileged to attend a show of this kind. She gazed upon an elephant for the first time during the street parade of Saturday morning, and in fact all of the animals composing the menagerie were new to her. Mrs. Manzer attended the afternoon performance and thoroughly enjoyed every feature of it. There may be other people in the province past eighty years of age who have never seen a circus but the number cannot be very large. Had Manager Sparks or Eddie Jackson, his hustling press agent, known that there was an old lady in Fredericton last week who had journeyed fifty miles by auto to see her first circus it is safe to say that her ticket of admission would have cost her nothing.

City tax bills are due and payable on Thursday of next week, but of course there is nothing to hinder anybody so disposed from paying up before that date. The discount period however expires on Thursday and the average taxpayer naturally likes to hold on to his money as long as possible. The amount of the discount allowed for prompt payment is quite an inducement, but as the Mail pointed out last week it is first added on to the total assessment along with another five per cent to cover the cost of collection. The city really has no money to give away, so what looks like a discount is really a case of passing the buck to the taxpayer. He pays the whole shot, and if he is unable to rustle the cash and get around with it to the city hall before the discount period expires he will be privileged to pay interest on the net amount of his taxes plus the ten per cent which was added after the assessment was made up. The best plan in the end would seem to be to pay up, even if the wherewithal has to be borrowed.

The big drive for tourists inaugurated several months ago seems to have slipped a cog. An excellent committee of local business men was appointed and the understanding was that they were to be given a free hand to do things. An illustrated booklet setting forth the attractions of the city was to have been published, but it has not yet made its appearance and the tourist season is now well advanced. It is scarcely necessary to state that the local committee is not in any way to blame for the delay. Fredericton can easily take care of a lot more tourists than it has been getting so far this season. Possibly the cool weather may be accountable to some extent for the slackness in tourist traffic. Tourists in the United States make their plans quite early in the season and many of them get on the move as soon after the Fourth of July as they can arrange to get away. No doubt the improvement which the Provincial Government is now making to the Houlton road, will when completed be a big factor in directing tourist travel to this city. At present the largest stream of tourist travel which crosses the boundary at Calais continues on eastward and this section of the province sees but little of it. The Saint John Valley and North Shore points, with their wonderful attractions should get a much larger share of tourist travel.

People of mature years who occasionally visit the bathing beach are not very favorably impressed with the manner in which the building used as a dressing room is looked after. The building looks all right from the outside but the interior falls far short of being what such a place should be. There does not seem to be very much supervision over the place, and the youngsters who are the chief patrons are allowed to run riot. An occasional visit to the place by a member of the city council might result in steps being taken to bring about an improvement.

WOOL GRADING TO BE AGAIN AT LENNOXVILLE

this matter. The wool goes to that Association for grading.

Quality High.

The quality of the New Brunswick wool is high and ever since the cooperative method of collecting and grading was adopted has compared favorably with the product of other provinces. The quantity is small however. The general wool production of New Brunswick is not handled cooperatively but by the ordinary methods of the trade. The Province is considered to have great possibilities in wool growing.

PROVINCIAL AID FOR ROAD TO NEW MARYLAND

New Maryland themselves offered to donate teams and labor if the city would supply certain money and material.

No continued effort to place the whole stretch of road in condition was made however and it is in urgent need of attention.

It is understood that the offer of the Province will be in the vicinity of thirty-five or forty per cent of the total expenditure the city to furnish the balance. A policy of not aiding street and road expenditure within cities and incorporated towns had been announced on the part of the Province but the present case on account of the large area of university lands is exceptional.

PICTURE FAKING HITS A SNAG

London, July 17—Copies of the Murillos, Rubens and Velasquez in the Dulwich gallery will never be worked off an succeeding generations as originals, because the officials in control of the gallery will not permit artists to make copies on canvases the same size. The gallery is attached to Dulwich College. It was established in 1810 with pictures originally collected by a Polish King.

RELIEF IN SIGHT FOR TALL MEN BEDS LONGER

Chicago, Ill., July 17—Relief for tall men from short beds, low ceilings, short Pullman berths, short bathtubs and other inconveniences is in sight, says Benjamin Ostlund of Marshfield, Or., a visiting Elk, who stands 5 feet 4.

Mr. Ostlund, a prosperous lumberman, ascertains that there were more than 2,000,000 six-footers plus in the United States, organized and became the president of the Tall Man's Association and then began spreading a "tall" propaganda.

Through the organizations efforts Ostlund said hotels throughout the country have taken cognizance of the needs of taller men. One hotel has an entire floor built for tall men, with extra inches added every where from door jambs to bathtubs.

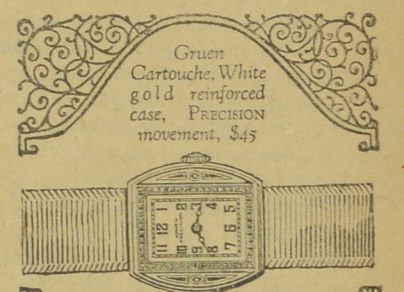

A conference recently with officials of the Pullman company virtually assured the addition of six inches to the two end berths in each sleeping car, he related.

Strawberry Prices.

By the crate strawberries sold for eight cents this morning for a time. As the day went on the price advanced. In the country market the retail price was 10 to 12 cents a box. The height of the season is expected next week.

Red Hot July Days Hard on the Baby

July—the month of oppressive heat; red-hot days and sweltering nights; is extremely hard on little ones. Diarrhoea, dysentery, colic and cholera infantum carry off thousands of precious little lives every summer. The mother must be constantly on her guard to prevent these troubles, or if they come on suddenly to fight them. No other medicine is of such aid to mothers during the hot summer as is Baby's Own Tablets. They regulate the bowels and stomach, and an occasional dose given to the well child will prevent summer complaint, or if the trouble does come on suddenly will banish it. The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Hay Loaders

The International Loader has rapidly made its way in Eastern Canada because of its strong durable construction and the conveniences which it possesses that are not found on other Loaders of this type. It is practically all steel which is a distinct advantage when it is necessary to leave the loader out of doors.

The adjustable carrier section permits the delivery end of the loader to be lowered about three feet. Thus when starting to load hay on a windy day with the gale sweeping across the rack, the hay is delivered directly to the man on the wagon where he can catch it before the wind has a chance to blow it off.
